SB 2016 – Proposal for Changes to Computer Science Major

Add CSCI 110 (Computing Foundations and Ethics) to provide overview of information technology majors and preparation for CSCI 111.

Add CSCI 325 (File Processing and Database Structures) (formerly CSCI 424, but course number changed in engineering proposal, Fall 2006) to include adequate coverage of database systems. Formerly an elective course.

Add CSCI 355 (Computer Network Architecture and Programming) to provide adequate coverage of computer networks.

Add CSCI 465 (Technical Aspects of Information Security) to address security issues. This is a new course and is described in Part I.

Reduce Electives from 15 to 6 because of the increase of core hours.

Make Math 131 the Foundational Studies math course to emphasize the mathematics requirements for the major.

Change CSCI 111 course name and description to better reflect the current course content.

Previous Course Name: Computer Science I
Previous Course Description: Introduction to structured programming and algorithms with an object-oriented language. Topics include input/output, flow of control, functions, and an introduction to software engineering. Programming assignments are required.

New Course Name: Introduction to Programming
New Course Description: An introduction to structured programming and algorithms. Topics include input/output, flow of control, functions, simple data structures, classes, and an introduction to software engineering. Programming assignments are required.

Change CSCI 112 course name and description to better reflect the current course content.

Previous Course Name: Computer Science II
Previous Course Description: Continuation of CSCI 111. Further development of discipline in program design, especially for larger programs. Introduction of pointers, simple data structures, recursion, internal sort/search methods. Programming assignments are required.

New Course Name: Advanced Programming
New Course Description: Continuation of CSCI 111. Further development of discipline in program design, especially for larger programs. Introduction of pointers, recursion, inheritance, polymorphism, exception handling, and internal sort/search methods. Programming assignments are required.

Change CSCI 340 course number to better reflect course content and it's intended audience of MIS and Web Technology majors.

Previous Course Number: CSCI 340
New Course Number: CMIS 340

Pre-requisite changes:

CSCI 111 Former pre-requisite: INFT
New pre-requisite: CSCI 110 and Math 121 or higher.

CSCI 112	Former pre-requisite: Math 121 and CSCI 111 or CMIS 212 New pre-requisite: CSCI 111
CSCI 325	Former pre-requisite: CSCI 215 New pre-requisite: CSCI 215 and Math 211 and Math 250
CSCI 342	Former pre-requisite: CSCI 215 New pre-requisite: CSCI 215 and Math 250
ENGS 375	Former pre-requisite: CSCI 215 New pre-requisite: CSCI 215 or CMIS 312
CSCI 415	Former pre-requisite: CSCI 342 or 443 New pre-requisite: CSCI 215 and Senior Status
CSCI 443	Former pre-requisite: CSCI 215 New pre-requisite: CSCI 342
CSCI 497	Former pre-requisite: Permission of instructor. New pre-requisite: CSCI 215 and Permission of instructor.
