Old Business

- SB0109-01 (Second Read) Department of History – New Course Proposal (Effective Fall 2009)

Course Description:

HIUS 390 History of Virginia—3 credit hours

A study of Virginia History from before the settlement of Jamestown to the present.

Prerequisite: HIUS 221 or 222

Rationale:

(From Proposal) The History Department has been considering adding a course on Virginia History for several years, but its Three Year Review in 2007-8 and NCATE report in the same year gave it renewed emphasis. The department found that it is one of the few History Departments in the state of Virginia that does not offer a similar course. Even more important, the department did a review of the Virginia Department of Education Standards of Learning for Social Studies in Elementary Schools and found that Virginia history is the curriculum for fourth graders. The department had no course or combination of courses that prepare Elementary Education majors with a Social Science concentration to teach Virginia history.

SB0109-01 PASSED

- SB0109-02 (Second Read) Department of History – Changes to History Major with International Studies Specialization (Effective Fall 2009)

Present:

Choose 7 – at least 2 from each group:

Int'l Policy Issues/U.S. Foreign Policy
GOVT 403, 425; GEOG 410; HIUS 370, 480

Third World
GOVT 338; HITW 471, 472, 441, 450

Modern Europe
GOVT 330, 332; HIEU 370, 380, 390, 450, 460, 485

Proposed (includes updated list of Third World Courses):

Choose 7 – at least 2 from each group, 4 must be history courses:

Int'l Policy Issues/U.S. Foreign Policy
GOVT 403, 425; GEOG 410; HIUS 370, 480

Third World
GOVT 334, 335; HITW 320, 441, 450, 460, 471, 472

Modern Europe
GOVT 330, 332; HIEU 370, 380, 390, 450, 460, 485

Rationale: The current requirements could allow a history major to graduate without taking a majority of history classes. The department believes that since a student is majoring in history, a majority of his/her courses in the International Specialization should be history courses.

The new list of courses under the Third World cluster reflects the most up to date list of courses that could fulfill that requirement.

Students currently majoring in Social Sciences do not have to take a capstone course like history majors. Adding HIST 490 – Senior Seminar (an existing course) would provide the department the opportunity to examine how prepared its Social Sciences majors are for graduation. Furthermore, with the university’s emphasis on assessment, the department needs a capstone course in each of its majors where it can meet its assessment responsibilities. Adding HIST 490 would provide that course for this major.

ECNC 213 – Principles of Economics I (Micro) will provide more depth in economics proper than either ECNC 110 and HIUS 360 and places emphasis on Free Enterprise, a key component of one of the History Department’s Learning Outcomes.

Adding GOVT 200 will strengthen the students’ backgrounds in the free enterprise system and constitutional government, key parts of the department’s Learning Outcomes.

With all of these changes, the total hours for the major will remain 120.

Rationale

All of the proposed changes originate from the History Department's 2007-8 Third Year Review and its 2007 NCATE report.

The History Department believes that its Social Science majors should take all of its survey offerings (GEOG 200, HIEU 201, HIEU 202, HIUS 221, and HIUS 222) as foundational courses. HIUS 222 is the only foundational course currently not required.

Students currently majoring in Social Sciences do not have to take a capstone course like history majors. Adding HIST 490 – Senior Seminar (an existing course) would provide the department the opportunity to examine how prepared its Social Sciences majors are for graduation. Furthermore, with the university's emphasis on assessment, the department needs a capstone course in each of its majors where it can meet its assessment responsibilities. Adding HIST 490 would provide that course for this major.

ECNC 213 – Principles of Economics I (Micro) will provide more depth in economics proper than either ECNC 110 and HIUS 360 and places emphasis on Free Enterprise, a key component of one of the History Department's Learning Outcomes.

Adding GOVT 200 will strengthen the students' backgrounds in the free enterprise system and constitutional government, key parts of the department's Learning Outcomes.

With all of these changes, the total hours for the major will remain 129.

Rationale

All of the proposed changes originate from the History Department's 2007-8 Third Year Review and its 2007 NCATE report. Furthermore, the changes are being recommended after consulting with Drs. Karen Parker and Michelle Goodwin from the School of Education.

After a careful review of the Virginia Department of Education Standards of Learning for the Social Sciences in Elementary Education, the department determined the old Core cluster of Social Science courses did not adequately prepare future teachers for meeting the SOLs. The new cluster provides greater breadth with its emphasis on foundational courses. This is particularly important in preparing teachers to teach in elementary school.

The department determined that one area of particular weakness was in Virginia History. The department has approved the creation of HIUS 390 – History of Virginia and added to this core sequence.
