VCAR is one of the fastest-growing programs at LU. The VCAR degree was made available in the fall of 2006 and started with 150 students. In one year, it doubled to more than 300 declared majors. Students can choose concentrations in Graphic Design or Studio Art, with 45 credit hours required. Minors are also offered. Classes range from the cutting-edge subjects of desktop publishing, digital imaging and 2D/3D animation, to the traditional arts of painting, drawing and sculpture.
