Dear Readers,

We are proud of this Journal and its continued growth. To date, the Journal of Statesmanship & Public Policy has been downloaded over 18,500 times in every inhabitable continent. This issue highlights the scholarly breadth of the Journal. From top-notch undergraduate work to doctoral research, this issue features peer-reviewed articles from our best students. In their articles, our authors discuss timely issues like security concerns with China and Russia, federal Native American Policy, and the importance of legal teleology in our public discourse.

The Journal's mission to explore topics in the realms of national security, international relations, domestic policy, and political philosophy from a deeply thoughtful, ethical, and Christian perspective remains unchanged. As our readership multiplies and our student involvement grows, we are more dedicated to this mission than we have ever been.

We are excited to continue to share that mission when we, along with the Helms School of Government, host our upcoming third annual public policy conference entitled "Promise of the Declaration: Building on the Legacy of 'Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness'" on April 12-13, 2023. Stay updated with conference news on Helms School of Government social media, and learn more about the event with this link.

This publication would not have been possible without the guidance of Dean Robert Hurt and Associate Dean Joel Cox. In addition, the help of Faculty Advisors Dr. Mary Prentice and Dr. Kahlib Fischer proved to be invaluable. Mr. Titus Pettman offered assistance as well. Additional insight was given by Associate Dean Jason Ross, and Administrative Online Dean Suzanne Caruso.

Special thanks to several faculty and staff editors, including Dr. Melissa Beaudoin, Dr. Dean Curry, Dr. Kahlib Fischer, Dr. David Holt, Dr. Timothy O'Brien, and Dr. Mary Prentice.

Special thanks to the Assistant Editors-in-Chief, Gracelyn Hedrick, Christian Butler, Lucy Lambert, and John Kebles; and the many student editors that helped along the way: Rachel Solsman, Giana DePaul, Ashley Gore, Savannah Snyder, Paul Prentice, Derartu Berrios, Sharon Higel, Faith Chudkowski, Lucas Curley, Natalie Cawston, Nicole Wellington, Madison Martin, and Travis Younce.

The Journal has many opportunities to stay engaged, including attending our upcoming conference or submitting to our next edition. Submissions for our next volume will open on February 15, 2023, and close on May 15, 2023. We routinely publish research articles (up to twelve pages single spaced) and book reviews (up to six pages single spaced).

We look forward to engaging with you in the new year!

Sincerely,

The Liberty University Journal of Statesmanship & Public Policy Editors-in-Chief
