Session Name: Ethical Dilemmas? Are you appropriately following the 2014 ACA Code of Ethics?

Location: Demoss 1338

Presenter(s): Dr. Patti Hinkley

This session will review the changes made in the 2014 Code of Ethics. The presentation will cover the background to the changes made in 2014 along with pointing out the specific changes made for both counselors as well as counselor educators. The presenter was trained at the 2018 ACA Conference to provide presentations or workshops on the Code of Ethics.

Additional Presentations:

Session Name: Worrywarts: Alleviating Anxiety through School Counselor Interventions

Location: Demoss 1362

Presenter(s): Dr. Summer Kuba

If unaddressed, childhood and adolescent anxiety can have a lasting negative impact on students’ social/emotional development, academic success and college/career readiness. School counselors play an integral role in addressing students’ mental health needs. Through evidenced-based interventions, school counselors can effectively promote the skills and attitudes necessary to cope and even overcome childhood anxiety disorders.

Session Name: The Stages of Change and the Stages of Group Counseling

Location: Demoss 1366

Presenter(s): Dr. Karin Dumont

This program will seek to enhance’ knowledge and use of the Stages of Change within each of the stages of group counseling. It will examine how to integrate appropriate Motivational Interviewing techniques within each stage of the group process.

Session Name: Getting Unstuck: Using the Conceptual Mapping Task as a Dynamic Supervision Tool for Trainees and Seasoned Counselors - Includes 1 CE hour

Location: Demoss 1368

Presenter(s): Dr. John King

The Conceptual Mapping Task (CMT) originated as a tool in qualitative counseling research. It has also been used in counseling supervision. In this session, the presenter will provide a real-life demonstration of the CMT with a supervisee, and then provide additional strategies utilizing the CMT as a counseling intervention.
Session 2 - 10:30-11:20 AM

Featured Session – Includes 1 CE hour

Session Name: The Opioid Crisis: What Counselors Need to Know

Location: Demoss 1338

Presenter(s): Dr. David Jenkins and Dr. Jonna Byars

The opioid epidemic has been declared a national emergency that resulted in nearly 50,000 opioid overdose deaths last year alone. Counselors can and should be meaningfully involved in response. This session will present current information about the opioid crisis and the addictive process generally, and then specifically focus on opioid addiction, treatment and recovery. The session will explore how counselors can effectively respond to clients who use opioids, including for pain management, and how education, prevention, and treatment are important ways counselors can respond to the opioid crisis.

Additional Presentations:

Session Name: Child Centered Play Therapy - Includes 1 CE hour

Location: Demoss 1366

Presenter(s): Dr. Christina Villarreal-Davis

This session will provide a summary of Child Centered Play Therapy and highlight the meaning of play, tenets for relating to children, child-centered theoretical concepts, therapeutic relationship, characteristics of facilitative responses, and therapeutic limit setting. This creative and informative presentation will engage participants through case examples and previously recorded sessions.

Synopsis

Understanding how society, race, culture, age, and developmental levels impact grief is key to being able to process grief and loss in a healthy manner. Contemporary grief models give clinicians a roadmap to assist them as they walk with their clients through their grief journey. This presentation will provide a brief overview of how mindfulness improves the function of the brain in ways that can improve concentration, awareness, and self-regulation. We will discuss how to apply mindfulness in the classroom.

Session Name: Using Hofstede’s Axes of Cultural Values as a New Way of Understanding Culturally Diverse Clients

Location: 1362

Presenter(s): Dr. Jerry Vuncannon and Dr. Angelia Dickens

Today’s multicultural focus utilizes many prescriptive approaches based on cultural groups and client preferences. However, these approaches may not account for individual differences within these groups. This presentation will introduce Hofstede’s Axes of Cultural Values which empower therapists, supervisors, and educators to understand culturally diverse clients in a new way.
Session 3 - 11:30-12:20 PM

Featured Session – Includes 1 CE hour

Session Name: Addressing Crisis in K-12 Schools

Location: Demoss 1338

Presenter(s): Dr. Rita Schellenberg, Dr. Justin Silvey, and Mrs. Kerry Bowles

The session will provide research-supported information needed to identify and respond appropriately to the needs of minors in crisis situations prevailing in our schools today such as self-harm (including eating disorders), suicide, and homicide ideation. Case studies will engage participants in interactive discussions that include ethical, legal, cultural, and professional aspects of decision making.

Additional Presentations:

Session Name Technology, Counseling, and the Autism Spectrum: Using Tech to Promote Growth and Healing with Autism Spectrum Clients - Includes 1 CE hour

Location: Demoss 1366

Presenter(s): Dr. Kevin Hull

Autism spectrum clients in counseling are challenging due to limitations in perspective taking as well as emotional/cognitive delays. Many autism spectrum clients use technology as a way to feel safe and relate to the world around them. Computer/tablet/video games have rich metaphors and themes that can help these young people understand themselves and the world around them and can be used to enhance self-representation and social, emotional, and cognitive growth.

Featured Session – Includes 1 CE hour

Session Name: Collaborative Care: Coordinating Services with Community Partners to Promote Client Wellness

Location: Demoss 1338

Presenter(s): Dr. Holly Johnson and Dr. Jeff Boatner

Research reveals that extra-therapeutic factors can contribute significantly to the wellness and stability of clients. Yet, many counselors have little experience or training in linking clients with supportive services in their community. This presentation provides attendees with information and strategies to promote a collaborative, multi-culturally sensitive approach to client wellness.

Additional Presentations:

Session Name: Successful College Transition: Supporting Students with Learning Differences

Location: Demoss 1362

Presenter(s): Dr. Laura Daniel

The purpose of this presentation is to provide information on support strategies to ensure high school seniors with diagnosed learning differences have a successful transition to the college setting. Information will include helping students to secure academic and mental health support, and ways to advocate for students beyond high school.

Session Name: Online Social Relationships: Ethical Considerations for Counselors - Includes 1 CE hour

Location: Demoss 1366

Presenter(s): Dr. David Brown

With the increasing popularity of social media, it is imperative that counselors understand the outcomes of relying heavily on the Internet for social connectedness. This program will review online vs. in-person relationships, consider social media’s influence on well-being and relationships, and discuss the role of social media and therapy.

Session Name: Collaborative, creative, and diversity celebrating case conceptualization: Working with counselees to map the journey ahead.

Location: Demoss 1368

Presenter(s): Dr. Lisa Sosin

Comprehensive assessment and treatment planning are the foundation of ethical and effective counseling (Sperry, 2012) and require sensitivity to counselee’s personal and cultural contexts (ACA Code of Ethics, 2014). In this presentation, attendees learn a creative way to conceptualize and plan the therapeutic journey that is collaborative and richly meaningful.
Featured Session – Includes 1 CE hour

Session Name: Clinical Supervision: Theory and Practice of Counselor Supervision
Location: Demoss 1338
Presenter(s): Dr. Steve Johnson and Dr. Melvin Pride

The session is designed to enlist, inform, and encourage clinical supervisors in their pursuit of ongoing competency development in supervising the next generation of professional counselors. This is particularly relevant for new site supervisors, faculty members who teach Practicum and Internship classes, and counselors who may be interested in becoming a site supervisor with Liberty University. Clinical Site Supervisors are expected to keep abreast with current topics related to ethics, legal and cultural issues, counseling related skills and professional development. This session offers resources for these topics along with some of the key supervision theoretical orientations that provide guidance in the supervisory process.
