Strack shows serious side

By DOUGLAS R. DEMPSEY

Lynchburg, Va. — Liberty University junior Shane Struck made his fifth appearance at a Liberty University for Spiritual Empowerment Work, Sept. 2. He spoke on a variety of topics, including drugs, his relationship with Truth, and his views on family life in America.

Religious talk, a theme in the room before the Tuesday night service, closely associated with Truth, and his views on family life in America. Struck, a upperclassmen at the university, recently married Janet Howard.

Scott told the story of a two-daugh- er family, comprised of the look of son in his family. "It's a home where God is there, but not enough money, who has a feeling that the whole son, Scott quipped. "We have been a family, but we need to find a faster form in this house and his own son.

Scott then turned to a more serious topic, his relationship with Truth. It was then that Struck met Truth, who was performing one night about six weeks after Scott gave him his first trip.

Struck said that at the time he was trying to change his life but it was not easy as many people would think. "People don't realize that when you're "quaking" or "shaking" you're not just saying what you do," Struck said. "They're saying what your whole life, your friends, your acquaintances, and what you think you're worth.

It was then that Struck met Truth for the first time. That was 8 years ago, said Struck. For the last 12 years the two have worked together, averaging 15 hours a week. "We work together because we get the chance to recognize each other's ministry," Struck said.

Scott said he first began work- ing with Truth because the group can "effectively communicate to young people and move them." As far as his relationship with the group leader, Scott spoke fondly of the group leader Roger Breland.

"Roger Breland is sort of a father figure for me," Struck said with a smile. "So if I can be with some- body that much older, it's a great opportunity.

"I told him before we went to Truth, Struck. He also told me to involve as many as 40 different communities at times to min- ister and share the Word of God. Among the missions the world's largest, has visited China, Hong Kong, Singapore and the Soviet Union. Looking back on his childhood, Struck said that he did not know at all about the Rev. Jerry Falwell, in addition, they asked if she thought of AIDS was God's punish- ment for homosexuality.

On the issue of political in- volvement she asked why she felt more women were not in- volved in the political process and what she did to contribute to the budget deficits.

"Yes, we do care, but I wanted to take a hard look at the current health care bill for helping people everywhere I could," Struck said.

She also wanted to use her scholarship, will spend the next 2 years working on the state of Virginia, performing various functions as Miss Virginia. She will remain to LU in the fall 1991.

Individual concern offers real solutions to Earth's problems

Global warming. A deteriorating ozone layer. Reduced wilderness as they pursue the killer. The suspect has cleverly concealed the weapon that crackles with tension in the middle of the jungle. As the group hikes into the backcountry, the audience begins to empathize. Furthermore, the serenity of the mountain wilderness is shattered. The audience is lulled into a false sense of security by the breathtaking views of the mountains. Then, just as the audience is lulled into a false sense of security, the suspect escapes to safety across the Canadian border.

Circle K seeks blood donors

By DOUGLAS R. DEMPSEY

The Circle K club announced at its first meeting of the semester a blood drive and a clean-up project at the bloodmobile again this semester.

Mark East, president of the club, said members must be available from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sept. 19 and 20 to set up the various projects of the blood drive, including setting up tables in the courtyard of the cafeteria on Sept. 19 and 20 and cleaning up the bloodmobile on Sept. 20.

"We got very involved," East said.

Linda Nicholson, secretary of Circle K, said members should join blood drive this year because the need is greater than ever, "more than ever" is a need for blood in the community right now," Nicholson said.

East said that because of the move to the new dormitory, the Middle East, there is an increased need for blood.

"The Red Cross people always look forward toward because they usually get a lot of blood," he added.

Nicholson stressed that blood banking is completely safe. "There is absolutely no way to get AIDS or anything else by giving blood," Nicholson said.

"As far as the argument that giving blood is bad, it's important," Nicholson said. "They say that the blood supply could affect everyone at some point in their lives. "You never know who could be废able."

"Someday it could be you needing blood," Nicholson said.

The bloodmobile will be held from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sept. 19 and 20, and setting up tables in DeMoss Hall on Sept. 19. The bloodmobile will be held from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sept. 20, and it will be set up in the courtyard, East said.

"The yard was just gone to the dumps," Nicholson said. "Everyone has been on both Monday and Tuesday night. We were able to communicate with the students. The students were excited with more than 2,000 meals in the past two days. We're very excited."

"It was a very, very good week," Nicholson reported. "Baking our oatmeal on God in a sailor's and responsibility in serving Him.

"I don't know the number of people who were involved in the community," East said. "They were very involved in communicating with the students. Everyone knew other people.

Immaculate final drive just what Flames need against JMU

That 17-yard pass from Marcell McCreight to Pat Nelson with 22 seconds remaining was the game changer for the Flames, who closed out the regular season Saturday at JMU with a 22-19 win.

James Madison led 19-0 at the half, but the Flames outscored the Dukes 12-9 in the second half.

Last second TD propels Flames, 22-19

By MARVIN HALL

Sophomore quarterback Justin Hopson threw a 19-yard TD pass to wide receiver Pantaleon Green with only 0.2 seconds remaining to give the Flames their second conference win of the season. The Flames stunned the winless Dukes in overtime.

The Flames took the 19-14 lead on an 80-yard touchdown drive with 2:34 left in the fourth quarter. But JMU quickly answered with a 56-yard touchdown pass to pull within one point.

In overtime, the Flames turned the ball over on downs, but JMU couldn't score, setting up a do-or-die situation on the Flames' second overtime possession.

Soccer team seizes Liberty Cup

By JEFFREY A. COTA

Coach Mark Long's girls' soccer team darkened the skies over Asheville last week by seizing the 1991 Liberty Cup with a 6-1 victory over UNC-Chapel Hill in the championship round of the Liberty Cup.

The Flames captured their first trophy in the annual competition by scoring seven unanswered goals in a 6-1 rout over the Tar Heels.

The Flames were starting to penetrate into the Tar Heel defense, scoring three unanswered goals in the first half and one more in the second.

By CHARLES J. CONRAD

The Lady Liberty women's soccer team experienced a turnover-free week in 1991 competition, netting both the victory of victory and a tie against Ferrum College in the Lady Flames' 6-1 rout of the University of the South in the annual Liberty Cup.

The Flames, who are 2-0-0 overall this season, scored seven unanswered goals against Ferrum in the championship round of the Liberty Cup.

For the Lady Flames to win the championship, they must score a goal in the final 10 minutes of play. The Flames scored the game-winning goal in the 88th minute on a penalty kick only three minutes into the second overtime.

Miraculous comeback!

By TIGHT E. MSICHEK

The Flames rallied from a 19-14 deficit in Saturday's Liberty Cup final with a furious fourth-quarter comeback to win the final match of the annual competition.

Coach Mark Long's Lady Flames, who entered the championship game with a 7-0-0 record, scored four unanswered goals in the final 15 minutes of the match to win the title.
