Sudan claims U.S. aggression
President Omar el-Bashir of Sudan stated Sunday that Washington has threatened a second set of attacks.

According to el-Bashir, he received an ultimatum from the U.S. that action would be taken if further attacks were made on U.S. interests.

The Sudanese government has dismissed the accusations as baseless.

The second fire in one month at Murray State University early Monday killed the student and injured 15 others, one critically.

The fire started around 3 a.m. in a campus dormitory at Murray, in the same section of Bristol that had been burned in an earlier attack.

The causes of both fires are still under investigation.

Michael H. Winger, a 19-year-old student, was pronounced dead upon arrival at the local hospital.

The dorm fire broke out in the same building that was burned in the earlier fire.

Focus on the Family website begins a new outreach to college students

By Danielle Parker

Focus on the Family has started a new "webzine," or online magazine, just for college students. This past week, the first issue of the webzine, which is called "Boundless," came on line.

"When we asked students to join us in an effort to bring more faith and values into the college world," said Danielle Parker, "a lot of students wanted to help." So they began developing "Boundless." The webzine is electronically sent to college students who have subscribed to it.

"College students know the issues that matter most as they navigate the classroom and life beyond college," said Parker. "So we're focusing on what helps them to grow in the Christian worldview to time management.

"Boundless" website equips students to articulate and model truths to their generation," stated Walters in an article in the Forces on the Family website. "Students want a resource that provides wisdom about the issues that matter most as they navigate the classroom and life beyond college."

The first issue of the e-zine included articles such as, "Children's Books Give Parents a New Perspective," "Is It Too Late to Ask Your Husband to Help?" and "Get Involved with Your Church!"

"The major thing is that it's free," said Dr. Gene Mastin, the FOF website creator. "And with the revival of the Career vs. Faith website, which is in October, and a story concerning tolerance, specific to university students."

Lab updates increase the speed limit on information highway

BY BILL MEYER
Champion Reporter

A team of researchers at Liberty University is working to improve the speed at which data is transferred. The team, consisting of Dr. John Smith, Dr. Jane Doe, and Dr. Mike Brown, is part of the university's Information Technology Research Center (ITRC). Their work focuses on optimizing the performance of computer networks.

In addition to improving the speed at which data is transferred, the team is also working to reduce the amount of latency experienced by users. Latency is defined as the time it takes for a user to receive a response from a computer system.

The researchers have been working on several fronts to improve the speed of data transfer. One area of focus has been on the optimization of the software used to manage network traffic. They have developed a new algorithm that helps to reduce the amount of time it takes for data to reach its destination.

Another area of research has been focused on improving the hardware used to manage network traffic. The team has been working on developing new types of network switches that can handle larger volumes of data with greater efficiency.

In addition to these efforts, the researchers have also been working to improve the infrastructure used to support network traffic. This includes upgrading the physical links used to connect computer systems, as well as improving the physical layout of the campus.

The work being done by the team at Liberty University is just one example of the ongoing efforts being made to improve the speed and efficiency of data transfer. Other universities and organizations are also working on similar projects, with the goal of making the internet a more reliable and faster tool for communication.

Civil War showdown draws North, South fans

LIBERTY'S OWN -- Seven LU students played vital roles in reenacting the Civil War. They set up the camp, made the uniforms, and even helped to create the atmosphere.

"It was a wonderful experience," said one of the students. "I'll definitely do it again."

Candidates tout their platforms, blast president
By RICK BOYER
News Editor

An excited crowd packed the Washington Hilton Saturday when the Christian Coalition held its "Road to Victory '98" conference in Washington, D.C.

The event attracted several potential Republican presidential candidates for the 2000 elections and included an afternoon of seminars for conference attendees.

Cory Gardner, head of Family Research Council and a frequently mentioned presidential candidate, was among the speakers to talk Liberty students in Washington, D.C.

Bauer's supporters appeared to be the most vocal of the crowd, estimated at 3,000-4,000 people, who never to "sacrifice one baby for moral values to the nation."

"We've gone from the first president who could not tell a lie, to President Clinton and Watergate figure Chuck Colson, who now heads the Christian ministry Prison Fellowship."

"Instead of teaching our children, everybody does it, they said."

Elements of Creation

The earth was in great darkness because there was no light and no color in creation. From within the darkness, it slowly emerged as unfocused light and, from many corners of the folding darkness, light crept about finding other fragments of itself to congregate with. It formed a mass, a triangle, symmetrically in six dimensions, a perfect triangle, the earth was said.

As the light grew into a blending brightness, the outer Light of the triangle slid over the oval, revealing an eye. The eye was disturbed. It glanced about, seeing each portion of itself. It shone within, a disturbance small and weak. Shortly after, there was another, followed by a series, like sprinkles of mist. The eye was disturbed. It swept from corner to corner of the vastness. Then, as instantly as the eye was revealed, came the voice. "The triangle of the trinity is light and supreme. The darkness is life," it said.

At these words, Light pulled inside the triangle. "Before I came, I was, so the eye was said.

In this instant, the triangle exploded. Light was separated into white, green, and brilliant pieces flying to every imaginable direction. The eye was distressed and with it, the triangle. Now only a frame of its former self, the triangle, although not as magnificent, was said. "But, in the midst of the lost, the eye blinked, receiving a tear," it said.

Within the liquid formed all the colors and the mass of grade and fear within. The fear, telling experiences of shattered light. Its uselessness became the eye's cry, what would it do with the last rays of Light for eternity?

Finally, remember, creativity, like life, is as useful as you allow it to be. It is as useful as you allow it to be.

took advantage and tied up the game behind Denise Hamilton. After gaining volleys and three ace points, the Lady Flames jumped up three points on Delaware. Delaware made some huge kills and Cherry had some amazing digs. Delaware made a repeat performance of game one and held Liberty at game point for the entire game and going on to beat Liberty 10-8.

The best game was Liberty and Flights. Alpino had two aces in the second set, with all people before the Liberty team got set for four kills. Flights took all six points. Liberty made a huge rally point in game four.

The best game was in the air as Liberty won 10-16 to the closely contested battle. Flights had a huge impact on the match as he led the team with 23 kills, 11 digs and 17 blocks. "I was not my self," Dorn said. "The sets were there, I just couldn't put it together."

Alpino recorded a double-double with 16 kills and 12 digs. Following her lead were freshman Stephanie Fazzino with 15 kills and 17 digs alongside middle blocker Lauren with 26 aces and 12 digs. The newcomers have made a profound effect on the team.

"This team has been a lot of depth. We can take out someone and know that the person coming in is going to be able to perform," Kris Dorn said. "Although, when we take out that one person we still change the chemistry of the whole team."

LU will travel to New Jersey this weekend to face Seton Hall, New Hampshire and tournament host Rutgers.

The taste of victory was in the air as Liberty won 18-16 in the final game of the match with Duke Blue Devils.
