Regents help campus grow

By Julleanna Outten, editor in chief

Chancellor Jerry Falwell has said it many times. The board of Regents must continue to support Liberty University and the college’s mission while at the same time receiving their financial support. The homecoming weekend of Oct. 20-22 is a wonderful time for alumni and students to come together.

Dr. Ron DeWitt, president of the Liberty University Board of Regents, visits with students and listens to Falwell. During the parade, the men’s basketball team won the spirit contest and rode in the float themed “God Bless the Flames Football Team,” but this season the band’s travel plans have changed just slightly from their normal routine, “It’s obvious that people are excited to come back, especially people with kids,” senior Chad Farnsworth said in reference to the time he and some friends took their kids to visit in the fall of 2008. “It was a wonderful experience for me to be in front of the world like this.”

"It was wonderful to see the area’s students to help the vision come to fruition.," Regent Fred Beason worked with students and listening to Falwell.

Marching band to travel to NY

The band will perform for a sold out crowd of 8,000 during the NY Giants vs. Atlanta Falcons game.

By Thirman Berry, assistant news editor

The Liberty University marching band will be performing at the NY Giants game in New Jersey next weekend. The band will be on the road Oct. 11-14.

This band will perform in its “Rivendell” during the pregame and halftime shows at the New York Giants vs. Atlanta Falcons game at MetLife Stadium on Oct. 6.

"Normal," the band travels to many games in which they work hard at keeping the crowd engaged. Seniors Sheila Hotz, Katie Selph and several other seniors have changed just slightly from their normal routine. "Chuck Finlay, president of the LU marching band, said. "We’re working the fans to do some sightseeing. The group plans to travel to the island, Liberty State Park and the Statue of Liberty. In New York City, students will have the opportunity to see Ground Zero, the Empire State Building and Times Square.

"I was excited," senior Alicia Hill said, "Competition is tough, but we want to be there for first place." Falwell reveals plans for Lu school of law

By Joanne Bolton, editor-in-chief

Chancellor Jerry Falwell announced in conversation on Friday the implementation of his vision to establish Liberty University’s first professional education school, the school of law.

"What really is a summons court (return date) before we filed suit," Beason told The Champion. "There is a new and innovative approach to the school of law which would provide new and unique opportunities for law students."

"We have added some new classes to make the law school more attractive to potential students," Beason said. "The new classes will be designed to meet the needs of both full-time and part-time students.

"There are also some additional classes in the law school which we hope will help to attract new students," Beason said.

"Thank you for your support of LU’s Law School," Falwell said. "You have helped us make this dream a reality."

More information on the law school plans will come in the next issue of The Liberty Champion.
TRBC, Falwell overturn state law

By Rebecca Berry, assistant news editor

Chesapeake's Jerry Falwell Jr. scored a major victory inAVOR.

According to The News & Advance, Falwell and Thomas Road Baptist Church are in the midst of building a new sanctuary in the city and 250 acres in the county.

Falwell thinks the ruling was a success. “The settlement agreement is exactly what we asked for,” he said.

The church reached corporate status in April 2002 after the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled in favor of TRBC, according to The News & Advance.

Now that they have won the challenge, Falwell Jr. said, TRBC can now borrow money, have religious freedom thanks to TRBC,” Falwell Jr. said.

“TRBC is a church, not the state,” he added.

In view of the significant events and foreign issues that have occurred over the past year, I was among the many who tend to take a close look at the Islamic culture and religion.

I learned about Dr. Brian's Modern Muslim Civilizations class last semester.
The experience of learning about what was submerged in a Muslim culture for a chosen student

For a week and a half, I stayed with a family, where I visited a number of foreign countries during a month-long European tour, but Turkey proved to be the most breathtakingly beautiful of any of them.

I believe that it's clear that in Turkey, they have the most hospitable and welcoming people we encountered on our trip.

As for its Islamic countries, Turkey is very liberal, meaning many are not as averse to attending in all forms of Islam. That fact proved best in the 1970s when Mustafa Kemal Atatürk, now revered as a national hero, brought about monumental reform in the nation and greatly modernized it.

As a student of Islamic civilizations, Turkey is today unique with an almost 100 percent Muslim population interlaced with a western taste and the Liberty University mission statement is a result of personal selfishness. So while the time he was speaking in...
Parents try so hard to do what's right for their kids. Sometimes, the pressure is too great. A couple in Lake City was charged recently for killing their 4-year-old adopted daughter in a fit of rage. Did Cassandra Kilpark die? Her parents found her dead in an unflushed toilet, unable to breathe. A few minutes of horror. The tragic story of little Cassandra is one that we should all remember, as it is a reminder of the destruction that love can bring.

Parents often want to do what's right for their kids, but sometimes, the expectations are too high. In the secular psychotherapy, there is a concept of the "strict, overbearing thumb of fate." This concept says that people are often punished for their sins, and that they are expected to be perfect. However, I disagree with this concept. I believe that people should be allowed to make mistakes and learn from them. Everyone makes mistakes, and it's important to learn from them.

Carolyn Towles: Teaching students to love literature

By Tara Hafey, reporter

One of the few English professors of the Lynchburg College faculty recently has a much more than her English classes. Ms. Towles, who teaches in the English department, says she has been teaching the English program for 10 years now. Her English classes are small, typically 20 students or less. Ms. Towles says she loves teaching because she gets to see the growth in her students over the course of a semester.

Ms. Towles says she has been teaching at Lynchburg College for 10 years now, and she says she has enjoyed every minute of it. Lady Flames pull out two close games

By Autumn Martin, reporter

The Flames’ senior stars stepped up in a big way providing a 2-0 victory over Birmingham Southern College on Saturday afternoon. Katie Woodrow and Sarah Gantner each had a goal in the game.

While the Flames (4-0-5) still looking for a consistent scorer up front, Defender Gantner is quietly filling the role. She scored her third goal of the year in the 230th minute of play. With the goal, she is leading the team in scoring.

"We’re a little disappointed that we haven’t scored more. We have had a hard working for­wards that are creating chances," Flanex coach Jerri Woodrow. "Woodrow took a quick shot that went into the net, it was kicked back by the goalie, and it went in from forward Michelle Smith. Davis took a shot that was blocked off and then eventually made it to Gar­ner. Garner cut that full inch back of the net to give Liberty a 1-nil lead."

In the 95th minute, Birmingham Southern (6-2-0) worked hard to get off a chances. They scored a second goal that eventually turned into a goal by Lynna Atkinson. Offi­cials ruled that Jaimie Alder, Oddsdottir settled the ball and kicked it into the left side of the net. That would be the first real chance the Panthers. The game turned into a double overtime for the Flames. Then, the Flames scored. After the shot, the only thing away was overtime.

Saturday night’s game between the Gardner-Webb Bulldogs and Liberty Flames was a tale of two teams. The Bulldogs were led by a strong performance from sophomore quarterback Justin Davis, while the Flames were led by a strong performance from senior quarterback Jerri Woodrow.

"We’re a little disappointed that we don’t have more chances. We have a lot of hard working for­wards that are creating chances," Flanex coach Jerri Woodrow. "Woodrow took a quick shot that was kicked back by the goalie."

I'm not sure what people were seeing. We have a lot of scoring chances.

"The Bulldogs scored early in the game and it was a nice win. We were a little disappointed."

Women's Basketball Coach Alan LeForce announced on Monday the hiring of Frank Moorhead as assistant coach. Moorhead was the head boys coach at Carolina Forest High School where he led the team to a 14-5 record for the 1997-98 season. Prior to his stint at North Myrtle Beach High School, Moorhead brings 20 years of coaching experience to the Lady Flames only sacked GWU quarterback Jeremy Martin once, and that ineffective pass rush gave Martin a lot of time to pick out his receivers. He completed 24 of 33 passes for 242 yards and also ran for a 20-yard touchdown. With the exception of a fourth-down screen pass late in the game, Martin always seemed to get his team the necessary yardage to keep drives alive.

"They're a pretty good team but as a defense, overall, we didn't play well," said U. T. Defensive back Ronald State. "That's what happens when you should make a play and you don't make it."

"Defensive Player of the Week award. Defensive Player of the Week award."

"We're just not tackling well," said Karcher. "We work on it every day, and we'll keep working on it, right now though our tackling is very poor."

"I think it's on me," Karcher said. "If we don't do our job, we're just not going to win."

Chris Phillips said. "It's coming a little bit with new players since we lost Becky. We're starting to feel a little more comfortable with it." Rudnick did not play again this week. They are hoping to have her back Monday against Wake Forest.

The Lady Flames hosted the UNC, 2-0 (set/revert), Chanticleers of Coastal Carolina. They were in four sets; the Flames defeated Birm in three games.

"McKeown has stepped up," Phillips said. "She currently leads the team in blocks per game at .59 digs and blocks in each of her five starts. But McKeown doesn't just put up the numbers; she calls out plays. McKeown is the second shortest player on the team at 5 feet 5, but for the shortest of her position, she's one of the Lady Flames other middle blockers who demands a lot of respect.

"We played well together as a team. We pulled it out," Phillips said. "We're not a possession team so we have to chase the ball a lot. As the game went on, our tiredness showed," Coach Price said. Since the Georgia tournament, the Lady Flames have won four of their last six matches including the Big South Conference championship.

"It's been a rough start to the season for the Lady Flames (1-3), but things are starting to turn around," Phillips said. "We've been struggling a bit. Our record isn't as good as I hoped it would be. I think we're improving with every game.
