Miss Liberty will be crowned

By Patty Schaefler

The ninth annual Miss Liberty Pageant will highlight homecoming weekend Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Multi-Purpose Center.

“Heart to Heart” is the theme of the evening, which is hosted by Roger Berland and the contemporary gospel music group Truth.

Bev Buffington, producer of the pageant, explained that a more elegant setting than last year will greet the audience. She explained, “The program will lend itself to more formal, less casual type of atmosphere.”

Six senior men will escort the contestants during the evening gown parade, and Miss Congeniality will be chosen early in the evening.

The judges, who come from all aspects of school life, will choose the five finalists and the student body will select Miss Liberty 1987.

Laurie McCauley, Miss Liberty 1983, will choreograph the routine throughout the pageant; and Gail Emerson Chiofalo, the reigning Miss Liberty, will crown the new queen.

A special reception follows the pageant in the Fine Arts Hall. Contestants, parents, and weekend guests are invited to attend.

Selection process began weeks ago

The selection of the contestants for the Miss Liberty Pageant began several weeks ago when each senior chose 10 names from a list of 162 eligible students.

The list included single young ladies who hold senior status and a cumulative grade point average of 2.75 or above.

Faculty members narrowed the students’ choices to the 24 who will compete for the crown.

Judges conducted interviews and observed contestants at receptions and during informal events last week.

They have chosen 10 semi-finalists based upon these observations; and the judges will choose five finalists based on stage rapport, poise and public speaking.

The judges for the event will be the Rev. Vernon F. Brewer, Jr., Joan Bryant, Mike Cargill, Danielle Combe, Jerry Edwards, Macel Falwell, Dr. William Gribbin, Louise Guilemots, Linda Hogan, Geoff Mather, Dr. Norbert Matts and Sandy Parks.

However, students will ultimately choose Miss Liberty.

Each will receive a color-coded ballot before the pageant. Senior votes count 4 points; junior, 3 points; sophomore, 2 points; and freshman, 1 point. The votes will be tallied, and Miss Liberty will be crowned.

Lynchburg will celebrate 200th birthday

By Robin Brooks

Lynchburg will officially celebrate its 200th birthday Thursday, Oct. 16, with a party at Lynchburg City Stadium. The celebration will feature a variety of entertainment, including the Sounds of Liberty.

Brock Field, executive director of the Bicentennial Commission, said that Liberty University has played a large role in the celebration.

“Liberty University and the ministers associated with it have been very helpful and extremely cooperative throughout the celebration in many different ways,” Field commented.

He explained that several faculty members serve on Bicentennial commissions.

Lundberg is also helping by providing the lighting and sound equipment for the celebration at Lynchburg City Stadium.

The Bicentennial parade begins at E.C. Glass High School at 2 p.m., and the entire procession will arrive inside City Stadium by 4 p.m.

The Sounds of Liberty will open the music portion of the evening at 7 p.m., and several area police officers will present the city charter to citizens at approximately 8:30 p.m.

The officers will run to Richmond to get the charter and run back for the ceremony.

The Royal Dukes Marching Band of James Madison University will perform during the grand finale, a huge fireworks display, which will last until 9 p.m.

“It will be much larger and much more spectacular than any that’s ever been done in the city,” Field promised.

He noted that the celebration is a people event. “The Bicentennial is the city’s, but it’s for the citizens,” he commented.

Field wants area college students to feel they are a part of the celebration. He explained, “They may not live in Lynchburg on a full-time basis; while they are here in Lynchburg, they’re part of the community, an important part of the community.”

More than 100,000 people are expected to attend the events, which are free and open to the public.

New telephone "super system" required planning, hard work

By Jennifer Steele

There's a new brain in the DeMoss Building, and it isn't a professor or a student with a 4.0 average. It's the "brain" or control center of AT&T's new System 85, a highly advanced fiber optic network.

The brain is more than just a phone call sortor and sender. Besides voice switching, it has the capability of handling data and video switching.

Currently, the system is connected to computer terminals in the office of records, administration building to computer terminals in the office of records, administration building and student affairs. In the future the system could be used to send video programs to classrooms.

Very few Universities in the country have such advanced equipment. Carl Schreiber, vice president of University planning and research, said.

A small fiber optic cable connects the main DeMoss "brain" switch to two remote switches, one in Dorm 17 and one in Dorm 13. Non-metallic sheathing protects the cable and eliminates the chance of damage from lightning.

Inside the cable is not copper wire, but 12 tiny strands of glass, each the size of a hair. The strands transmit light rather than electrical impulses.

"One of those strands can handle 900 campus phone calls simultaneously. The fiber optic backbone is the beauty of the system. It's a super system," Schreiber said.

This "super" system is also the system of the future. Since one glass strand handles 900 calls, the four Liberty employees, the four Liberty employees, and AT&T.

The planners studied various vendors and the assets of their phone systems.

Then in early 1986, Schreiber, Dr. A. Pierre Guillermin, Rick Hughes, former director of the physical plant, and Don Scholefield, electronics services manager, flew to the University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, Pa., where AT&T has installed about $15 million worth of voice, data and video switching equipment. The system installation was a joint research effort between the University of Pittsburgh and AT&T.

When the LU planners saw that the system they had dreamed of was a reality there, they decided to "change boats in the middle of the stream" and go with AT&T, Schreiber said.

The switch cost more than $1 million. "It's an awesome task."

"The efficiency of the new system will make it so good that we need to dig up the ground again years from now," Schreiber said. "But we can't have such advanced equipment.

Staff, faculty and students are asked to be patient if they encounter problems with the new system, Schreiber said. "It's an awesome task."
Benevolent fund begun to assist needy students

A special check was presented to Liberty University president Dr. A. Pierre Guillermin Friday by a Lynchburg man who hopes to assist with a fund for needy students.

H.W. Allen, manager of Wood Haven Apartments, presented a $700 gift to the university to serve as a base for a new benevolent fund, a project established to aid financially burdened students.

Fred Spearin, dean of commuting students, said the check would have a definite purpose in the new program.

"The fund is used to help students who might be in financial bind due to lack of work or a death in the family," he explained. "It’s basically for us to help those students with a severe financial problem in any way we can."

Allen, who described LU students as "really enjoyable," hopes the check will serve as a basis for future installments.

Debate team sponsors intercollegiate tournament

By Tim Pinkham

Liberty University will host its first intercollegiate debate tournament Oct. 17 and 18 with approximately 30 schools expected to compete.

According to Cecil Kramer, director of forensics in the Division of Communications, the tourney will offer three debate divisions: varsity, junior varsity and novice. Not every school will enter every division, so Kramer anticipates about 60 two-person teams participating.

Each team will debate six different opponents. Every team will have the opportunity to argue for and against opponents. Lvery team will have the opportunity to argue for and against opponents.

Schools from Pennsylvania to North Carolina will be coming, Kramer said, with many from Virginia. He would not name those competing because they have until Oct. 10 to officially register, but some "big-name" schools are expected.

An awards banquet will be held following the final. Trophies will be presented to the top four teams as well as the eight individuals with the most cumulative points. Dr. Jerry Falwell will hold a question-and-answer forum with all debaters after the banquet.

The following is the resolution being debated by all schools nationwide during the 1986-87 school year:

Resolved: That one or more presently existing restrictions on First Amendment freedoms of press and/or speech established in one or more federal court decisions should be curtailed or prohibited.

Hout appeals to LU football fans
By Deborah Wood

The LU Flames football team will be taking on Southern Connecticut in the annual homecoming game this Saturday, Oct. 14, and head coach Morgan-Hatt stressed the need for fan participation.

“We have a great student body, one of the greatest I’ve seen, and right now we need their help,” Hout said.

“What everyone needs to remember, myself included, is that this is a very young program. We are going to make mistakes, but we’ll get better every week,” Hout added.

Hout explained that while schools with quality programs are graduating 20 to 25 seniors per year, Liberty has only eight seniors and five juniors in its program. He also stated that LU will build a Division 1 winning team out of Christian men who not only were recruited for retention, but also for their testimonies.

Hout referred to the different teams scheduled to battle it out with the Flames this season. “They are a notch above us, but we are above many other schools. This is how we get good,” he said.

He also noted teams such as Notre Dame and Brigham Young, saying that they have a football tradition LU lacks. “But they started out just as we are. We’re building a tradition,” he commented.

Hout quoted Dr. Bob Jones, Sr., who stated, “Never sacrifice the future (permanent) on the altar of the immediate.” This, Hout said, should be stressed to the student body.

He then quoted Romans 5: 3-4, which states that tribulation produces patience, patience produces character and character hope.

“We’ve been on the road for a long time now, and our guys are looking forward to playing and winning in front of their student body, fans who will support them 100 percent,” he added.

“When we have established ourselves, tomorrow’s alumni will be able to look back and say, ‘I was there,'” Hout concluded.

Lady Flames drop match to UVa
By Michael Parker

Coach Sue Kelly of the Lady Flames volleyball team feels the Oct. 7 loss to the University of Virginia inspires her players to work harder and play with greater intensity.

The Flames were defeated in the first three sets 3-1, 3-15 and 8-15 knocking their record back to 11-15 in one of the poorer games of the season, Kelly said.

Although UVa dominated the Lady Flames in the first two sets Kelly commented, “We had a very nice rally in the third game, and they (the Lady Flames) started playing as they should play.”

She added that the blocking of Kari LeBlanc added a bright spot to the game.

Two attributes which Kelly feels are a stronghold for the Flames are their spiking ability and scrappiness, where the ladies fight for a lot of balls other teams would let go.

The team also uses the sport as a place to witness, on and off the court. They hand out tracts at many tournaments and use an honor code when referees do not see them commit a foul.

The Lady Flames will host the LU invitational on October 24-25, a tournament of all Division I teams which include Radford, Marshall, Charlotte, University of Maryland Baltimont Campus (U.M.B.C) and the sity of the District of Columbia.

Western Sizzlin’ STEAK HOUSES

By Jennifer Steele

The LU men’s and women’s cross country teams finished ahead of the pack Saturday, seizing top honors in the first NCAA Division 2 and 3 Virginia State Championship to be held on Liberty Mountain.

In men’s track LU took the overall win with 26 points. Roanoke College and Lynchburg College came in second and third with 75 points and 78 points, respectively. Points are gathered by adding up the ranks of the top five positions.

Roanoke College’s Dwayne Stover grabbed first place with a time of 26:09.

LU’s Ray McClanahan came in second with 26:12 while Doug Hollday followed in third with 26:27. Fifth place went to Mark Christopher with a time of 26:34 and seventh place fell to Gary Hill with 26:50. Brent Lawler took ninth place.

John Parks took 17th and Dave Fause took 21st with times of 26:57, 27:21 and 27:39, respectively.

Teams from 11 schools ran the 8,000 meter trail which started near the football practice field, wound through the ravine and ended on the baseball field.

The course is fairly hard and generally the times drop a bit, according to cross country coach Kenny McIntyre. The team has picked up State Championship wins five out of six years. Last year it lost by four points, Division 2 competition. In previous tournaments, 17 of 19 teams were Division 2.

“LU presently ranks 19th nationally in Division 2. ‘Our record has dropped statistically, but our guys are running as good as last year,'” McIntyre said.

In the women’s meet, LU captured first place with 18 points. Mary Washington came in second with 70 points and Norfolk followed in third with 95 points.

Annie Hout achieved an overall win with a time of 18:26, her fastest ever.

The rest of the team finished in the top 20 in the 5,000 meter competition against nine schools, the majority of which were Division 1 teams.

Pam Fauber came in second with a time of 18:50, her best time ever, while Lori Lingefelter took third with 19:00.

Monica Carmona followed fourth with 19:10, and Sue Stahl came in eighth with 19:50.

Teresa Duncan and Susanne Duncan grabbed places 10th and 12th places with times of 20:50 and 20:40, respectively.

Gail Fauber ranked 21st with 21:10, while Tracy Tidwel finished 16th with 21:10.

The women are presently ranked 10th in the nation in Division 2 competition.

Alumni top Flames, Falwell in annual game
The Oct. 4 issue of the Liberty Champion contained misinformation concerning three Flames wrestlers. The Champion should have stated that heavyweight Mike Hatch was runner-up in the NCAA Division 2 Nationals. Ron Frank ranked fifth in the National Junior Tournament wrestling greco-roman style. Also, Shaun Morely of Chesterfield, England, is a junior, not a freshman.

LU shuts out VMI; loses to JMU

by Dave Dentel

After traveling to VMI Oct. 8 and handily defeating the Keydets, 4-0, the Flames soccer team suffered a disheartening 3-2 overtime loss last Saturday to James Madison University, here on Liberty Mountain.

The victory and defeat brought LU’s record to 5-4-1. The Flames did battle with the Keydets at 1:17 in the second half when the ball was headed barely over the crossbar when the final whistle blew.

"It was a heartbreaker," LU head coach William Bell said. The officiating made the game additionally difficult. Bell added.

Still, he said, he was more pleased with the team’s performance against NCAA Division IAA JMU than he was with its performance Oct. 4 versus West Virginia Wesleyan.

During Saturday’s contest, Flames midfielder Tetteh displayed a hot foot, scoring both LU goals.

The first occurred 18 minutes into the game, on a free kick, but the ball was headed illegally out of the box before it could enter the net.

LU’s record to 5-4-1.

The turning point in the game occurred at 10:57 in the third period when Steven Phillips deflected off the side of his head a corner kick, but the ball was headed illegally out of the box before it could enter the net.

The second half began with an early in the second period. The Flames’ defense held firm, allowing only three missed shots-on-goal.

The All-Stars gave the Flames their third point of the game and teammate Jose Arviz combined the second two points in the second half. The Flames would go on to win 2-1.
