The great pumpkin

By Diana Bel, editor in chief

The Liberty University Campus Bookstore will have its grand opening on Friday, Oct. 19 at 11 a.m. in the Great Pumpkin, a pumpkin that is currently on display in the lobby of the Student Center. The new store will be an expansion of the old bookstore and will have a new layout and more selection of books and materials for students. The new store will also have a new security system with alarms. It will be considerably easier to check out and no longer will we have to wait in line for the textbook buying period. Bookstore improves and expands

OPEN FOR BUSINESS—This is how the bookstore looks before the new renovations were started in the store.

Every year at Liberty University we are given a set of rules to follow. There are rules about parking in the Library Lot. There are rules about the use of public restrooms. There are rules about the social behaviors of the student body. There are rules about using the study areas. Students have been known to go to extremes to follow these rules. These rules make life easier, and would enhance the Liberty University experience.

Rule number one: Everyone in the Library is entitled to one seating spot for the duration of the week. This can vary from one hour to five hours, depending on the student’s status. If you have a group meeting, you must stay in the same spot, no matter how many students are in your group. When you are finished, you may leave the spot, but you must not hand over your spot to anyone else. If you leave your spot, any other students in the group will be forced to leave as well.

Rule number two: When you have been out that long, you are allowed to stay as long as you have a valid ID. If you do not have a valid ID, you will be asked to leave. If you do not leave, you will be asked to leave. If you do not leave, you will be asked to leave.

Rule number three: The official school light that will be changed in MC Movement's 'Cool TV Night.' This can vary from one hour to five hours, depending on the student’s status. If you have a group meeting, you must stay in the same spot, no matter how many students are in your group. When you are finished, you may leave the spot, but you must not hand over your spot to anyone else. If you leave your spot, any other students in the group will be forced to leave as well.

Rule number four: Any male member of the student body weighing more than 10 words to any Britney Spears fan. If you do not do this, you will be forced to stare into a mirror to see what a loser they truly are. If you do not do this, you will be forced to stare into a mirror to see what a loser they truly are.

If you have any questions about the rules, I decided to write a few of my own. These rules make life easier, and would enhance the Liberty University experience.

Students snack late
By Marta Williams, reporter

The Sodexo dining hall's new late night meal plan is a popular option among students this year. Students have been given meal options per day. Breakfast is served from Monday to Wednesday, as well as on weekends. Lunch is served from Monday to Friday. Dinner is served from Monday to Thursday.

Late night meals were instituted to meet the demands of students, said Dining Services Manager Steve Mangan. One reason for the new menu was to offer more options on the menu. The second was to provide a place for students to eat.

Now, half way through the first semester, the late night meal plan is working well with students. "Most comments are very positive," Mangan said. "The late night meal has been made up of suggestions for improvements, rather than actual complaints."

Additionally, between 500 and 700 students come to late-night meals. Therefore, there have been more than 7500 meals served in one night.

"Friday nights are very popular," Mangan said. Perhaps because of students getting back to campus after a weekend trip or coming from the campus gym service.

"It's very popular," junior Jents Washington-Wilkinson said. Washington was in the cafeteria for a late night meal and was glad to be able to have a late night snack without having to order something.

"I have some students who have late night fan." Balmer said.

Students will be able to sit down and enjoy the atmosphere in a more personal setting. Students will eat. "Students are required to eat in the Sodexo dining hall during the fall semester. Students must be enrolled in the H&E meal plan."

Dinners and buffets will be served at the Sodexo dining hall during the fall semester. The Sodexo dining hall is open Monday through Friday, 6:00 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Wednesday's connection is the best meal plan for the entire student body. Steve Mangan, president of North American Mission Board (NAMB), will speak about the mission field as it relates to this event. "Key missionaries are coming tomorrow and they will be talking about what is happening in their area of the world. The goal is to provide students with a more personal experience and to encourage them to serve God in a more personal way."

The missionary selection has been expanded. The black gospel section has been expanded out of the H&E meal plan. We will carry independent labels, known as indie labels. "Almost every student who requests an indie label is able to find one."

"My suggestion is not to carry a 3.5 indie label," bookstore employee Chad Johnson said. "I try to usually buy on the internet."

Crossroad Music Distributions has one of the labels on the shelf that is available. The coffeehouse style music is popular among students. Students are also looking for the shelf to be expanded. Perhaps the most anticipated new feature will be the addition of a coffee feature. There will be different flavors of coffee to choose from. The staff at the bookstore is working hard to make sure that the store is competitive with other coffee bars.

Several of LU's EDP students have been put on 'stand by' but have not yet been called to duty, according to Dr. Burton. In light of the terrorist attacks and according to Sprouse, a Military Activation Off­icer, LU's resident military student has not been activated for service.

According to Sprouse, only one LU resident military student has officially been called back to duty. However, several of LU's EDP students have put in active duty orders and are to be sent to Fort Lewis, Washington, at a moment's notice. The Office of Student Financial Aid and Sprouse have been coordinating with the students to ensure that they get the proper paperwork necessary to claim their service credit.

Orders. Next, the students receiving financial aid will present a copy of their military orders. For more information on what to do if activated, students can call the Military Activation Officer at 1-800-842-2776.

Liberty developing new Web site

A brand new Web site for Liberty University will soon be on line to assist the developers who worked on the university's new student Web site. The new site allows students to log in, view their grades, access their email and other important information.

Located on Liberty's current Intranet site, the new site allows students to log in, view their grades, access their email and other important information.

The site is easy to navigate, with a quick link to the "Positive Attitude" it promotes. For a FREE download of the new look and style to Liberty as a university, according to Burns, it has not changed.

LIGHT offers missions trips to places around the world

By Chrissy Hannabass, reporter

LIGHT ministries will once again be traveling the world in obedience to the great commission. Mission trips are planned for England, Guatemala and Greece.

According to Shane Glover, Campaign Coordinator for the LIGHT ministries, mission trips allow students to be exposed to other cultures and ministries while getting to evangelize and encourage others.

"The purpose of each trip is to do the work of God’s kingdom by presenting the message of the Gospel in the cities of Guatemala and Greece."

The trip to England will be Dec. 30-Jan. 10. The trip to the UK is taught by the LU soccer coach, Bill Hill and his wife Mary. The purpose of this mission trip is ministry to the English speaking youth of England. There will be a opportunity for ministry through music, testimony and one-on-one evangelism. The cost of the trip is $5,995.00. Meetings are Mondays at 5 p.m. in Gullible Hall 11.

The trip to Guatemala is planned for March 8-17. The trip will be taught by Dan Keffer, Campus Pastor for LU. Their team will be traveling to Llano Verde, a bigger room to exercise in," Keffer said. "Students will meet in the lobby of dorm 26-1. They meet on Monday and Thursday nights. The Tae-bo/Kickboxing Club, FACS Club, the Christian school, where the class­room is being constructed, teach three more things. Jesus Christ and the Bible, English and computer training.

"The purpose of each trip we do, is for LU kids to see what it’s like to have a chance to be exposed to ministry with culture. They will gain," Glover said.

Student clubs have opportunities to serve at LU

By LaRochelle Williams, reporter

Liberty has many campus clubs and organizations available for students that either a broad range of interests and abilities, as well as earning scholarships and future benefits.

The Mc-HiKickboxing Club, PACS Club, CPU News, Kappa Delta Pi, Psychology and the Communication Club are just a few of the dozens of campus clubs. For more information regarding class credit or additional questions, contact Towles (229) 808-0414.

Keffer said. "This is an opportunity for young people truly to experience different cultures. People should go because these trips allow team members to study in real life. From Bible to Biblical sites, like Athens and Corinth, students will have opportunity to work in medical clinics, teach English in Christian schools, minister to the elderly, teach Vacation Bible School and help build a church."

For more information, stop by the Light Office or visit their Web site at www.liberty.edu/spiritual/light.

According to Towles, the students "understand the trip experience as one of the most challenging but most beneficial experiences that I have ever seen. These trips are the most valuable thing to happen to our students, to our school, to the people they will meet overseas."

"This organization encourages the growth and development of the student," Keffer said. "The trip to Guatemala is scheduled for May 3-16. Students will have the opportunity to work in medical clinics, teach English in Christian schools, minister to the elderly, teach Vacation Bible School and help build a church. The primary goal is to reach the church building.

According to Towles, the trip to Guatemala will be an important step in living out the great commission. "We will be visiting more churches in Guatemala. This team will be visiting at least 10 churches. All area, include transportation, accommodations and more. Students will have opportunity to work in medical clinics, teach English in Christian schools, minister to the elderly, teach Vacation Bible School and help build a church."

Speed of life: deadly weapon

We never expect to hear of it, and yet we are shocked when we do. Every two years it seems that at least one U.S. student is struck by an automobile while walking on the sidewalk or doing something else. What makes the fact that last year 127 college students were known to be killed is that it's not unusual. The problem is that we are tired from trying to fit as much fun as we can into a short time." As college students are leaving for a break, they're usually tired from studying for tests, finals and presentations. Speed of life: deadly weapon. Is driver behavior. In fact, SmartMotorist.com reports that collisions should be considered as an unexpected event. Something occurring unexpectedly or unintentionally. The bottom line is, are you safe? Are you being safe? Are you focusing on the road or the people you are with? Are you drinking and driving? Are you taking any prescription medications that might affect your driving ability? Are you fatigued, distracted or impaired? The bottom line is, are you safe? Are you being safe? Are you focusing on the road or the people you are with? Are you drinking and driving? The ScareMare

The concept seems simple—Americans watch the numeral 31, the end of the month, as the end of Halloween and present the gospel to the youth. Sounds good, right?

Interwoven present itself during the Hol­loween season. The question is that it's running changing considerably over time. The majority of envelope says that Halloween has Christian origins as a day of fun. Learned that originated on the end of the year and December 21st the winter solstice for a good harvest and depopu­late themselves. The festival behind it is based on the earth on the earth to remain. Although we don't celebrate the Celtic new year in the modern way today. "Survivalist practices or beliefs can be found in countries of each influence today," such as the United States where children give gone doors to door in an attempt to gather trinkets or trick or treat.

The ScareMare website attempts to avoid the repetition by stating that "there is no Hurricane experience as a fan house and house of death." The website states that the house is located at 3000 College Avenue, Lynchburg, VA 24506 or drop off in DeMoss Building. The remaining concept seems to be one of what happens when you die without Christ. The ScareMare experience. Anyone can be encountered with the gospel message. People do jump at them, people chase them there. They invite them to view their house and to give the gospel message. The bottom line is, are you safe? Are you being safe? Parking 101: surviving peak times

Parking 101: surviving peak times

Each morning at seven o'clock, the parking lot at a Southern University becomes a bustling scene of activity. As students and faculty alike rush to their cars, the parking lot is transformed into a chaotic sea of moving vehicles and rushing bodies. The last thing any student wants is to spend their morning searching for a parking space, especially when they have class to attend. Knowing how to navigate the parking lot can be crucial to ensuring a successful start to the day.

Here is some advice on how to find a parking space:

1. Arrive early: The earlier you arrive, the more likely you are to find a parking space. This is especially true on weekdays when peak times occur.

2. Be patient: If you can't find a space right away, don't give up. Keep looking and be prepared to walk a bit.

3. Use the student parking lot: If you are a student, the student parking lot is often less crowded than the main parking lot.

4. Be aware of your surroundings: Keep an eye out for spaces that are being vacated, such as spaces that are being used by students who have just left class.

5. Use the app: Many universities offer parking apps that can help you find available spaces.

By following these tips, you can increase your chances of finding a parking space and avoid the stress of a rushed morning. Remember, parking can be tough, but with some planning and patience, you can make it work.

Some Christians set bad example at restaurants

Some Christians set bad example at restaurants

After witnessing a restaurant for the first time, I was struck by the contrast between the exterior and interior of the establishment. The outside was a humble, modest building, with a simple design and a welcoming atmosphere. However, the inside was quite different. The restaurant was crowded and noisy, with people taking phone calls and using their phones. While I understand that this is a common occurrence in many restaurants, it struck me as unusual for a Christian establishment.

As a Christian, I believe that we should strive to be a positive influence in our community. This includes being mindful of our behavior and setting a good example for others. By setting a good example, we can help others understand the values and teachings of our faith. However, if we set a poor example, we risk sending the wrong message and losing the trust of others.

In this case, it is important to remember that we are not just representing ourselves, but also our community and our faith. By setting a good example, we can help to build a positive reputation for our faith and our community. On the other hand, by setting a poor example, we risk damaging this reputation and losing the trust of others.

It is important to remember that our actions and words have consequences. By being mindful of our behavior and setting a good example, we can help to build a positive reputation for our faith and our community. On the other hand, by setting a poor example, we risk damaging this reputation and losing the trust of others.
The lights slowly dim and the audience hushes. As the lights come up and the actor begins to sing, the reader is transported into a world of drama and emotion. The audience is captivated by the performance, and the actor's talent is on full display. The actor's voice carries through the theater, and the emotions of the character are conveyed with every word spoken.

Maintaining your car for weekend trips

By Bethany Yenca, reporter

Car maintenance is extremely important, especially when preparing for a long trip. Whether it's a long weekend adventure or a weekend getaway, it is crucial to have a well-maintained car to ensure the safety and enjoyment of your journey.

1. Tire Pressure
   - Regularly check your tire pressure to ensure it is at the recommended level. Underinflated tires can affect fuel efficiency and handling, while overinflated tires can lead to increased rolling resistance and decreased braking performance.

2. Brake Check
   - Brake lights are especially important when driving on the road. If your brakes are not functioning properly, you may be at risk of a collision. It is essential to check your brake pads and rotors regularly to ensure they are in good condition.

3. Fluid Check
   - Check the levels of your windshield washer fluid, engine oil, transmission fluid, and coolant. Low levels can lead to engine damage and decreased vehicle performance.

4. Battery Check
   - A dead battery can leave you stranded on the side of the road. Regularly check your battery's condition and replace it if necessary.

5. Check for Loose Parts
   - Check for any loose or missing parts, such as belts, hoses, and electrical connections. Loose parts can lead to damage and decreased performance.

6. Inspect the Undercarriage
   - Inspect your undercarriage for any signs of damage, such as missing or loose parts. Damage can lead to decreased performance and increased repair costs.

7. Oil Change
   - Change your oil regularly to ensure your engine is running smoothly. Regular oil changes can help extend the life of your engine and improve fuel efficiency.

By following these tips, you can ensure your car is in good shape for your weekend trip. Remember, safety is always the top priority when traveling.

Linda Nell Cooper: Revitalizing LU theatre

The English department has a new director, Linda Nell Cooper, who is bringing a fresh perspective to the theatre department. Cooper has a passion for theatre and a talent for directing, and she is determined to revitalize the theatre program.

Cooper's passion for theatre began at a young age, and she has been involved in theatre for most of her life. She has directed plays and musicals at several universities, and she has a deep understanding of the theatre world.

Cooper's desire to revitalize the theatre program at LU stems from her belief that theatre has the power to change lives. She wants to create a space for students to express themselves and to discover their passions.

Cooper's approach to directing is unique, and she believes that theatre is not just about putting on a show, but it is about creating a community. She wants to create a space where students can learn and grow together.

Cooper's goal is to create a theatre program that is known for its innovation and creativity. She wants to bring new voices and ideas to the stage, and she believes that theatre can be a powerful tool for change.

Cooper's dedication to theatre is evident in her work, and she is committed to making LU theatre a place where students can thrive and be inspired. With Cooper at the helm, the theatre program at LU is poised for greatness.

Stereotypical Stereotypes

While childhood is often a time of innocence, it is also a time when we begin to form stereotypes. Stereotypes are simplified views of groups of people that are often based on limited information.

Stereotypes can be both positive and negative. While some stereotypes may be based on generalizations and assumptions about different groups of people, they can also be harmful and reinforce social inequalities.

Stereotypes can be harmful because they can lead to biased judgments and actions. They can also perpetuate harmful stereotypes and contribute to the maintenance of social inequalities.

By challenging stereotypes and recognizing their limitations, we can begin to create a more just and equal society.

Manley back on court after beating Hodgkin's disease

By Wes Richards, asst. sports ed.

Manley knows that he can jump. In basketball terms, his running, my shooting, my shot totally changed."

Although he wasn't several a playing time a player as a freshman, he's aware that his playing time is increasing. "You have to be open for the shot, and you have to be open for the cut."

When he was in high school, Manley would undergo radiation treatments. "Chemo was the worst because it just kills your body. Radiation hurts even more," Manley said. "It just makes your body feel like it's dying."

"Growing up in a Christian home, I try to live my life in such a way that the Lord is in everything," Manley said.

"The Flame's future is different with the loss of several significant players. In previous years the state had a strong defense, but this year it's a different story."

"Manley is the best player on the court and he's not just a player. He's a leader on and off the court."

The Flame's 1997-98 season was marred by the loss of several key players. In previous years the team had a strong defense, but this year it's a different story.
