Operation Christmas Child: Project gives toys to the needy

By Richard Gretsky

To many Americans, a shoebox is a discarded item, a remnant of a pile of shoes that cost $5 or $10, or over $100. The worth of these boxes is irrelevant to many.

“For simply; a shoebux is good for little except throwing in the trash. But when that box is filled with toys and other small gifts, it becomes a treasure chest that can bring Christmas joy and the love of God to needy children,” Franklin Graham, President of Liberty University, said in a brochure.

“Operation Christmas Child is important because it helps needy kids in countries that are war-ridden,” said Samantha’s President, Representative, Kelly Britton. She added that shoeboxes are delivered to over 100 countries around the world, even in those that are in the midst of the conflict, such as Iraq and Afghanistan.

“The ministry had a wide-ranging affect throughout the past ten years, delivering over 24 million boxes of Christmas cheer to children across the globe.” According to the website, Operation Christmas Child delivered over 10 million shoe boxes to children in 95 countries last year. Its goal is to involve over 24 million children, each giving to a child who may then be sent out in time for Christmas.

“Operation Christmas Child negative is that it helps to encourage children in other countries to get involved in this international ministry by going to the Champion office in DeLand 215d and picking up a shoe box,” Representative Ryan Brimm. She added that shoeboxes are delivered to over 100 countries around the world, even in those that are in the midst of the conflict, such as Iraq and Afghanistan.

“Operation Christmas Child is important because it helps needy kids in countries that are war-ridden,” said Samantha’s President, Representative, Kelly Britton. She added that shoeboxes are delivered to over 100 countries around the world, even in those that are in the midst of the conflict, such as Iraq and Afghanistan.

“The ministry had a wide-ranging affect throughout the past ten years, delivering over 24 million boxes of Christmas cheer to children across the globe.” According to the website, Operation Christmas Child delivered over 10 million shoe boxes to children in 95 countries last year. Its goal is to involve over 24 million children, each giving to a child who may then be sent out in time for Christmas.

“Operation Christmas Child is important because it helps to encourage children in other countries to get involved in this international ministry by going to the Champion office in DeLand 215d and picking up a shoe box,” Representative Ryan Brimm. She added that shoeboxes are delivered to over 100 countries around the world, even in those that are in the midst of the conflict, such as Iraq and Afghanistan.

“Operation Christmas Child is important because it helps needy kids in countries that are war-ridden,” said Samantha’s President, Representative, Kelly Britton. She added that shoeboxes are delivered to over 100 countries around the world, even in those that are in the midst of the conflict, such as Iraq and Afghanistan.
The Price is Right

By Chris Price

"Instead, find something to compliment them on. If you can't think of something, you may quote lyrics from the super group Chicago. It may go something like this: "I was thinking (insert name here) that you're the meaning in my life, you're the inspiration."

My last column that I wrote, for those of you who did not read it, I was adviser for people that are in a relationship. I think it was truly a ground-breaking piece of journalism, as did Dr. Phil who emailed me his congratulations, and mentioned something about how I have revolutionized the way people will think about relationships for years to come. However, I realized that I left out a large majority of the readers of my column when I talked about a relationship. This is why I have decided that I leave out a large group of people who did not read it, was advice for people that are in a relationship, and I will mention a few people that have written to me for advice.

1. Brush your teeth all day long. This is crucial. Don't wash until right before the date. Waiting until right before the date is like trying to just out the wildlives in California with a Super-Sucker. Too little too late. When you first wake up in the morning, your mouth tastes and smells like various woodland creatures hibernated under your tongue only right before the date is like trying to put out the fire. You're not too hungry, I don't want to spend a lot of money. For the rest of you guys who don't care, it's all right. For girls, this is crucial. Don't wash your mouth until you leave us to go to him. We almost encourage it. Then every guy in America will understand if you wash your mouth.

2. Pick out something to wear. For girls, this is crucial. If you can't think of something, you may quote lyrics from the super group Chicago. It may go something like this: "I was thinking (insert name here) that you're the meaning in my life, you're the inspiration."

4. Keep your eyes focused on your date. Guys I don't care if Beyonce, Britney and the Olsen twins all walked in to the restaurant together, act like you didn't even notice. Same for you girls. If Tim Croix, Leonardo Dicaprio, and Justin Timberlake all came in, act if it could care less. Only this exception to this rule if Brad Pitt happens to walk in. Then every guy in America will understand if you look at us to go to him. We almost encourage it.

5. Do not make plans for your future together on the first date. There is no need to have baby names and where you want to honeymoon all listed up by the end of your first date. Liberty couples are not the same.

Planning ahead usually goes something like this: You meet at the first party. You are engaged by the end of Saturday's first night. One of you kids pops the question; then you do the same. For the rest of you guys who don't care that much, get help. Have someone with decent taste tell you if you look okay. This may save you years from wearing your "Don't worry be happy" sweatshirt with acid washed jeans and work boots.

3. Guys find something sweet to say when you come. However, I realized that I left out a large majority of the readers of my column when I talked about a relationship. This is why I have decided that I leave out a large group of people who did not read it, was advice for people that are in a relationship, and I will mention a few people that have written to me for advice.

5. Do not make plans for your future together on the first date. There is no need to have baby names and where you want to honeymoon all listed up by the end of your first date. Liberty couples are not the same.

Planning ahead usually goes something like this: You meet at the first party. You are engaged by the end of Saturday's first night. One of you kids pops the question; then you do the same. For the rest of you guys who don't care that much, get help. Have someone with decent taste tell you if you look okay. This may save you years from wearing your "Don't worry be happy" sweatshirt with acid washed jeans and work boots.

3. Guys find something sweet to say when you come. However, I realized that I left out a large majority of the readers of my column when I talked about a relationship. This is why I have decided that I leave out a large group of people who did not read it, was advice for people that are in a relationship, and I will mention a few people that have written to me for advice.

5. Do not make plans for your future together on the first date. There is no need to have baby names and where you want to honeymoon all listed up by the end of your first date. Liberty couples are not the same.

Planning ahead usually goes something like this: You meet at the first party. You are engaged by the end of Saturday's first night. One of you kids pops the question; then you do the same. For the rest of you guys who don't care that much, get help. Have someone with decent taste tell you if you look okay. This may save you years from wearing your "Don't worry be happy" sweatshirt with acid washed jeans and work boots.

3. Guys find something sweet to say when you come. However, I realized that I left out a large majority of the readers of my column when I talked about a relationship. This is why I have decided that I leave out a large group of people who did not read it, was advice for people that are in a relationship, and I will mention a few people that have written to me for advice.

5. Do not make plans for your future together on the first date. There is no need to have baby names and where you want to honeymoon all listed up by the end of your first date. Liberty couples are not the same.

Planning ahead usually goes something like this: You meet at the first party. You are engaged by the end of Saturday's first night. One of you kids pops the question; then you do the same. For the rest of you guys who don't care that much, get help. Have someone with decent taste tell you if you look okay. This may save you years from wearing your "Don't worry be happy" sweatshirt with acid washed jeans and work boots.

3. Guys find something sweet to say when you come. However, I realized that I left out a large majority of the readers of my column when I talked about a relationship. This is why I have decided that I leave out a large group of people who did not read it, was advice for people that are in a relationship, and I will mention a few people that have written to me for advice.

5. Do not make plans for your future together on the first date. There is no need to have baby names and where you want to honeymoon all listed up by the end of your first date. Liberty couples are not the same.

Planning ahead usually goes something like this: You meet at the first party. You are engaged by the end of Saturday's first night. One of you kids pops the question; then you do the same. For the rest of you guys who don't care that much, get help. Have someone with decent taste tell you if you look okay. This may save you years from wearing your "Don't worry be happy" sweatshirt with acid washed jeans and work boots.

3. Guys find something sweet to say when you come. However, I realized that I left out a large majority of the readers of my column when I talked about a relationship. This is why I have decided that I leave out a large group of people who did not read it, was advice for people that are in a relationship, and I will mention a few people that have written to me for advice.

5. Do not make plans for your future together on the first date. There is no need to have baby names and where you want to honeymoon all listed up by the end of your first date. Liberty couples are not the same.

Planning ahead usually goes something like this: You meet at the first party. You are engaged by the end of Saturday's first night. One of you kids pops the question; then you do the same. For the rest of you guys who don't care that much, get help. Have someone with decent taste tell you if you look okay. This may save you years from wearing your "Don't worry be happy" sweatshirt with acid washed jeans and work boots.

3. Guys find something sweet to say when you come. However, I realized that I left out a large majority of the readers of my column when I talked about a relationship. This is why I have decided that I leave out a large group of people who did not read it, was advice for people that are in a relationship, and I will mention a few people that have written to me for advice.

5. Do not make plans for your future together on the first date. There is no need to have baby names and where you want to honeymoon all listed up by the end of your first date. Liberty couples are not the same.

Planning ahead usually goes something like this: You meet at the first party. You are engaged by the end of Saturday's first night. One of you kids pops the question; then you do the same. For the rest of you guys who don't care that much, get help. Have someone with decent taste tell you if you look okay. This may save you years from wearing your "Don't worry be happy" sweatshirt with acid washed jeans and work boots.

3. Guys find something sweet to say when you come. However, I realized that I left out a large majority of the readers of my column when I talked about a relationship. This is why I have decided that I leave out a large group of people who did not read it, was advice for people that are in a relationship, and I will mention a few people that have written to me for advice.

5. Do not make plans for your future together on the first date. There is no need to have baby names and where you want to honeymoon all listed up by the end of your first date. Liberty couples are not the same.

Planning ahead usually goes something like this: You meet at the first party. You are engaged by the end of Saturday's first night. One of you kids pops the question; then you do the same. For the rest of you guys who don't care that much, get help. Have someone with decent taste tell you if you look okay. This may save you years from wearing your "Don't worry be happy" sweatshirt with acid washed jeans and work boots.

3. Guys find something sweet to say when you come. However, I realized that I left out a large majority of the readers of my column when I talked about a relationship. This is why I have decided that I leave out a large group of people who did not read it, was advice for people that are in a relationship, and I will mention a few people that have written to me for advice.

5. Do not make plans for your future together on the first date. There is no need to have baby names and where you want to honeymoon all listed up by the end of your first date. Liberty couples are not the same.

Planning ahead usually goes something like this: You meet at the first party. You are engaged by the end of Saturday's first night. One of you kids pops the question; then you do the same. For the rest of you guys who don't care that much, get help. Have someone with decent taste tell you if you look okay. This may save you years from wearing your "Don't worry be happy" sweatshirt with acid washed jeans and work boots.

3. Guys find something sweet to say when you come. However, I realized that I left out a large majority of the readers of my column when I talked about a relationship. This is why I have decided that I leave out a large group of people who did not read it, was advice for people that are in a relationship, and I will mention a few people that have written to me for advice.

5. Do not make plans for your future together on the first date. There is no need to have baby names and where you want to honeymoon all listed up by the end of your first date. Liberty couples are not the same.

Planning ahead usually goes something like this: You meet at the first party. You are engaged by the end of Saturday's first night. One of you kids pops the question; then you do the same. For the rest of you guys who don't care that much, get help. Have someone with decent taste tell you if you look okay. This may save you years from wearing your "Don't worry be happy" sweatshirt with acid washed jeans and work boots.
Sounds like you got this college thing down.

beyond its teal-framed door.

tiny dark hands of three young Iraqi diers on gold trays carried by the outside to be able to hold what was expectedly comfortable for the six sparsely it was warm and unexcity that no longer thrived, but
Soldiers make local ties in Iraq

An offering of peace was deliv­
This dinner affair seemed rather

This dinner affair seemed rather

An Iraqi hadji locates his convenience store near army barracks, selling goods to soldiers. Some hadjis have shown hospitality to the Americans by inviting them to their homes for dinner and a little down-time.

SETTING UP SHOP—An Iraqi hadji locates his convenience store near army barracks, selling goods to soldiers. Some hadjis have shown hospitality to the Americans by inviting them to their homes for dinner and a little down-time.

An offering of peace was deliv­
This dinner affair seemed rather

Though the house was decorated sparingly it was warm and unex­
city that no longer thrived, but
Soldiers make local ties in Iraq

An offering of peace was deliv­
This dinner affair seemed rather

Though the house was decorated sparingly it was warm and unex­
city that no longer thrived, but
Soldiers make local ties in Iraq
PASSION: students gather for the experience

Continued from page 1

At the end of his sermon silence reigned for a few minutes as students prayed and worshipped God through their prayers.

"My favorite part was when it got quiet and I really expected an outburst and I was surprised. I have kids at home and I want to be in church more, but I don't usually get to hear. Because of tonight my whole semester is going to change," freshman Marya King said.

The night ended with high energy songs that got the students moving. Everyone had their arms in the air and they were clapping and dancing to the music. They were clap­ping to the music and how it needs to be sung and sang at the top of their lungs.

"I liked the grand finale where everybody joined together and we were all celebrating," freshman Zach Smith said. Prior to the concert students got together for a prayer vigil. Many students fasted and many (100 students showed up outside DeMoss near the fountain with Bibles in hand. They split off into groups and walked around and through the buildings, reading favorite passages and praying for God to bring revival to Liberty's campus.

"I'm praying for a mighty movement of God on this campus and for God to move in power and for the revival to come to the stu­dents. As long as we have two people, we know the power of God can be there," Cindy Wilcox, who works for the Center of Worship.

The concert tour had left a prayer chain in their wake. Giglio explained that every city Passion had been to was praying for the next city on the tour. Just as Boston had prayed for Lexington, Giglio asked the students to be praying for Potosi’s next stop in Indianapolis on Friday night.

Also because Passion is all about ministry, Giglio emphasized students to be praying for a possible con­cert to be held in New York City next summer. Passion is trying to raise money so that the event can be free and their ministry can grow to include the thousands of students in New York.

After the concert, Giglio, Hall and Tomlin headed to the New Life Christian Bookstore for an approved late night ministry which allowed students to meet the band. Giglio spoke briefly and Tomlin gave a special encore.

The first thing about the tour, other than Charlie sut­tered last night and it's not over every night before I go to sleep, is seeing the faces of the students smile after night, from coast to coast. We've literally been from LA to Boston now, and we've seen the intensity of a gen­eration that's really catch­ing a vision of what it means to go after God with all their heart," Giglio com­mented.

"We are seeing life into­to a new generation. I just love it because it's eternal," Hall said. The heart of the Pas­ tion Tour is to college stu­dents.

"I'd tell all the college kids one thing. It'll be to make your life count. Everybody wants to make their life count and every­body's trying to figure out how to make your life count. Life comes most when you make life count for the thing that's ulti­mate. And I believe the thing that's ultimate is God and His glory," Giglio said.

After the organized question session, students approached the guys for autographs, pictures and for more requests about anything. Students were all thrilled to see them in person.

"We've been completely blessed by the night and left in high spir­its. As far as concert com­ments King said as she walked away, “It's the best thing we've had for this semester!”

at the concert, the concert tour had left a prayer chain in their wake. Giglio explained that every city Passion had been to was praying for the next city on the tour. Just as Boston had prayed for Lexington, Giglio asked the students to be praying for Potosi’s next stop in Indianapolis on Friday night.

Also because Passion is all about ministry, Giglio emphasized students to be praying for a possible con­cert to be held in New York City next summer. Passion is trying to raise money so that the event can be free and their ministry can grow to include the thousands of students in New York.

After the concert, Giglio, Hall and Tomlin headed to the New Life Christian Bookstore for an approved late night ministry which allowed students to meet the band. Giglio spoke briefly and Tomlin gave a special encore.

The first thing about the tour, other than Charlie sut­tered last night and it's not over every night before I go to sleep, is seeing the faces of the students smile after night, from coast to coast. We've literally been from LA to Boston now, and we've seen the intensity of a gen­eration that's really catch­ing a vision of what it means to go after God with all their heart," Giglio com­mented.

"We are seeing life into­to a new generation. I just love it because it's eternal," Hall said. The heart of the Pas­ tion Tour is to college stu­dents.

"I'd tell all the college kids one thing. It'll be to make your life count. Everybody wants to make their life count and every­body's trying to figure out how to make your life count. Life comes most when you make life count for the thing that's ulti­mate. And I believe the thing that's ultimate is God and His glory," Giglio said.

After the organized question session, students approached the guys for autographs, pictures and for more requests about anything. Students were all thrilled to see them in person.

"We've been completely blessed by the night and left in high spir­its. As far as concert com­ments King said as she walked away, “It's the best thing we've had for this semester!”

JAZZMAN’S hosts grand opening

By Jeremy Broggi

CONTRIBUTING REPORTER

Round of jazz music pieces filled the ILSC last week as the university celebrated its grand opening. Though Larson has been singing students since earlier this semester. Tuesday's celebration, which was sponsored by the ILSC, featured the official opening of the coffee shop and snack bar. Jazzman's provided free punch and pastries for all who attended.

Although the Liberty University Jazz Ensemble was not able to perform at the ILSC grand opening, as were several other jazz groups including the University Jazz Ensemble and also the chorus master of the Roanoke Symphony Chorale, said Dr. Hugo the department chair of Fine Arts.

Hugo works with the students until they are ready to perform, then during the concert David Wiley takes over. "He does the actual directing of the choirs during this event," said Hugo.

The concert will start at 8 p.m. and will last about two hours. The first hour will be a performance by the Concert Choir, including the performance of the popular "Fields of Gold.

The Concert Choir consists of about 60 people and the Roanoke Symphony Chorale has about 80," said Hugo. Though the Liberty University Concert Choir is not the only choir to get the privilege of singing with the Roanoke Symphony Chorale, it is one of the choirs that gets to sing with them the most. The reason for this is not all attributed to the connection with Hugo. "It is true that I have a connec­tion with both choirs, but if we weren't good, we wouldn't get that oppor­tunity," said Hugo.

"We are proud to sing with the symphony. We get to do it as often as the students are so good," said Hugo proudly about the Concert Choir. The Concert Choir gen­erally sings with the sym­phony about once a year, and Hugo calls it a proud feat of the choir that they hope to keep up for as long as possible.

If you can't make it all the way to Roanoke to hear the choir perform, there will be on campus per­formance on December 11 in DeMoss Hall 1123/1124 at 7 p.m. Admission for the concert is free. This performance will consist of the Liberty University Concert Choir and the University Chorale.
Dr. Bruce K. Bell, Dean of the School of Business and Government, is currently arranging an exciting and first-time impacting trip for the fall spring of 2004.

"We have exactly 186 days until we meet at Dulles Airport," Bell said in his 3:30 meeting last Wednesday. "And as of 5 p.m. today, all seating capacity for the trip is officially taken."

The group will first fly to Zurich, Switzerland on Sunday, May 3, where they will take in the breathtaking Alps, and then drive down to Venice via private motor coach. After Venice, the group will visit other beautiful Italian sights in Rome, Florence and Pisa. When they are done with Italy, they will visit sites on the French Riviera and then finish their tour in Paris. After a two-day stay in Paris, the group will finally depart for home and arrive in Dulles Airport on Friday, May 28.

"I've always dreamed of going to Paris," Cheryl Tindley said. "I've been thinking of going to film school over the summer, but with this trip I'm thinking of even going to film school over the summer." The group will stay in Paris, the group will finally depart for home and arrive in Dulles Airport on Friday, May 28.

"I've always dreamed of going to Paris," said Dr. Steven Lazo. "We're really looking forward to the journey. Bell has his three mantras of publicity. I'm bringing both my mother and my sister on this trip," said student Marta Lazano. "We're really looking forward to the sightseeing that we are going to experience." Students who wish to sign up for this trip will have to go on a waiting list. Flights for the next trip have not yet been booked, however, Bell has already started planning for the trip in 2005.

The group will include 186 students from the School of Business and Government. The group will visit other beautiful Italian sights in Rome, Florence and Pisa. When they are done with Italy, they will visit sites on the French Riviera and then finish their tour in Paris. After a two-day stay in Paris, the group will finally depart for home and arrive in Dulles Airport on Friday, May 28.

The group will first fly to Zurich, Switzerland on Sunday, May 3, where they will take in the breathtaking Alps, and then drive down to Venice via private motor coach. After Venice, the group will visit other beautiful Italian sights in Rome, Florence and Pisa. When they are done with Italy, they will visit sites on the French Riviera and then finish their tour in Paris. After a two-day stay in Paris, the group will finally depart for home and arrive in Dulles Airport on Friday, May 28.

I'm bringing both my mother and my sister on this trip," said student Marta Lazano. "We're really looking forward to the journey. Bell has his three mantras of publicity. I'm bringing both my mother and my sister on this trip," said student Marta Lazano. "We're really looking forward to the sightseeing that we are going to experience." Students who wish to sign up for this trip will have to go on a waiting list. Flights for the next trip have not yet been booked, however, Bell has already started planning for the trip in 2005.

"I'm bringing both my mother and my sister on this trip," said student Marta Lazano. "We're really looking forward to the journey. Bell has his three mantras of publicity. I'm bringing both my mother and my sister on this trip," said student Marta Lazano. "We're really looking forward to the sightseeing that we are going to experience." Students who wish to sign up for this trip will have to go on a waiting list. Flights for the next trip have not yet been booked, however, Bell has already started planning for the trip in 2005.
Weighing in

The Republican Party’s political upheaval

Last week Americans went to the polls in an off-year election, which served more as a barometer for the greater political climate than a substantial political contest. There in Virginia’s 23rd district, Steve Newman prevailed, echoing the growing ubiquity of the Republican Party, which despite the approval of national democrats, has yet to do more than break even in the minds of the general public. In truth, not only are Americans divided evenly on party affiliation, but the differences between the two parties that they affiliate themselves with has grown. This polarization of American politics raises serious questions over the fate of the Bush administration.

The Pew Research Center reports significant Republican gains in party allegiance in 13 states. Six of which are historically swing states, neither given to Republicans or Democratic candidates. These states, one of which is Florida, are often decisive in winning national elections. Thus while Democrats have maintained party affiliation in traditionally Democratic states, Republicans have made gains not only in their own states, but those which could go either way, evening the score for what could be a close match in 2004.

In fact, the Pew poll places President Bush in a dead heat with an unnamed Democratic candidate for presidency. Two factors, however, may stand to hurt the Democrats more than the Republicans. It is his sort that have voted for every Democratic President who has run for reelection. Miller insists. “I was born a Democrat. I have voted for every Democratic President who has run since 1962.” Yet Miller joins some of his fellow party members in refusing to support the Democratic presidential candidate. It is his sort that have led a Democratic Party, which has more party-liners but perhaps less voters than Republicans. It is this sort, which would vote for a true Democratic presidential candidate over Bush, but fail to find one which fits their ideals.

As a result, should the Democratic Party continue to pitch left, the Bush administration may offer a better representation of America’s overall beliefs, leaving the future of a national party up to the modernization of men outraged over their lack of control, knowing that their lack of control has driven them farther from moderation.

The Pew Research Center for the People & Colmes” show. Reactions such as his exemplify the feeling among some Democrats that their party may no longer truly represent them.

While the actual change in the number of partisan Democrats may not be significant, the voice of leaders such as Miller only reinforces the idea that the Democratic Party is on the way out. Miller has written a book entitled “A National Party No More,” which outlines his belief that the Democratic Party is still left, ignoring the values of this home state and much of the South. I have no intention of switching parties,” Miller insists. “I was born a Democrat. I have voted for every Democratic President who has run since 1962.” Yet Miller joins some of his fellow party members in refusing to support the Democratic presidential candidate. It is his sort that have led a Democratic Party, which has more party-liners but perhaps less voters than Republicans. It is this sort, which would vote for a true Democratic presidential candidate over Bush, but fail to find one which fits their ideals.

As a result, should the Democratic Party continue to pitch left, the Bush administration may offer a better representation of America’s overall beliefs, leaving the future of a national party up to the modernization of men outraged over their lack of control, knowing that their lack of control has driven them farther from moderation.

The Pew Research Center for the People & Colmes” show. Reactions such as his exemplify the feeling among some Democrats that their party may no longer truly represent them. While the actual change in the number of partisan Democrats may not be significant, the voice of leaders such as Miller only reinforces the idea that the Democratic Party is on the way out. Miller has written a book entitled “A National Party No More,” which outlines his belief that the Democratic Party is still left, ignoring the values of this home state and much of the South. I have no intention of switching parties,” Miller insists. “I was born a Democrat. I have voted for every Democratic President who has run since 1962.” Yet Miller joins some of his fellow party members in refusing to support the Democratic presidential candidate. It is his sort that have led a Democratic Party, which has more party-liners but perhaps less voters than Republicans. It is this sort, which would vote for a true Democratic presidential candidate over Bush, but fail to find one which fits their ideals.

As a result, should the Democratic Party continue to pitch left, the Bush administration may offer a better representation of America’s overall beliefs, leaving the future of a national party up to the modernization of men outraged over their lack of control, knowing that their lack of control has driven them farther from moderation.

The Pew Research Center for the People & Colmes’ show. Reactions such as his exemplify the feeling among some Democrats that their party may no longer truly represent them. While the actual change in the number of partisan Democrats may not be significant, the voice of leaders such as Miller only reinforces the idea that the Democratic Party is on the way out. Miller has written a book entitled “A National Party No More,” which outlines his belief that the Democratic Party is still left, ignoring the values of this home state and much of the South. I have no intention of switching parties,” Miller insists. “I was born a Democrat. I have voted for every Democratic President who has run since 1962.” Yet Miller joins some of his fellow party members in refusing to support the Democratic presidential candidate. It is his sort that have led a Democratic Party, which has more party-liners but perhaps less voters than Republicans. It is this sort, which would vote for a true Democratic presidential candidate over Bush, but fail to find one which fits their ideals.

As a result, should the Democratic Party continue to pitch left, the Bush administration may offer a better representation of America’s overall beliefs, leaving the future of a national party up to the modernization of men outraged over their lack of control, knowing that their lack of control has driven them farther from moderation.

The Pew Research Center for the People & Colmes’ show. Reactions such as his exemplify the feeling among some Democrats that their party may no longer truly represent them. While the actual change in the number of partisan Democrats may not be significant, the voice of leaders such as Miller only reinforces the idea that the Democratic Party is on the way out. Miller has written a book entitled “A National Party No More,” which outlines his belief that the Democratic Party is still left, ignoring the values of this home state and much of the South. I have no intention of switching parties,” Miller insists. “I was born a Democrat. I have voted for every Democratic President who has run since 1962.” Yet Miller joins some of his fellow party members in refusing to support the Democratic presidential candidate. It is his sort that have led a Democratic Party, which has more party-liners but perhaps less voters than Republicans. It is this sort, which would vote for a true Democratic presidential candidate over Bush, but fail to find one which fits their ideals.

As a result, should the Democratic Party continue to pitch left, the Bush administration may offer a better representation of America’s overall beliefs, leaving the future of a national party up to the modernization of men outraged over their lack of control, knowing that their lack of control has driven them farther from moderation.

The Pew Research Center for the People & Colmes’ show. Reactions such as his exemplify the feeling among some Democrats that their party may no longer truly represent them. While the actual change in the number of partisan Democrats may not be significant, the voice of leaders such as Miller only reinforces the idea that the Democratic Party is on the way out. Miller has written a book entitled “A National Party No More,” which outlines his belief that the Democratic Party is still left, ignoring the values of this home state and much of the South. I have no intention of switching parties,” Miller insists. “I was born a Democrat. I have voted for every Democratic President who has run since 1962.” Yet Miller joins some of his fellow party members in refusing to support the Democratic presidential candidate. It is his sort that have led a Democratic Party, which has more party-liners but perhaps less voters than Republicans. It is this sort, which would vote for a true Democratic presidential candidate over Bush, but fail to find one which fits their ideals.

As a result, should the Democratic Party continue to pitch left, the Bush administration may offer a better representation of America’s overall beliefs, leaving the future of a national party up to the modernization of men outraged over their lack of control, knowing that their lack of control has driven them farther from moderation.

SpeakUp: What Christian band/artist do you want to see at LU?

"Third Day because you can tell they have a heart for the Lord and love what they’re doing."—Morgan Cornell, Fr. Hidgewood, Del.

"Caedman’s Call because I just like the band; I love their music whenever I have a bad day. Plus, I want to hear them play live."—Matt Rittenhouse, Sr. Bethlehem, Penn.

"Riley Armstrong because he is such a fantastic performer—his a fun guy and a great Christian."—Christina Olson, Sr. Wilkes-Barre, Penn.

"Chevelle because they were the best band at Ozzfest."—Abbey Smith, Jr. Manassas, Va.

"David Phelps. If he’s going to be my future husband then I’m going to have to meet him sometime!"—Shane Webster, Jr.

"Mike Muller because he’s a former-he’s a fun guy and a great Christian."—Megan Correll, Fr.

"Riley Armstrong because I like the band."—Jon-Marc Lyttle, Grad.

"Riley Armstrong because he is such a fantastic performer—his a fun guy and a great Christian."—Christina Olson, Sr. Wilkes-Barre, Penn.

"Riley Armstrong because he is such a fantastic performer—his a fun guy and a great Christian."—Christina Olson, Sr. Wilkes-Barre, Penn.
Illegal Immigration is Hurting America

The American political economy is not the subject of this article, but the increment theory is a reality. The middle class, those who are not legally employed in the United States, are being squeezed by the Internal Revenue Service. Some Hispanics may be surprised to hear such a claim. Despite the decrease in the middle class, many more illegal aliens are a threat to the national security. Politically, because of these factors, the continual influx of illegal residents must be thwarted.

The overwhelming majority of illegal aliens is a compli­cation that is hurting America. Many Americans are opposed to any sort of illegal immigration. They would not be the country it is today had the United States not been able to attract a large number of immigrants who have no legal rights. Moreover, illegal aliens are a detriment to the American society, private and public.

illegal immigration is a subject with many different areas. Many Americans are hostile to those who are illegal immigrants. The nation has never been friendly to those who are willing to migrate to our country. The American political economy and immigration have to pay much higher wages and lawfully immigrated to the United States. Illegal immigrants are not citizens, and they have to pay to the government. The regulations of immigration are as strict as possible. Those who live in neighboring Oregon or Nevada have to pay much higher tax to attend the college's state and much more to the Internal Revenue Service. Some Hispanics are not in favor of immigration. However, a majority of illegal aliens is a complication I found that illegal aliens are a detriment to the national security, and many other areas. America is confused and uninterested about the immigration topic. However, a majority of illegal aliens is a complication that is hurting America.

The overwhelming majority of illegal aliens is a compli­cation that is hurting America. Many Americans are opposed to any sort of illegal immigration. They would not be the country it is today had the United States not been able to attract a large number of immigrants who have no legal rights. Moreover, illegal aliens are a detriment to the American society, private and public. It is apparent that illegal aliens are not citizens, and they have to pay much higher wages and lawfully immigrated to the United States. Illegal immigrants are not citizens, and they have to pay to the government. The regulations of immigration are as strict as possible. Those who live in neighboring Oregon or Nevada have to pay much higher tax to attend the college's state and much more to the Internal Revenue Service. Some Hispanics are not in favor of immigration. However, a majority of illegal aliens is a complication I found that illegal aliens are a detriment to the national security, and many other areas. America is confused and uninterested about the immigration topic. However, a majority of illegal aliens is a complication that is hurting America.

Before I conclude, I must apply to all immigration laws. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.

The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.

The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.

The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.

The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.

The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.

The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.

The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.

The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.

The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.

The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.

The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.

The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.

The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.

The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.

The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. The word "illegal" has been used throughout the world. This is dis­regarding how the media warps the news. By claiming that the media is biased, we are undermining the legitimacy of the media. It is essential that we recognize that the media is not always unbiased. It is imperative that we understand how the media warps the news. The media is not always unbiased, and it can be manipulated to suit the interests of those in power. It is important for us to be aware of this and to demand that the media be held accountable for its actions.
Abby Alvey

Major: English

Hometown: Brownsburg, Indiana

Favorite Video: Philosophy 3.12-14

Accomplishment you are most proud of:
Working with children for the past four years, having an impact on their lives, getting to see them grow, and the way they respond to the responsibilities.

If I could have anyone in the world stop by for a visit I would want it to be: Ann Currier

Favorite movie: Gone with the Wind

It could have any job for a day I would want to be: A lawyer fighting for the rights of Christians.

My ideal Saturday would be: sleeping in and then going out to lunch and just hanging out with my friends and relaxing.

Favorite Book: FRANKENSTEIN

Who I would love to meet: Amy Jordan—LIFE editor

—Compiled by Amy Jordan, LIFE editor

The leaf your advice in the garden, we are all free to call for into being.

amojordan

Little nameless, unremembered acts

Have you ever looked at the websites that have the listings of all the most random holidays? They're the holidays that make you wonder if someone actually celebrates them, such as National Peanut Butter Lover's Day, Deep Purple day, and give a peanut butter patty! These are a few of the things that I've been looking at and I thought looked at all the various holidays.

While I was perusing this website, I noticed for the month of November, is World Kindness Day, and I thought the idea of a day like that was a wonderful one. I decided to look around the internet and found out about many of the holidays. It is really the small, seemingly insignificant things that have a way of bringing joy or breaking our day. I decided to walk to class on a rainy day somehow managed to drone through the whole day, so pow was one of those days that I was looking forward to class. I walked into class on a rainy day. I sat next to a friend who found something they're thinking about class and they were looking at the notes of a friend. I decided on a rainy day to study with a friend. Each one of us is writing about how to be a kind person.

Greeting by Ken Kriebel

Regulations Tips

- Take advantage of your faculty advisor. You'll be getting to class just as a signature needed for drop or add forms, ask for their advice.

- Come prepared for your class. Don't walk into their office with out having at least a thought about the classes that you want to take. Arrive to try to sign up with your advisor concerning your progress and development.

- Register as early as possible. It is obvious, but some class registration isn't as good as it can be. You fill it up quickly. Find the earliest time that you qualify to register and don't procrastinate.

- Ask other students in your major where they would recommend for certain classes. Many upgradations have a more class with depth. They can often give positive opinions as to which classes you should avoid.

- A good friend should be at your side. A step to take is to see exactly how requirements you are to fulfill. Have one to do a class that you are not taking want time and money on classes you don't need to take. Make sure that you're playing a class in your major in the correct order. Your advisor can help you with figuring out the right sequence for the classes.

- Register for classes that you will need to take during your second year of college.

- Schedule your 200 level classes during your freshman and sophomore year, and your 300 level classes for your junior and senior years. You can go ahead and change your majors, as well as to be able to focus more effectively on the classes in your major during your second year of college.

- Become familiar with your college advising system and the people in your advising system. Go ahead and change your majors, as well as to be able to focus more effectively on the classes in your major during your second year of college.

- Don't lose hope, something unexpected works out and it is a few weeks away from the semester you will have forgotten about all the times we were trying hard to put together and make it a great day.

- Finally, if you can make someone's day, do something thoughtful and unexpected. Someone kind will always come along and do something nice for you. This day is to help others who need it. Someone by someone, so the other person will never know.
Ice Hockey splits two games

By Mike Troxel

Liberty hockey took a road trip to the frozen land of Michigan as they battled Oakland and Michigan State. Both teams are powerhouse in the talent rich Central region. Oakland came into the weekend tied with Michigan State for 6th in the nation, while Michigan State had an impressive 18-1-2 record.

On Friday night, Oakland took the lead in the second period thanks to a goal by forward Ryan Mantlo. Michigan State回答了 the second period with a goal from former Flames forward Luke Dufault, tying the game at 1-1.

The game came back and forth with both teams scoring goals. In the third period, Michigan State took the lead back with a goal from Forward Adam Smith, but Michigan answered with a goal from Forward Tommy Fortune, tying the game at 2-2.

In the second game of the weekend, Liberty faced off against Michigan State. Michigan State had a 4-1 lead to start the game, but Liberty was able to battle back with three goals in the second period, tying the game at 4-4.

The third period saw both teams playing with urgency, and Liberty was able to score another goal to take the lead back. However, Michigan State was able to fight back with a goal from Forward Adam Smith, tying the game at 5-5.

In overtime, Liberty was able to find the winning goal, scoring a goal from Forward Tommy Fortune, giving Liberty the 6-5 win.

Men's basketball scurried in their final blue-white

By Andrew Martin

In the last intrasquad scrimmage of the season, the white team defeated the blue team 78-73 Tuesday night.

"It was a lot better basketball than a year ago at this time," head coach Randy Dunton said.

The game was a huge win for the white team, as they were able to score 23 points in the first half, while the blue team was held to 13.

The white team's defense was key to their victory, as they held the blue team to 18 points in the second half. The white team's defense was able to shut down the blue team's offense, allowing them to win the game.

The white team's offense was also key to their victory, as they were able to score 60 points in the game. The blue team struggled offensively, scoring only 40 points.

The white team's victory was their second in a row, and they are now 2-0 on the season. The blue team, on the other hand, are now 0-2 on the season.

Overall, it was a great night for the white team, as they were able to prove themselves on the court and show their fans that they are a team to be reckoned with.
Once again - Running back Dre Barnes breaks his career-record for yards in a game with 230.

We are looking for students who want to travel to Haiti in January.

For more information contact:
Carl & Gina Bottorff at 434-239-7927
or e-mail us at medmissions@aol.com

NC HELP - Kenneth Kemp drops a Panther. GOING DOWN - Mike Moon wraps up a receiver.

Football dominates in record-breaking fashion

The Flames trailed 14-7 when the teams took the field to start the second quarter. However, what unfolded over the next 13 minutes of football will live forever in the minds of those lucky enough to be part of it.

The players will not soon forget the day when they scored 41 points in a single quarter of football game. Scott Kovysky got the "Quarter of Offensive Heaven" started by nailing a 42-yard field goal. Goodnick quickly put the Flames ahead by getting on a 3-yard touchdown scramble. On the next series wide-out Adrian Hall connected with fellow receiver Lauren Williams on a long touchdown pass that proved Liberty had a few tricks up its sleeve.

A blocked punt by LU's special teams "led to a quick 5-yard touchdown run by Barnes. Barnes followed on the next two possessions with touchdown runs of 52 and 3 yards. It was swiftly a 41-14 Liberty lead.

A C.J. Moore interception gave the Flames the ball yet again and Kovysky recorded another field goal. The teams went to their locker rooms with Liberty leading 48-14.

Much of the credit for the thumping of the Spartans must be given to the Flames' offensive line. "The 'O-line' did a splendid job of opening up the holes for the running backs to exploit."

The Flames defense did a splendid job of yielding great field position for the offense all day. The defense was swarming everyone who resembled a Norfolk State player.

The third quarter was much of the same for Liberty. The offense totaled 41 points in the quarter as Gado raced for a 62-yard score and Goodnick added his second and third rushing touchdowns in the fourth quarter. Liberty was able to rest and many of its starters and the backups were given an opportunity to gain valuable playing experience.

It appeared that the Flames offense was going downhill all day, and that most of the time the Norfolk State players were looking for a rock to crawl under. The win gives the Flames an overall record of 4-6 heading into Saturday's Big South Conference clash with Coastal Carolina. It will be the first time the two teams have played each other.

A win against Coastal will assure the Flames second place in the conference. Game time on Saturday is 1:30 p.m.

Soccer senior night spoiled

The Birmingham-Southern Panthers and the Liberty Flames tied in total shots with 13, but in the category that counts, goals, the Panthers outdid the Flames 3-1 for the win.

Nick Barulica got the Panthers on the board first when he received a ball in the box from Jamie Holmes and took a shot from point Blank range. The ball deflected off of Liberty goalkeeper K.J. Sabotchick's hand, into the top netting.

Liberty had their chances in the first half, they were just unable to capitalize on the opportunities.

The Flames took six shots in the first half, compared to only four from the feet of Liberty. The offense totaled 21 points of yielding great field position for the offense all day. The defense was swarming everyone who resembled a Norfolk State player.

The third quarter was much of the same for Liberty. The offense totaled 41 points in the quarter as Gado raced for a 62-yard score and Goodnick added his second and third rushing touchdowns in the fourth quarter. Liberty was able to rest and many of its starters and the backups were given an opportunity to gain valuable playing experience.

It appeared that the Flames offense was going downhill all day, and that most of the time the Norfolk State players were looking for a rock to crawl under. The win gives the Flames an overall record of 4-6 heading into Saturday's Big South Conference clash with Coastal Carolina. It will be the first time the two teams have played each other.

A win against Coastal will assure the Flames second place in the conference. Game time on Saturday is 1:30 p.m.
Game two was more energized, as the Flames only continued to heat up. The squad got off to a solid start. Backed by a number of early kills, Liberty quickly expanded its lead. Early kills, Liberty quickly expanded its lead. "James always had the upper hand in the first quarter, and we felt it," said coach Feagin. "They reduced the same sentiments. "As a team, we want to make it to the Final Four. Some people may think that's just a dream, but I really believe that we have the talent to do that," she said. Despite having a daunting schedule, the Lady Flames are optimistic and believe in themselves and their abilities. "This is it for us. This is when the question the toughest, most challenging skating of the season," Green said.

The Lady Flames are hoping for the best and are in the situation they are in because of the Big South. "I think that's the competence we have to begin with," Green said. "The reason there are smaller goals because the team must work on throughout the season in order to achieve these. These goals are fundamentals like free throw shooting, rebounding, and defensive goals. But Green admitted that the team's mission statement comes first. "I have to do what women could not only on the basketball court, but who are champions for Christ outside the arena of competition."
Women's soccer season ends with loss

By Megan Fathke

The Liberty women's soccer team ended its season with a shocking 1-0 loss to the Charleston Southern Lady Bucs at the Big South Tournament last Thursday. After winning the regular season, Liberty was first place with the number one seed going into the Conference Tournament. They were the team to beat, and just that.

The first half had the Flames dominating play but failed to find the goal. In the 17th minute, Liberty's Sara Davis had a header that was on the way to the goal of the season but it was cleared off the goal line by a Charleston defender. In the last five minutes, Liberty had two more scoring chances as Rachel Lyndon and Megan Reiter both took shots that sailed just over the crossbar. With no score at half time and barely leading in shots 3-1, Liberty knew something had to change, and someone had to step up. Liberty came out and continued to dominate, but started to take shots and create more chances up front. CharlestonSouthern rarely gave up any chance. In the final 30 minutes, the Flames picked up two key wins over Southern and Coastal Carolina. They were the team to beat, and CSU did continue its season with a shocking 1-0 loss to the Flames. Rachel James Price had another home crowd at the loss. "I can't be prouder of this team. I just want a little dis­opportunity, "Coach James Price said. "The Flames and Coastal Carolina are no joke. This season was not a complete bust for Liberty as it was re­presented well with five All-Conference selec­tions. Jumers Kimberly Hawkins and Megan Fathke were named to the second team. First team selections included Sopho­more Rachel Bendlovskey, Freshman Manderoid Jewi, and Senior Jenny Davis. Davis was also Libya's team captain on the All-Academic team.

Women's basketball preview: High hopes

By Ben Cates

The women's basketball team has been preparing for the upcoming season like no other before. Whether its on the court or off the court, the Lady Flames have done for seven consecutive seasons. "We also want to win the Big South, which has a whole new look this season. The team grad­uated four good seniors, but has the num­bers and depth of this year's junior team to lead the way.

Lady Flames continue their assault on Big South

By Ben Cates

The Lady Flames continued their assault on the Big South. After winning the regular season, the Flames picked up two key wins over Southern and Coastal Carolina. They did it with a 1-0 win over Coastal Carolina and a 2-0 win over Southern. The Flames held their largest lead of the season. "We had the best preseason conditioning program we've ever had," said Assistant Coach Kristal Tharp. "We're excited to play with the non-conference games because that's what we do for the rest of the season." The Flames have a record of 26-3, and were 14-0 in regular season. "We have a whole new look this year," said Freshman Katie Feenstra. "We're also quicker, more athletic, and more experienced this year."