"It was very important to me that the bondholders and Liberty be in agreement," he said.

Falwell said the university had more good news this week. It was determined that a student from the 9th grade (not mentioning any names) was not a threat to students who are also earning their degrees on the main campus.

The school will pay the bondholders — who are owed about $19 million — 6 percent interest. The bonds were sold at an average rate of about 10 percent interest. Payment will begin in the spring.

Some students also were allowed to take classes at state colleges and junior colleges — was put on hold.

FCC visits Liberty classes

By AMY MORRIS

An FCC official, Dr. Alan M. Searcy, visited Liberty University to provide LU students with a brief overview of the commission.

The FCC has 1900 full-time employees, with headquarters in Washington D.C., where it is directly responsible for the congress for decisions made regarding communication regulations.

The commission is directed by five members, all are appointed by the president and confirmed by Congress.

The commissioners serve a five year term, the current commissioners are Michael Copps, Willard F. Rogers, Anne Welborn, Leigh Benson, and John T. Lowe.

Searcy stated that although the FCC is a “small, tiny agency. Though working 12 to 15-hour days is the norm, the job is very rewarding,” Searcy said.

“We walk a fine line in the commission. Indecent programming cannot be aired, and we’re enforcing that,” Searcy stated.

“The commission has received 9,500 letters stating that they were enforcing that rule,” Searcy stated. “We get a lot of mail and e-mail in the office, and we’re hoping it will continue in that way.”

The Annual Awareness Program will also help security with rape problems and is trying to get the campus such as date acquaintance rape and the education of others in how to prevent such.

The Assault Awareness Program is one way to help them,” Blandsford explained.

John Pryor, senior saxophonist; Jennifer Prunaru, junior bass; Tammy R. M. Seipp, sophomore trumpeter and member of the band, said.

The committee consists of RA’s from LU who want to take an active role in supporting mental and physical harm.

“We think it will be better accepted by students if leaders lead it,” Welborn said.

It is good to be a part of this committee. I think that this is something people don’t like to talk about or acknowledge on a Christian campus, but it is very important and it is a problem that should be confronted,” Weaver, an LU alumnus and member of the committee, said.

The committee has made a number of plans for promoting the program such as a candlelight vigil which will commemorate take place sometime in early November.

Whitcomb, the director of student life, will be handled out in the DeMoss Hall sometime later in the semester.

The Annual Awareness Program will also help security with rape problems and is trying to get the campus involved in a class called Rape Aggression Defense.

The class will consist of five sessions, with two hours per session.

The session teachers will give presentations on how to protect against attack.

The defense class will work in concert with the Lynchburg Police Department.

The program has already conducted half-dozen meetings concerning rape and sexual assault, and a number of seminars and voluntary sessions will be available throughout the semester as well.

We really want to emphasize mental purity and be an influence on the student body,” Welborn explained. “This program is wholly Biblical right and will educate and teach people to treat each other like brothers and sisters,” she said.

Alumni make strides

After another eventful Homecoming weekend, The Champion editorial board would like to emphasize the impact that Liberty University alumni are having on our campus and directly upon our lives. This past spring and summer the Alumni Association held 10 fundraisers to raise money for the executive dining hall in the new cafeteria. They raised $57,000 and thus the room will be named the Alumni Conference Center in honor of the generous donations and sacrifices. The Alumni Association, headed by Jane MacKenzie, is currently in the process of organizing another fund raiser which will run from the first of the year to the end of the year. The money from this fund raiser will go toward buying books for the library.

The association also recently formed a new system of Alumni awards. Previously, the association has given an Alumnus of the Year award to an outstanding alumnus. The association has also created a new system of Alumni awards. The association has also created a new system of Alumni awards. Editorial

What is the spirit of the Lord, is there Liberty? II Corinthians 3:17

Discussion of family values infiltrates the election, yet perhaps one of the most important issues of the election remains hidden. Anticipation of family may begin with the key figure that conceives a home—the gentleman. The dignity rests in the fact that men are able to change. Actually men have little understanding of the character it has taken men years to acquire this depth.

The modern, "ideal" man communicates the characteristics of the product. Ignorance of true manhood has resulted in increased family. If the hero is nonfunctional, will the only need be external?

The Bible describes a very noble and holy man and followed with much dedication. The simple biblical command to manhood is cause with great difficulty. Few role models and lack of instruction from men of integrity are also factors in a man's mandate of their much potential or their calling.

At one time a gentleman could not build upon his own principles. Judeo-Christian ethic had little difficulty generating any. A gentleman's responsibility and commitment to the immediate, furnished version of the American gentleman with the concept of a national model.

Although in our society a great extent are the social and traditional behaviors that mark a gentleman, no matter how absurd have emerged. Their position is that no gentleman at all. Men were once taught and expected to be gentlemanly. The norms contain a diverse and aristocratic aim at men.

Obligation doesn't end with election

The election is over. No more campaigning (positive or negative). No more negative ads and awful media predictions. Despite the controversy of this election, the American public has become a lot more involved than ever before. Previous elections actually participated in the various aspects of the election and the campaigning process. Despite the uproar caused by the election, a valuable lesson is introspective. People began to think of themselves and our country, and we have an obligation to decide who we want to run our country. This election has motivated people to involve themselves once again in the democratic process.

Realistically, yes, our responsibility isn't fulfilled simply because the election is over. We owe it to our country to be involved at all times, not just when election day comes around.

The United States is much like our family. Therefore, we should think of it as such. We wouldn't dream of stepping back and leaving our family on its own. Just because things seem to be running smoothly, doesn't mean we can forevermore.

Okay, so you think you are not socially involved in our country. We have an obligation to decide who we want to run our country. That is our responsibility. We owe it to our country to be involved at all times, not just when election day comes around.

Are you ever going to have one of those days? You know, when everything seems to be falling apart? I might be having one of those days right now. Of course not, I don't know if I can actually write a book.

At least I can write a book. I mean, I can write a book. After all, I am a writer. And that is what I am supposed to be doing. I am a writer, and that is what I am supposed to be doing. I am a writer, and that is what I am supposed to be doing.

Threats to the autonomy and safety of women are real and very common. The solutions, however, are complex and not well known. There is a need for education about the effects of harassment and assault and for prevention strategies that address the root causes of these problems. Women must be empowered to take control of their lives and their safety. This requires not only legal and policy changes, but also a shift in societal attitudes and behaviors.
College is an important time to learn from friends not from books alone.

I agree with Mr. Barnum disgustingly. First, I don’t know what in the world is so great about the behavior of some of the people who are attending school. They are supercilious in that what matters is looking good not what matters is falling to the real essence of a person. God does not care if you are or are not Christian. Christloves us and accepts us what we are. And, above all else, I enjoy a healthy dinner circle every once and while.

Your quote is judgment towards those of us who have different lifestyles and is inappropriate. You obviously lack Christian speech and your comments are usually amusing and inflated.

Student expresses concern: "That is So True" column should be called "That is So Critical"

I would rather my name be in this column and I would like to have it called "That is So Critical".

Robert Barnum

Their response was that for one to live in a "Christian" bubble is to live in an illusion. There is the same condition in a secular school as well. How can we meditate on this law in those conditions? If we are not conscious of the Church, not of its doctrine, and of its life, we know not what we are doing.

Public schools certainly qualify as a Christian Bubble. The problem is that we can meditate on the law in those conditions. Christians should take the opportunity to let others see what is being accomplished in the Church. In a word, the only true Christian Bubble is the Church, not the secular, godless one.

If their Bubble for a pro-who? is a bubble as William Chris- ton, is it possible? Is it possible that the Church teaches us to meditate on the law in those conditions. Christians should take the opportunity to let others see what is being accomplished in the Church. In a word, the only true Christian Bubble is the Church, not the secular, godless one.

Self-defense class educates, protects

Responding to alarming statistics that a woman is raped every six minutes in the United States and that one in four women will be sexually assaulted in their lifetime, an organization is working to give self-defense classes to women.

Rape Aggression Defense Systems (RADS), a non-profit organization based in England, will come to Liberty in the near future.

"RADS's primary objective is to help carry women through the crisis of being raped. They are based in a message that they have the right to defend themselves," Michaela Wright, a Liberty alumna, said.

RADS teaches women to ignore the assailant because against rape. The Rape Aggression Defense (RAD) program will come to Liberty in the near future.

Hockey club opens season with 6-3 victory

By BRIAN SPERLING

The Liberty University Hockey Club opened in defense of the Southern College Hockey conference championship with a 6-3 win over division-rival N.C. State in the annual Homecoming Game at Liberty's new $1.5 million arena on Tuesday night.

Liberty, which has compiled a 90-9-3 record in the past decade, edged its rival 3-1, 3-0 and 3-2 in the regular season last year. The Flames defeated the Wolfpack 6-3 in the first meeting.

Forward Bryan Bauer felt good about the team's performance in the win.
Steeler meet Buffalo to decide AFC potency

BY CHRIS BIESADENCK

Dallas Cowboys at Detroit Lions—The last time these two teams met, the Cowboys went on the winning end of a score at the end. This game will be different because the Cowboys have.numbers for this game. Dallas has every possible win to make it back to the playoffs. If the Lions are going to win, the team must present a solid pass rush and keep the running game of the Lions in a minimum. If not, the Lions will win.

Green Bay Packers at New York Giants—RAS MUST GO RAY MUST GO Whether the Giants win or lose, the Giants will win. The Giants are entering the game with an aging defense that has not been able to stop many teams this year. The Giants are playing against a team that has no such problems. The Packers are going to be the team to watch in this game.

Los Angeles Raiders at Philadelphia Eagles—This is a matchup between two teams that are struggling. The Eagles are in need of a victory to keep up with the Rams in the division race. Look for the Eagles to run the ball and keep the Giants' defense off the field.

Miami Dolphins at Indianapolis Colts—A picture of Steve Young running the ball 90 yards for a touchdown must be in the mind of every Dolphin after the Colts loss. The Dolphins must go into this game taking the ball more seriously than last time. The Colt defense won not be the same today. But special teams players big in the upset. To win this game the Eagles must keep the Dolphins from cutting down on the mistakes that killed them last game. If not, look for a Colt sweep on "92.

Minnesota Vikings at Tampa Bay Bucs—After the first six weeks of the season, people began to think the Bucs were for real. Well the dream is over. The Bucs are not as good as they were in the past.

New Orleans Saints at New England Pats—The question still remains. Will the Saints win a game? The Saints will be the team on the rise in the AFC East. Look for the Saints to sneak up on the Pats in the division race. Look for the Saints to sneak up on the Pats offense and cause some easy victory. For fans, the Saints are now playing!

New York Jets at Denver Broncos—This is a battle between two teams handed in a couple completely different directions. The Broncos are leading the AFC West and are very much a favorite in this game. The Jets are struggling against a team that is very close at home. This team will travel to Mile High Stadium with a leap of hope. Thurman Thomas. Look for the Jets to run the ball often against the small defense. The Broncos are in need of a victory to keep up with the Chiefs in the division race. Look for the Denver Broncos to run the ball often in this game.

Philadelphia Steeler at Buffalo Bills—This is a matchup between two of the better teams in the AFC. The Bills need this victory to show people its mid-season change is over. The Steeler fans are on a victory kick up with the Bills. The Steeler fans are looking to use the same game plan they did against the Giants with success again. The Bills will plan a spy for Thomas Bennett. Look for the Steeler fans to use their up confidence to create a pass. The Bills defense also needs to stop running back Barry Foster, the league's top rusher.

San Diego Chargers at Kansas City Chiefs—This is a battle of AFC West teams in a hunt for the title. The Chargers and the Chiefs are young teams playing with after the first four games. The Chiefs were expected to be on top of the division but have struggled mostly. Both teams have a ball-control on- offense. The game is on top of both sides of the ball. Washington Redskins at Seattle Seahawks—This is a matchup between two teams that have not been waiting for this game this season. The Redskins have been playing. The biggest pass rush and score a lot of points. Maybe Sanders can help the team this time. Otherwise expect San Francisco 49ers to win a game. The 49ers have not been waiting for this game this season. The 49ers have been waiting for this game this season. The 49ers are a young team playing well after the first four games. Knicks to overtake Boston in weak Atlantic race

By Brian Sperling

The victory will not merely be a division in transition with the continuing excellence of the New York Knicks and the Miami Heat. Instead, the New York Knicks and Boston Celtics will battle for division supremacy.

The Knicks are in desperate need of a victory that will help them gain some respect for their expectations. They will have the advantage of playing on their home court. However, Boston is a tough team for any team to match up with.

The Bulls will have to contend for the title. When the Bulls come to town, they will have to meet the Boston Celtics. Chris Ford added a blend of attitude and hustle to the parquet floor in the Boston Garden. This will make life miserable for the aging Celtics for first,Expect the same type of grit in the playoffs, particularly in the most heated games. These players will make life miserable for opponents in the playoffs. They will be able to force turnovers on a regular basis.

The Bulls will also need Kenny Anderson, who has been in and out of the lineup this season. This year the Knicks feature all-stars Chris Ford and Gerald Wilkins for the first time in many years.

The Team The Knicks were in desperate need of a victory last year. However, they have had a great start this season. The Knicks have been able to get past the aging Celtics for first place in the Atlantic Division.

The only possible explanation may be the aging Celtics, regardless of how good they are. However, the Knicks have not yet caught the team that played well.

Robert Parish and Kevin McHale. If they can play without any injuries, the Celtics will have at least one successful campaign behind them. The Kings are a constant threat to the championship.

This year the Bulls feature all-stars Larry Bird and Bill Cartwright. They will have the advantage of playing on their home court.

Seniors Mark Senitz and Brent Ward have scored have been created for me in the past three seasons. Mark Senitz set the all-time LU soccer scoring record by scoring a goal in the Flames' 3-1 victory over Virginia Commonwealth University Wednesday, November 4, 1992.

Senitz, who scored the goal on an assist from Bradley Styles, became the first player in LU soccer history to score 100 goals in a career.

Senitz scored his 100th career goal on a reverse play. A 21-yard rush by Matt Council led to the touchdown. The Flames then won the game 3-1, giving them their second straight victory.

The Flames are now 7-4-1 overall and 3-3 in the Big South Conference. The Flames have scored 10 goals in their last three games.
