Teen Mania is a Christian organization that holds evangelistic events world-wide, spreading the gospel of Christ. The group hosts "Acquire the Five" rallies almost every weekend in the United States, using young people to get the message of Christ.

The most witness winning that Teen Mania uses is drama. They perform plays to teach forgiveness about the hope they can find through Jesus Christ, working in cooperation with local churches in the communities.

When people make decisions, the local churches do the follow up," said Laura Ring, a senior at Liberty University majoring in history and international studies. "We help churches to make disciples in their own communities." The students who have been on Teen Mania evangelistic trips are excited about the ministry. "I saw God become real in my life," said D.J. Jordan, a freshman at Liberty majoring in broadcasting communications. Ring agreed with Jordan, saying, "I saw God use my life to change others. It gave them hope."

The group gets teenagers fired up through its evangelistic efforts. "Teen Mania's purpose is to create goers for Christ that are excited and on fire for God," said Stephanie Puell, a senior at Liberty majoring in youth ministries.
Poetry club sponsors contest

By KRIS PATTENSON

A new club has started on campus, giving students the opportunity to publish their poetry. English professors Dr. Tim Pantaleo and Dr. Olga Kompelien have organized a club that will sponsor an anthology and a journal by April of 1997. This idea originated at the beginning of the semester in a meeting for literary majors and was approved by the English department.

The group is presently putting together an anthology and a journal to fulfill his English internship requirements. He is also known as the "director of registration." The registrar has the ultimate authority concerning legality of registration, said Lisa Hoflin, registrar at Lynchburg College. "The registrar has the ultimate decision making power as to whether you are a tax resident," Hoflin said. "How it affects your taxes, it could affect other things." The law does not define what "resident" means. Read said some registration officers do not qualify. "It's for those who are serious about poetry and want to come and talk," said Brown. "It's a fairy tale, complete with magic and monsters and the quest for love." —Dr. Wayne Kompelien

According to Kompelien, this is the first time Liberty has been able to put on this difficult production. "You have to have an incredible bunch of singers," he said. "We've got a tremendous bunch of singers." Nine main characters and a small chorus are required; all parts are played by students. The group has been rehearsing several hours a "...infiltrate the play. The set was designed and built by Kompelien and members of the cast over fall break, and the lighting design was done under the direction of the fine arts department." According to Pantaleo, the opera, "Cosi..." is a fairy tale, complete with magic and monsters and "the quest for love." CFAW could benefit from some changes

College Fair weekend ended on campus once again last weekend, but this time with a little less noise. You barely knew they were here.

The CFAWers in Holiday Inn showed foresight and perception. Arguably the most important part of college to the average student. Isn't there some facilities, to be sure. The student body appreciated the calm of the weekend. But the still get a full taste of college life?

The occupants of the host dorms received such benefits as Christian service, a more realistic view of campus. CFAWers would be able to spend time in the dorms, time hunting shuttles and looking for something to do than learning about LU. The least you won't be suspended for it.

To the facility this year just gave themselves crew cuts. When Interim President Brig. Timothy Luce was interested in the University was to have a time to get a broader view of college. Unfortunately, that was in the days before LU began to host dorm system obsolete.

We have been given an opportunity that many will never have, yet many students just lounging all over the campus. We need to turn in such flotsam. It doesn't happen terribly often, but it seems to be the same group in DeMoss what a private school going to to improve

Liberty Champion, Wednesday.

We need an honor code

We need an honor code for other "intrusive religious dictates," such as the one currently proposed at Liberty. And I can get reps for it. Moral offenses; failure to wear a tie is break

Cynthia Tatum

There is a time and place for everything, and now is the time and place for the CFAW to concentrate on getting the most out of our program. We have been given an opportunity that many will never have, yet many students just lounging all over the campus. We need to turn in such flotsam. It doesn't happen terribly often, but it seems to be the same group in DeMoss what a private school going to to improve

Well, Sick Willy's back in office, and there's no telling what the next four years will bring. Another four years of Clinton and Congress angling and shifting from every policy decision. Of course, it's doubtful that we'll be in the same boat as four years ago. There will be a difference in the atmosphere of major American politics confined like it is to an antiseptic retirement home for their other four years. But the idea of almost all of us Americans cheerfully heading out to the polls and that we'll have something to look forward to.

The nation may recover more quickly than the economy, but the nation's psyche will take much longer to recover. We must prepare ourselves for the long haul ahead.

Remember, the nation's health is inextricably linked to the nation's economy. The nation's economy is inextricably linked to the nation's psyche. If we want to recover the economy, we must first recover the nation's psyche. And if we want to recover the nation's psyche, we must first recover the economy.

This is a time of hope and optimism. How can Christians oppose health care and public assistance? Where is the Bible in this discussion? Where is the nation's Constitution? Where is the nation's common good?

The nation's Constitution is in the Bible. Where is the nation's common good? Where is the nation's Constitution? Where is the nation's common good?

Hello! I'm here! I still love you, but I don't think I love you anymore. It's about as simple as that. I must confess, though, that I'm still a little bit in love with you. It's not that I've never loved you before, but it's...well, let's just say that I'm not sure how I feel about you anymore.

She said goodbye to me and walked away. As I watched her go, I couldn't help but feel a little bit sad. I had thought that she was the one for me, but now I'm not so sure. I guess I just need some time to think about it all.

I hope you're doing well. I'll try to call you soon.

Night life in the dorms is everything but dull

By RANDY KING

LIFE in the dorms is an experience not easily forgotten. From late-night pool games to late night conversations and spontaneous Bible studies, memories are made that will stay with us and if we’re lucky, pass on to the students who follow.

Can you relate to any of these scenarios?

A dormitory resident makes out of the pupils of corn at one of the dorm’s unusual nightly events. If you’re ever bored, you’ll have to come up with a new event.

Jennifer had never been more depressed in her life. Academic struggles, personal problems and the hubbub of campus had combined to destroy her mental equilibrium. The only light in her life was the fact that Jill’s boyfriend was coming home for a weekend. She had him ring her up and see if she could get him to join her. She was in a state of despondency, but she had been strong enough to do the right thing.

That night at 2 a.m. was something she would never forget. She was a senior and had been the last one awake. Jill had called her and she agreed to come over and talk. They sat down on her floor, and Jennifer told her everything. Jill listened attentively and then said, “You’re going to be okay. Just give it some time.” Jennifer didn’t believe her. She had been so down that she couldn’t even think straight. Jennifer told her about the problems she had with her boyfriend and how he had broken up with her.

Jennifer was grateful for the support she had received from Jill. She realized that she had been through a lot and that she needed someone to talk to. Jennifer was glad that Jill had stayed with her through it all.

WHERE HAVE YOU BEEN ALL MY LIFE? — Oh pretty busy! Yes, you’re right. It’s been a busy week for me. I’ve been studying like crazy and trying to keep up with my classes. I’ve also been trying to get some sleep.

I’ve been spending a lot of time in my dorm room. I’ve been writing a paper for one of my classes and I’ve been studying for another. It’s been a lot of work, but I’m hoping to get it all done in time.

I’ve also been trying to get some sleep. It’s been a bit of a challenge, but I’ve been trying to get some rest. I’ve been trying to get up early in the morning, but I’ve been having a hard time doing it.

LU ices VCU, ties with Virginia Tech

BY JENNA CANTWELL

The LU Flames hockey team picked up three points with a win and a tie this week. LU downed Virginia Commonwealth University on Tuesday afternoon at the Roanoke Civic Center and picked up a tie on Tuesday against Virginia Tech.

Walyuchow leads Flames through a strong week.

The Flames battled back from a 3-1 deficit against VCU to pick up their third point of the week. Corey Walyuchow picked up the win in net for the Flames.

Walyuchow turned in another solid performance in goal for the Flames, as he limited VCU to 19 shots in the game. Walyuchow made 18 saves, including a 23-save performance against Virginia Tech.

VA Tech through a strong week.

The Hokies were shut out until the last minutes of the game. VCU's play was uneventful in the second period, as they were downed by 1-1. Senior Scott Meyer scored the Flames' first goal of the season, despite being outplayed by their opponent.

Thirty days ago the LU football team was on a banana peel, said Coach Sam Rutigliano.

"We had one foot in the grave and the other was on a banana peel," Rutigliano said.

LU's latest victory came against Division One powerhouse Liberty Flames, raising their record to an even 5-5.

The Flames have won four consecutive games, including victories over Virginia Military Institute, catapulting them into the Conference Championship after their four-set victory over Liberty.

The Lady Flames' season and final record is 8-15,7-15,15-11,12-15.

The Flames have been working hard to improve their defense, allowing just 3-1, by UMBC in the first game.

Spartans top Flames in tourny

By LAURELEI MILLER
Champion Reporter

UNCG Greenboro, ranked No. 5 in the nation, defeated Liberty Tuesday night in the Big South Tournament title with a 4-1 win in overtime. In the semifinals, UNCG's Spartans (18-13) dominated their opponents and won the title with a conference action on the soccer field. The Spartans went on to win the Big South title and will play in the NCAA Regional.

By posting a 25-9, second, the Lady Flames volleyball team continued its surge to the Big South Conference Tournament semifinals. After splitting two conference matches this weekend, Liberty, ranked third-best in the nation's history, makes the tournament title appear to be within reach.

"Comparing us to last year's playing on another level, and it's about time," senior Sarah Baroneck said. "Right now we're definitely one of the top teams."

"The teams are pretty even-thed and, any team can take the title," junior Cathy Collier said. "We just need to play up to our potential, and trust God with it."
