Bush takes the oath of office

By Bill Murray, editor in chief

The continuous rain of the morning of Jan. 20 had stopped by the time Washington on Saturday as President Chief Justice William Brennan read the 43rd President of the United States.

At just after noon, President Bush, accompanied by his wife, First Lady Laura Bush, and their daughter, Jebb, Barbara, placed his hand on the Bible and repeated the oath of office being read by Supreme Court Chief Justice William Brennan.

At the second he finished the "speak to" he said, Bush was officially inaugurated, sending the crowd of several thousand hundred thousand into a thunderous applause.

The theme of the day seemed to be reconciliation—a word which has been used around ever since the election debate was resolved with Bush emerging

Problems are few for online check-in
By Rachel Coleman, reporter

As students made their way back to LU this semester, many were lucky enough to have their accounts already settled, meaning they would not have to stand in lines at registration.

They were among the 1,900 students who had taken advantage of online check-in, and with any new program, some problems occurred. However, response from the students was mostly positive. Fewer than 100 students this semester had problems with their check-in for various reasons. Kristina Martin, a junior accounting major, said, “It was kind of a pain, but they got it most right away. Ernie Rogers was very helpful and friendly.”

According to Doug Lowe, director of Student Accounts, the most common problems were caused by problems with financial aid. Students signed up for payment online, but never went to the payment; these students were so surprised by the ease of paying online that they actually paid twice because they thought there must be something else for them to do. Another problem occurred when students did not check-in online, but never confirmed their accounts — something that must be verified.

In an effort to help the students and ease the burden of the various offices, Financial Aid and has tried to speed check-in by increasing its staff and improving efficiency. Lowe also said they were going to try to keep track of students by identifying the pitfalls of online check-in and improving the Web page and its warnings. They are also trying to improve communication with the students.

Lowe said that they always have more students using e-mail, but most students do not check their Liberty e-mail account. He encourages students to check their e-mail regularly, so it could contain some important information.

Lowe also encourages students to “take some ownership over your accounts, know its status, and what you have to do.”

A third thing students could do to help the situation is to keep an eye on deadlines for financial aid, as well, the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) deadline.

Online registration and check-in is “definitely the way of the future,” Lowe said, adding that he is also committed to an all-electronic system before the Fall semester, and is also working on making Web payment standard, not just for check-in. All of these features should dramatically cut down the amount of students waiting in line.

Julien Guttler, a junior commerce major who took advantage of check-in said:

"I think the online registration is a very good system. I believe it is very helpful and makes the process easy. I was able to do everything online that I needed.

I would like to have the option to print out the check-in form in case I need it later on.

I think it is a great idea and it will help people who are not familiar with the registration process.

I would also like to see more personalized messages for students who are having trouble with their accounts.

Overall, I think it is a great system and I believe it will help many students in the future.

Urbana exposes students to missions

This is the largest missions conference for students and the public that we have ever known. Nineteen hundred and thirty-three students have taken part in the conference since it began. The theme for Urbana 2000 was "Because God First Loved Us. The story of God calling the nations and workshops dealing with every area of missions. It was a successful trip to the conference. There are many ways to remove unwanted hair, but Electrolysis is the only permanent way.

Light ministries shines in England prisons

By Johnna Price, reporter

Light Ministries went England-based on Oct. 15. This was the ministry’s first trip to the United Kingdom. The group of college students was to share the gospel in prisons.

The ministry was started by former LU Men’s soccer Coach Tom Bell, and his wife Mary Bell. It was the second trip Light Ministries has taken overseas, embarking on over Christmas of last year. The other trip was "Christ­mas with an Orphan" in India.

Urbana exposes students to missions

By Matt Bell, assistant city editor

Urbana students were able to take part in one of the largest missions conferences in the world, held at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign Dec. 27-31 during the Christmas break.

Over 20,000 students took advantage of the daily sessions and workshops dealing with every area of missions. The theme for Urbana 2000 was "Because God First Loved Us. The story of God calling the nations to missions."

According to John Blair, LU’s director of world missions, this is the largest missions conference for students and a mission at one time LU has taken students to the conference.

"It was a successful trip from the student’s perspective. There were students there who had been to experience a missions conference. It gave them the opportunity to come beside students from all over the country and experience the work of different missions organizations," Blair said.

Blair and several others were able to take part in one of the workshops and present at the conference. The evening Christmas program hosted by Operation Mobilization allowed students to experience the Urbana conference every three years. It’s mission is to expose students to missions.

ACCIDENT KILLS LU STUDENT

LU senior and honor student Amy Pfaff, 21, was killed instantly Wednesday, Jan. 17, when her car flipped over on Timberlake Road.

"We know the Lord has taken her to a better place," said her friend, Fran Pfaff, Beth Ackerman and art minor, was the first time LU has taken students to the conference.

The conference is a three-day, overnight event of over 20,000 students. It is open to students from all across the country and is considered to be one of the nation’s largest missions conferences.

"Our team is extremely comforted...The support from the area has been tremendous," said Rev. Brian J. Bloye, president of Lynchburg College in Lynchburg, Virginia. "We are encouraged by the fact that we have been able to have 500 different mission organizations to help students."

Information about the conference and its ministries can be found at www.urbana.org.

DEBATE: Back on track to define destiny

Johnson went 4-2 in the preliminary round and lost to Mary Washington University in the championship tournament. However, Johnson received the fourth place speaker award and Johnson received the title. Ellis Nick and Jeremy Kasnik earned a 3-3 record in preliminary round and made it to the quarterfinal round as well, losing to a team from California. It was seeded 15th speaker.

Bloom added to make memorial contributions are encouraged by the family to consider Liberty University.

The team's next few tournaments include; Notre Dame, Virginia Common Grounds and Northwestern University. We now enter the next round of our season, and the tournaments are attending over the next couple of weeks going to Georgia," O'Donnell said.

I recently met a really nice girl named Karen. She is very sweet and kind, but I don’t think I’m ready to start a relationship with her. I want to be prepared, but I don’t know how.

Dear Homebody,

During your freshman year you will feel homesick quite often. My freshman year I visited home frequently. I am sure that you will do the same. That is why I am writing this letter.

Changes, changes, everywhere you look

Itching to get back to LU

Those of us who didn’t work too hard or actually did work too hard through the quality time with family and friends over Christmas break were probably not thinking of returning. Readjusting to a fast-pace, high-stress college schedule is not something we all look forward to. It is not something we all look forward to. (Even if I had a chance to go back to Oxford, I wouldn’t have time to). Thinking about my return and the thought of returning were causing the floor to tremble under my feet.

I understand that for you, the reader, it is not exactly appealing to read about someone else’s unattractive skin condition. My initial thought of returning was probably not something I wanted to discuss in class, as the workers in the room next to me were probably not thinking of returning. (I was fortunate enough to attend not one of the commemorative brick dedication ceremonies.)

Although a doctor did not diagnose me with anything, my theory has a few good points. The American Medical Association Family Medical Guide says about hives, “In many cases it is impossible to discover what triggers the condition. Whatever the cause, it is almost always autosomal dominant and seems to be a familial trait.”

She also mentions of being sensitive to certain things when returning. “Sometimes the cause of the hives is possibly minor, such as tiredness or anxiety.”

My theory is that the cause is the process that I am in. It is almost always autosomal dominant and seems to be a familial trait. She also mentions that “Some of us break out in a cold sweat at the thought of returning.”

Momma’s home cookin’ and free laundry are good reasons to return. “Changes, changes, everywhere you look.”

LSU and Virginia don’t have better plans! Any student who has returned to Liberty knows that there has been a mix-up of Christians and non-Christians. I am not sure if this is a good or bad thing. In any case, I am sure I will feel better in a few minutes.

I have no time to sit and fret about the cause of the hives. My theory may have good points. This type of barrage against a man of unquestionable, outstanding Christian character is not just my battle alone. It is an attack against all Christians as well. It is the backlash against the Christians standing up and willing to be equal and readily admitted in mind behind those who fear our beliefs. We should pray for these people, and do what we can to influence the process in a legitimate manner.

How well did the new meal plan options suit you?

I think the meal plan should have more number of options. (I was actually more interested in the idea of using my LU credit card to pay for my meals. Elegant ideas like “il Bistro” and “Sushi Express” should be available to use my LU credit card to pay for my meals.

I think I should be able to participate in more meals. Also, the menu offerings should be more food-related. I am sure we don’t eat all that much lamb. I am sure we don’t eat all that much lamb.

I have no time to sit and fret about the cause of the hives. My theory may have good points. This type of barrage against a man of unquestionable, outstanding Christian character is not just my battle alone. It is an attack against all Christians as well. It is the backlash against the Christians standing up and willing to be equal and readily admitted in mind behind those who fear our beliefs. We should pray for these people, and do what we can to influence the process in a legitimate manner.

“SPEAK UP!”

I think the meal plan should have more number of options. (I was actually more interested in the idea of using my LU credit card to pay for my meals. Elegant ideas like “il Bistro” and “Sushi Express” should be available to use my LU credit card to pay for my meals.

I think I should be able to participate in more meals. Also, the menu offerings should be more food-related. I am sure we don’t eat all that much lamb. I am sure we don’t eat all that much lamb.

LSU and Virginia don’t have better plans! Any student who has returned to Liberty knows that there has been a mix-up of Christians and non-Christians. I am not sure if this is a good or bad thing. In any case, I am sure I will feel better in a few minutes.

The team is looking forward to the upcoming season and is working hard to improve their skills. Coach Yuna added, "We are a young team, but we have a lot of potential. We are working hard to achieve our goals."
Mayweather wins in 10th round

For six rounds, Floyd Mayweather Jr. dominated Corrie Sanders with ease. Then he showed him a little power.

Mayweather battered Sanders for half the fight with his lightning-fast punches, then started stepping on him in the 10th round after he stopped Saunders to retain his WBC super welterweight title.

Mayweather boxed and danced and won the decision by unanimous scores of 115-113, 114-114 and 116-112.

It was his sixth title defense and his 38th win in 39 career fights.

Kwan picks up fourth straight U.S. title

Even the most dedicated fans of figure skating could probably not have anticipated the day when 20-year-old Johnny Weir actually would win an Olympic medal.

But that's what happened Monday in Salt Lake City, when Weir captured his fourth straight U.S. title and his first world medal.

Agassi advances, McEnroe may return

For a net and a half, Andre Agassi struggled with the unpredictability of Australian Patrick Rafter, whose excellence and athleticism pushed him to the limit and over the net.

Agassi, unflustered by the 7-6 defeat, rallied from 1-4 in the second set and stopped wonderful Rafter at 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Agassi later said, "I didn't lose my composure...I knew I wanted to win and I just let the match go on, and I was able to come out in the third set and make him work for it.

Carruth jury foreman proud of jurors

The jury foreman in the Rae Carruth murder trial praised his colleagues for their ability to focus on key evidence in the complicated case and come to a united, not compromised, verdict.

On Friday, the seventh man, the woman juror who acquitted the former NFL player, said she was the only juror who didn't agree to the second-degree murder conviction because she thought the jurors were being duped into an incorrect verdict.

"I feel the jury foreman is a very proud man," said Anna Neely, who is married to a juror.

The jury foreman, Rae Carruth murder trial juror who lacked a clear voice and needed a hearing aid, was the only juror who thought an acquittal was the right verdict.

"I feel the jury foreman is a very proud man," said Anna Neely, who is married to a juror.

The most anticipated sporting event of the year has once again returned — Super Bowl XXXV

The game going Sunday, January 28, 2001, is a battle of two of the NFL's best teams.

The New York Giants, who have appeared in three Super Bowls, are favored by 21 points over the Baltimore Ravens.

The Giants have the advantage over the Ravens in three key areas: quarterback, running backs, and special teams.

North wins the Hula Bowl 31-23

Reggie Germany put on a show for the NFL scouts at the Hula Bowl.

The Ohio State receiver caught nine passes for 108 yards as the North called to beat the South 31-23.

The South squad, coached by Florida State's Bobby Bowden, jumped out to a 10-7 lead in front of a sun-splashed, sellout crowd of 14,297.

Kisseleva and Reeves stayed together, because I knew I had so many other charges, including complicity to kill his pregnant girlfriend, who was murdered and shot in her car in November 1999.

Stewart, Winthrop top Flames

By John Keith, sport, sports editor

Winthrop University's men's basketball team proved to be the team to beat in the Big South Conference. This season, they ran past the Liberty Flames 76-63, in Rock Hill, S.C. Saturday night.

Crystal Peace led the Lady Flames with 11 points against both the Winthrop Bulldogs and South Carolina State Yellowjackets.

The Flames fell short against Miami Dolphins. Head Coach Tony Lacey had his team ready for the Miami Dolphins. Later on, the Flames played against St. John's University.

The final score was 66-70 in favor of St. John's University.
