In Harmony words

Gospel Music judges

By JULIE COBB

Following in the footsteps of Liberty alumni D.C. Talk and No Deposit Check is In Harmony, a student worship band from the Southern Piedmont area, is making a name for itself in the Christian music industry.

The group, which is made up of four members, two women and two men, was formed in 1994 and has been performing throughout the Southern Piedmont area.

The group's name, In Harmony, was chosen because of the group's love for gospel music and their desire to share that love with others.

The four members of the group, who are all students at Liberty University, are Michelle Sanders, Terri Rogers, Tonya Dunlap, and Randy King.

Michelle Sanders, the lead vocalist of the group, said she was drawn to gospel music because of its positive message and the way it can bring people together.

Terri Rogers, who is also a lead vocalist, said she joined the group because she wanted to be a part of something that was bigger than herself.

Tonya Dunlap, who plays the keyboard, said she joined the group because of its mission to spread the message of Jesus Christ.

Randy King, who plays the drums, said he joined the group because he wanted to be a part of a team that was making a difference in the world.

The group's first album, "In Harmony," was released in 1996 and has received positive reviews from both critics and fans.

In the past, the group has performed at various events, including weddings, church services, and community events.

According to Dunlap, the group's goal is to spread the message of Jesus Christ and to inspire others to live for Him.

The group's next album, "In Harmony II: The Journey Continues," is scheduled for release in 2000 and is expected to continue the group's message of hope and inspiration.

The group's success has brought them opportunities to perform in front of large audiences and to share their message with people all over the world.

In Harmony is just one of many student worship bands that are making a name for themselves in the Christian music industry.

As the group continues to grow, they hope to reach even more people with their message and to continue to spread the love of Jesus Christ.

A fire at 3 a.m. Sunday forced three floors of students to evacuate dorm 26. No one was injured in the blaze. It was a house fire in the bottom floor of dorm R-326. The fire alarm served as a rude awakening for some of the girls, who very quickly emptied the dorm floor. There will be a box on each dorm floor.

Athletes join for praise and worship

By CREIGRAIKES Champion Reporter

Liberty's Fellowship of Christian Athletes and worship groups are holding meetings once a month in DH 160. "We want to keep the FCA dedicated to the athletes here on campus. Anyone who wants an opportunity to praise the Lord is welcome to come," said Laurel Vada, RA.

The FCA is a good time for the Christian athletes to get together and pray with each other, said Jamie Brohan. "Christ is doing wonderful things through the FCA here and I want to keep the FCA dedicated to the athletes here on campus," said Jamie Brohan.

Adrienne Smith, RA, and her roommate, Kristy Wallace, went to the bathroom. "I was too scared to go see what it was," Wallace said. "Smith immediately ran to get her friends and went to the bathroom. "I thought it was my roommate's alarm clock until my RA rushed me out of bed," Katie Cullen said. "And when I opened the door, I took about three steps inside. The smoke was white... It wasn't billowing out or anything, but it was filling up the room."

According to Becker, the firemen of LU Security declared the dorm safe to reenter about 45 minutes after the fire alarm.

Before the emergency vehicles and fire trucks arrived, the dormitory sleep group filled into dorm 25 for shelter and warmth.
Toy Drive helps needy children

BY ANNE CLAY
Champion Reporter

LU students can help needy Lubbock children this Christmas by donating toys to the annual campus toy drive, sponsored by Student Government Association Free Ride. Collection boxes will be located in each dorm from Nov. 30 through Dec. 7 and those on a turnout of about 1,600 this year, but are hoping for a turnout of about 2,000. "We had a pretty good response," he said. He explained that students can buy tickets if they are unable to purchase toys. "The purpose is to give these children something for Christmas to show we care," he said. Children will "purchase" the gifts with tickets that they've earned by attending church, reading the Bible or attending a support group. The Love Kitchen, a ministry of the Manhattan Bible Church in downtown Lubbock, will distribute the toys. Students can earn tickets by volunteering at the Love Kitchen or by making donations to the church. The tickets are earned during the four weeks prior to the event.

SQA fails to reconstruct rideshare

BY TIMOTHY J. GIBBONS

SQA's attempt to assist students in getting rides home for Christmas has failed. Thanksgiving has proved to be "not very" successful. As of Sunday, only 140 students with cars have volunteered to join the rideshare program.

The rideshare program was resuscitated and simplified this year, according to Student Government Association Vice President of Student Services Amy Fowler. Instead of relying on student government workers with drive with riders — as has been done in the past — the new system allows students to find their own transportation. Drivers who join the program are screened into a database, the list, broken down by state, is stored near the SQA's softball field office. The problem: less than 200 bodies. Fulfilling broken promises and lack of coordination have led to the demise of the program.

"We are disappointed and frustrated," Fowler said. Future announcements will detail exactly what those prices will be. A box for commuter donations has been placed in the LU bookstore. There will be a prize drawing for the commuter. Commuters have to tape their name, home phone number and a description of their trip to their ticket. The names will include the the name of the student.

LU's history honor society, Phi Alpha Theta, added 11 new members to its 35-member group. "We were the only new members to take part in the induction ceremony at Donnell's Place, bringing the group's membership to 25. The other six new members are Josh Austin, Ron Chappell, Mindy Moore, Canada Pugh, Jamie May, Brent Mathis and William Clark. The school, a chapter of the national honor society Alpha Phi Alpha, inducts members once a semester. Members must meet the following requirements: a GPA of at least 3.0, no disciplinary action and an GPA of 3.0, excluding history classes.

Saturday's inducement ceremony was held in Donnell's Place in honor of David DeMoss, the history major whom the student center was named after. The group, established in 1993, meets once a month and is usually addressed by faculty advisor Dr. Robert Chapman. Sullivan Smith spoke about declining membership in honor societies at state universities. Phi Alpha Theta is one of the largest honor societies at state universities. The first signs of winter

I first fell in love with it on a family trip to Alaska when I was 12. I was so happy to be outside! It makes me want to go hiking and see snow. The smell of burning leaves, the hot apple cider and a good romance novel or poetry book are some of my favorite things about winter. Last week, I was just ecstatic when I saw snow for the first time in two years.

My favorite season to be outside is during the fall. It's so beautiful with the leaves changing colors to orange and red. And there was many a day I felt like I was in a dream.

The sentimentality lessened, however, when I stepped outside. I'm a little less averse to the cold than I used to be.

I believe it or not, New York was cold—enough to make me want to go back to the warm weather. But I'm still learning the ways of winter.

This album is a son's journey to explore their amazing, heart-catching sound. It is still exploring its signature sound. It is still exploring its signature sound.

I was always a little unsure about the band's sound. But they hit it out of the park with this one. I was pleasantly surprised.

I was really looking forward to the album. I had high hopes for the band. I was not disappointed.

Other than that, I was really happy with the album. I think you will be pleased with the results.

Challenges ...

BY TRACEY CLARK

They do not enjoy writing papers, nor do they have a prepared speech in mind that they can deliver. Instead, they are more worry about making sure that the RA has the right supplies, and they are concerned about their own safety. They are also aware that their job is challenging and requires a high level of commitment. Before making the decision to go for the RA position, they ask themselves what it truly is to be a resident assistant at Champion College.

This is Matt’s first year as an RA. He chose to become one because he thinks of it as an opportunity to help others. He feels that this is his duty to help those in need. He also feels that this is his way of giving back to the community.

Another aspect to consider is the RA’s role when it comes to handling difficult situations. For example, if a student is experiencing a crisis, the RA must be prepared to react quickly. This is the responsibility of the RA, and it is a heavy burden.

However, they do not have a reprimand for this. They believe that it is important to have open communication with the students. They are aware that it is their job to be a role model. They believe that this is their responsibility, and they believe that it is their duty to be consistent in their discipline and follow through.

In conclusion, being an RA is a rewarding and challenging job. It requires a lot of dedication and hard work. However, it is a job that is worth it. They are aware that it is a demanding and stressful job, but they love it. They believe that it is their duty to help others. They believe that this is their responsibility, and they believe that it is their duty to be consistent in their discipline and follow through.

Students need to show interest to get yearbooks

Yearbook, anyone?

Steve Smith

Some students have become perplexed at the fact that this year's yearbook costs $19.95 (and are rising as we speak). The reason for this is simple: students have had to buy their yearbooks, and the Seelie staff has had a difficult time convincing everyone that the change is for the better.

But the problem remains a little deeper than having to pay for a yearbook. Take, for example, the situation with last year's yearbook. Anyone even notices that it hasn't been picked up! Student interest has been judged so low that the school's ticket yet decided it was wise to follow up existing 1995-96 yearbook.

If you feel like getting ripped at the school, realize the situation. The 1994-95 yearbook was passed out at registration, distributed from the Communications Studies office andadvertised all over campus as available for pickup. Yet 500 of last year's books were not taken by students. So they're here on campus in some dusty back room. (Just 900 left, you say? That's not so bad, right? No, not if 5,000 had been printed. But only about 3,500 were printed). The administration figures, if students are so little interested in yearbooks, why bother?

Selah. This year's yearbook must sell like crazy, and the students must show some interest. This year's is a must sell like crazy, and the students must show some interest. This year's is a must sell like crazy, and the students must show some interest. This year's is a must sell like crazy, and the students must show some interest. This year's is a must sell like crazy, and the students must show some interest. This year's is a must sell like crazy, and the students must show some interest.

All of the extra expense — especially at the same time that many of the other exterior doors on campus need to be overhauled — means the school has a rather complex maintenance problem.
Barron goal beats 'Pack

North Carolina State, 3-1 on Sunday afternoon icing on the cake by scoring on an empty net seven minutes remaining lifted the Flames past Wolfpack away from the Liberty goal. Freshman Kirk Handy put the game in the Flames' zone and was pleased with the outcome of the road trip. Defenseman Neil Nicholson played a solid game in the Flames' zone and was pleased with the win.

“Today the defense did a good job of clearing pucks and getting the puck out of the zone,” Nicholson said. "There's always a rivalry when we play N.C. State, but we were able to keep our cool and maintain our composure in the end." "We've been packing it up in the last couple of games," forward Andrew Tattrie said. "The power play unit has also been working better." The aggressive forward, who led the Flames' attack, scored on an empty net seven minutes remaining.

On Saturday, the Flames edged out Duke 7-6 in an exciting offensive overtime game. Captain Steve Clark scored two goals and got an assist in the win. "This season's three assists gave him nine, tying Brent Ward for a share of Liberty's single-season assists record. Ward also has nine, giving him 19 in his college career with a strong season. "The guys worked really hard and played really well," Puglisi said. "I hope we can keep this up and win the Big South." The defense did its job by keeping the Wolfpack away from the Liberty goal. Freshman Kirk Handy put the game in the Flames' zone and was pleased with the win.

"This season's three assists gave him nine, tying Brent Ward for a share of Liberty's single-season assists record. Ward also has nine, giving him 19 in his college career with a strong season. "The guys worked really hard and played really well," Puglisi said. "I hope we can keep this up and win the Big South." The defense did its job by keeping the Wolfpack away from the Liberty goal. Freshman Kirk Handy put the game in the Flames' zone and was pleased with the win.

Big South Conference first-teamer proves versatile in game of life

By RICH MACLONE

Seven years ago, some coach in Fargo, N.D., believed a certain kid was too big to play soccer and was better suited to play football.

Lividly for the U-1 soccer program, said Larson. didn't take that advice to heart.

"I wanted to prove them wrong," Larson said. "We laugh about it now. I didn't even work out hard to show that I could play soccer."

That hard work and motivation has paid large dividends for the U-1 Flames soccer program.

Larson, a 6-0 junior goalkeeper, was named to the Big South's All Conference First Team last week.

Larson stood out as the best goal-keeper in the Flames soccer program.

"I was really blessed by God this season," Larson said. "I had an amazing season. I worked really hard, and so did the defense in front of me."

Larson has dealt with come on the Elizabeth Champion Tuesday, November 19, 1996

Among Larson's biggest accomplishments this season was a string of three games in which he shut out his opponents, including Coastal Carolina, the Flames' biggest enemy. Larson said that in future he would like to pursue a career in football.

Larson was an assistant coach at Lynchburg High's under-10 youth soccer team last season. The team lost only three games while Larson helped teach the kids. "It was fun teaching the kids to play soccer," Larson said. "I'll love to do it again if I can."

Bill Bell, Larson is one of the reasons why the Flames are going to go see some of the big games. "I love the game," Larson said. "I'm not a big thing, but we have a lot of fun."

The popular goalkeeper is a home-owning service member. He's a member of the band known as Knappy, which recently played at the alternative-Church Christian Club's Upper Room. Also in the band is Larson's teammate Karl Dobbs and his brother-in-law.

"We have a few original songs," Larson said. "It's not a big-time band, but we have a lot of fun."

Hoop team lands prized recruits

RICH MACLONE

The Liberty University men's basketball program has received its second commitment of the season, with the upcoming season opener against Florida Southern.

The Flames have signed two blue chip basketball players, Saturday, on the first day of the NCAA early signing period.

"The signing of these two players is an indication of the strength of our program," head coach Kevin Kuff said.

The two players are:

- Zane Morgan, a 6-foot-9, 240-pound forward from Mt. Zion Christian School in Durham, N.C.

- Devonte Wright, a 6-foot-10, 230-pound center from Leander High School in Texas.

Morgan is a highly sought-after player and is considered one of the top prospects in the country.

Wright is a highly regarded center and is expected to contribute immediately to the Flames' offensive and defensive game.

The signings of Morgan and Wright bring the total number of players signed by Liberty to four this season.

"These signings are a testament to the hard work and dedication of our recruiting staff," Kuff said.

"We are excited to add these two talented players to our program and look forward to their contributions to the Flames in the upcoming season."
