Partyin’ at David’s Place

TOUCHDOWN — Junior Jesse Conner, freshman Laura Queck and senior Carolyn Queck eat pretzels and enjoy the festivities of the Boonk Bowl party at David’s Place Sunday night.

By Angela Nelson, reporter

The Liberty Godparent Coalition held their annual listen America event in the hangar at David’s Place on Tuesday. The event was planned and performed by the students of the Liberty Godparent Coalition. The event included music, art, and poetry to raise awareness and funds for the Liberty Godparent Coalition.

Pro-life event

The Liberty Godparent Coalition is an organization that provides financial and emotional support to pregnant women who choose adoption. The Coalition raises money and awareness through events like listen America. The Coalition also offers support services to pregnant women and their families.

The Coalition has been active in the Lynchburg area for several years, providing support to pregnant women who choose adoption. The Coalition has helped many women and their families navigate the adoption process and provide financial and emotional support.

Clinton’s new office to cost taxpayers $500,000
Former President Bill Clinton is taking full advantage of the law that requires the federal government to supply rent money for past-presidency office space.

The General Services Administration (GSA), the department that handles the allocation of funds for such expenditures, is currently in negotiations to lease Clinton's new office to Tower in Manhattan, is said to cost more than $500,000 for the former presidents, bringing their annual cost to $90,000 for Jimmy Carter. The GSA also provides a staff of $147,000 for George Bush, $99,000 for Gerald Ford and other former president's office space combined. Students looking for an extracurricular activity to relieve the stress of school should consider playing an intramural sport this semester.

Ed Barnhouse, coordinator for intramurals, promises that this semester's intramural sports have something to offer everyone.

Barnhouse said that everyone is welcome to try any sport, whether they are an athletic person or the ultimate couch potato. Everyone is up for a sport to be played with friends or for a sport to be played in the gymnasium.

According to Barnhouse, involvement in intramurals offers students a chance to make a difference, to work with others, and to make a difference in somebody else's life.

This semester, the sports being offered are flag football, men's volleyball, women's volleyball, men's basketball, women's basketball, beer hockey, indoor soccer, beach volleyball, women's softball, women's field hockey and ultimate frisbee.

Women's field hockey and ultimate frisbee are new sports this semester. Participation in intramurals is open to both men and women.

Faculty meet once a month to determine how to contribute to the character of Liberty students and mold them into the image of Christ.
Dear Price,

My RA is a constant nagging menace all the time. It isn't that I don't like her, but she is just like my mom—spank his tall. She looks at me funny—spank his tall. Just spank his tall. He looks at her funny — spank his tall. He is late for curfew—spank his tall. He is still eating glue when he is 34.

It can be a difficult situation living in a dorm where you think the RA is right about everything. I do not have any immediate plans to leave; I am just wondering how I can handle this situation. What would you suggest to me?

Sincerely,

Chris Price

Senate: Resignation of Cooper leaves vacancy

After over 20 minutes of debate, the senate voted to excuse Pittman from his duties.

As a result, someone needed to be appointed to reside over senate session. Pittman was chosen to act as president for next week's senate session.

In an interview, Pittman said that he had not expected to be appointed and that it was surprising that Pittman was named in front of the faculty members and students to serve as senate leader. He said that Pittman was chosen by the constitution and appointed for the period in which he served.

Pittman said he understood that he was not expected to vote and "I respect the leader. I let him vote.

Stimson is obligated to choose another qualified individual to be the executive vice president.

He will have to bring someone in the senate weekly to determine if he is in order. Pittman must act as the leader during senate meetings.

Stimson said that he next step will be to talk to some individuals.

He hopes to have the position filled soon and will be "looking forward to having someone under normal circumstances again."

When asked about the senator's occurrences, Richardson said that he was not sure if anyone had talked to him about their assumptions and handled the situation.

His appointment, he said, was very last minute. "I think it was a surprise to the students and me. I wasn't even aware of it needed," Richardson said.

O'Reilly: Talks with Falwell

On the other side of campus, things were just as interesting. O'Reilly was asked if he thought Falwell would be a crusader. "I'm going to be a crusader. I'm going to be doing," O'Reilly said.

Falwell called Bush "a beast of burden," and said after the show that he didn't think O'Reilly looked up Bush's butt more often. "O'Reilly thinks that Bush is the most popular man in the world, but I will be more popular about it," Falwell said.

Before ending the program, O'Reilly said to Falwell, "I want to be sure you are a successful guy, and it's our pleasure to do your prayers."
DeMoss is worth the wait

As Kohlhuber concludes successfully breaks down yet another wall or replaces another Chicago railroad bridge, his "Hall of Fame" status continues to grow. The党建’s leadership wonders, however, whether the changes the new manager has made will produce the same results the old manager did.

“Hall of Fame” appears to be a stretch for what DeMoss brings to the job. His record for job dismissals is impressive, but his record for staying in a job is not. So far, he has been fired seven times. He certainly has a long ways to go to match the record of a Chicago manager who was fired 10 times.

The main reason DeMoss’ tenure has been so short is that he is a difficult man to work with. As one Chicago manager said, "He’s a great manager to work for if you have a lot of money.”

He also has a tendency to make mistakes in his calculations, which can be frustrating to those who work with him. He once calculated that a new stadium would cost $500 million, but the actual cost was $600 million.

In addition, DeMoss has a tendency to be a micromanager. He constantly questions the decisions made by others, which can be distracting and time-consuming.

Finally, DeMoss has a tendency to be unpredictable. One day he will be easy to work with, and the next day he will be impossible.

All in all, DeMoss is not the right man for a job that requires a lot of patience and understanding. He is more suited for a job that requires a lot of energy and enthusiasm.

Quote of the week

"You know, it’s a great way to get out and see the world. It’s also a great way to meet new people. I’ve met some great people on my last few trips. I think it’s a great way to experience different cultures and learn new things.

Rats really do dream of cheese

From time to time, one or two may have come up with the answer that rats no longer store their dreams. If that’s true, it would be a great new opportunity, especially for those who are interested in learning more about the brain.

Quote of the week

"I think you're confusing your hard drive with your brain. It's not a storage device."
a few comments and opinions have looked toward this day for months, years, even decades. This is the Graduation Day. On the weekend of May 11-12, the small college town of Lynchburg will be swarmed with graduate-hungry families who have come to watch their wonder child walk the aisles of the Emory and Henry Armory. Students and their families will be there also. Randolph-Macon Women’s College and Lynchburg College are holding their graduation ceremonies on the same weekend as Liberty. Some area hotels have been making reservations for graduation weekend since as early as May 2000. And a number of hotels have already filled up for that weekend.

So what if you are concerned about finding a place for your family to stay? While your RA’s already filled up for that weekend, don’t be alone. Randolph-Macon Woman’s College is holding its own small restaurant. The Ramada has an outdoor pool and is only one exit away from Liberty. The Ramada Inn still has openings for graduation weekend and can be reached at 844-4244.

Econo Lodge The Econo Lodge offers a one-room occupancy for $53, a double-occupancy for $85, and a two-night stay and continental breakfast for $332. For reservations, call Best Western at 237-2986, or visit its Web site at www.bestwest-ern.com.

Best Western, which offers three graduation packages. Generally during graduation weekend, you can expect to pay $80 for a room starting at $42 per night. From its guests, best sites for a two-night stay and continental breakfast for $332. For reservations, call Best Western at 237-2986, or visit its Web site at www.bestwest-ern.com.

Ramada Inn If you plan to stay at the Ramada Inn, tell its operators how you are related to Liberty, located in downtown Lynchburg. The Inn offers a variety of services, such as plush robes for each visitor, coffee and tea brought to your door, fire­place and snack baskets in each room. Not to mention the fact that visitors are treated to a hot breakfast in a cozy dining setting. But don’t expect to make reservations for this year’s graduation weekend.

Lynchburg Mansion Inn Located in the heart of Lynchburg’s historic district, is the Lynchburg Mansion Inn Bed & Breakfast. Munirah Sherman, an employee, mentioned that each room has a private bath­room, telephone, cable television, optional fire­place and that there is even a family apart­ment suite. Guests also experience designer sheets, the King’s own manuscript in each room.

Because May is such a busy time of year for Lynchburg’s hotels, Best Western, which offers three graduation packages. Generally during graduation weekend, you can expect to pay $80 for a room starting at $42 per night. From its guests, best sites for a two-night stay and continental breakfast for $332. For reservations, call Best Western at 237-2986, or visit its Web site at www.bestwest-ern.com.

Wingate Inn If you are planning your parents’ biggest gift of the year, book at the Wingate Inn. It is only yards away from Liberty, located in downtown Lynchburg, and offers a variety of services, such as plush robes for each visitor, coffee and tea brought to your door, fire­place and snack baskets in each room. Not to mention the fact that visitors are treated to a hot breakfast in a cozy dining setting.

Federal Crest Inn The Federal Crest Inn is a hot bed breakfast located in downtown Lynchburg. The Inn offers a variety of services, such as plush robes for each visitor, coffee and tea brought to your door, fire­place and snack baskets in each room. Not to mention the fact that visitors are treated to a hot breakfast in a cozy dining setting.

BREACKFAST B’Sel — Visitors to the Federal Crest Inn will enjoy plump rolls, their own fresh juice and a cold beverage in a cozy setting. But don’t expect to make reservations for this year’s graduation since parents have been known to make reservations a year in advance.

Villager Lodge The Villager Lodge screens guests who are looking for not only a room to sleep in, but a place to sleep. Also, bed & breakfasts do not change their rates during graduation weekend. For the Federal Crest Inn, the price is a constant $820 — $620 a night. Liberty also announced that because The Federal Crest Inn only has five rooms, five-room suites for visitors — they are often booked at least a year in advance. In some cases, Ripley has seen parents reserve a room for their freshman’s graduation.

Ripley’s observation is not uncommon. To be put on the waiting list, call The Federal Crest Inn at 845-6155, or visit their Web site at www.lowco­m.com/tv/villager.html.

STAYING IN STYLE — Goats at the Ramada Inn will enjoy a full breakfast buffet and an outdoor pool.

Dr. King’s dream — in our hearts or on the books?

American’s "coldest" Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., whose March on Washington, “I Have a Dream” speech was delivered 50 years ago this month, is back in the spotlight. It was his dream to end segregation and promote racial equality. Today, it is a dream that is still being worked on.

Dr. King, in his famous "I Have a Dream" speech, said, "When we have destroyed the last wall of segregation and the last wall of discrimination, then we will be able to see the dawn of a new America."

In the years that followed, Dr. King continued to push for civil rights and racial equality. His dream of a world where all people are treated equally has not been achieved, but it is a dream that continues to inspire people today.

On June 11, 2001, a day that only our parents and grandparents can remember, Dr. King hit the streets of America to rally for civil rights. His dream of a world where all people are treated equally has not been achieved, but it is a dream that continues to inspire people today.

While some students and faculty members may be unfamiliar with Dr. King, it is important to remember that his words and actions still resonate today.

Dr. King’s dream continues to inspire people today. It is a dream that we should all work towards achieving. It is a dream that we should all work towards making a reality.

Dr. King’s dream is not just a dream for the future. It is a dream for the present. It is a dream that we should all work towards making a reality.

Duke, N. Carolina prepare for showdown in Durham

By John Fennel, staff sports editor

Two of the ACC’s legendary travels will leave this Thursday as the University of Nort ho Carolina's Tar Heels travel to Durham to play the Blue Devils. Duke has dominated the ACC in recent years, winning the last 12 league games. When they meet Thursday, both teams will be included in the top 7 in the ACC poll. Under coach Mike Krzyzewski, the Blue Devils have wound up with more than one national title, and one more a national tournament. Oregon State, which has won three consecutive NCAA tournaments, is ranked second to both the Associated Press and the ESPN/Coaches Poll.

Women serve it up in first tennis season

By Dick Campbell, reporter

The year of new beginnings brings something new to the LU campus. Along with a new dimension, there is a new women's athletic team at Liberty University. The Ladies Flames women's tennis team will be kicking into high gear as it begins its season against Gardner-Webb on February 17 at the Raleigh-Durham Tennis Center.

One of the most important aspects of the new tennis team is its large number of walk-ons. Seven of the eight players have walked on, most of which did not know Liberty University before coming here.

According to most observers, the women's team is one of enthusiasm and dedication. Naturally, a team composed of predominantly unexperienced talent faces an uphill climb in a season against big schools with lots of money to recruit, and an established tradition.

The Lady Flames are stoking positive, remembering that hard work has in the past ultimately brought victory. In fact the atmosphere created by the Lady Flames is one of encouragement and support for one another to achieve their goals.

"I think that if we do our best, give things to the Lord, and know that we put everything into it, then we will be more successful than most people perceive. We have a lot of talent and potential," said Sloof.

Although her basketball career has been a long road for Sloof, she has never given up. "I always want to play well, but it is nice to gain confidence and experience into your game," said Sloof.

Sloof feels that it was a necessity for her to become a leader on the team.

"I was picked from the start that we had to come together and off of the court to play well. Our chemistry has been great and it is only getting better," said Sloof.

According to Sloof, team chemistry, which was once a weakness, is now the team's best strength.

"This team is only 19 years when we're playing as a unit and experience, so I think for the middle of the season we really start doing," said Sloof.

Even though Sloof does not consider herself a vocal leader, it is her hard work and determination that has begun to become contagious throughout the entire Liberty Flames roster.

"She never quits and she plays hard, she practices hard. These are good traits to pass along to the other members of our team," liberty Head Coach Rudi Breeden said. However, coming from an experienced Netherland's basketball, where basketball takes a backseat to sports such as soccer, it has been a long road for Sloof. After having the game at the age of 9, Sloof began to focus more on her skills in high school and playing as a member of the Netherlands National Team. Although her basketball experience goes back a long way, nothing could prepare her for the competition that she would face in the United States as a freshman at Liberty.

"The whole mentality of the game of basketball is very different here in the states. The competition here has made us a much better player both physically and mentally," said Sloof.

Sloof says that the Lady Flames were favored to win the Big South Conference this season. Another conference title would be the fifth straight year that Liberty walks away with the crown. It is living up to its big billing so far this season as the Lady Flames currently hold a two-game winning streak lead in the Big South Conference.

According to Sloof, the Lady Flames use their reputation as the dominant of the conference as a motivation to push forward. "It is tough when everyone plays their best game against each other, but we seem to show that we have some advantage. We need to be able to elevate our game as well," said Sloof.

"That's our challenge, to be able to play one at a time as the season goes on and win the Big South again," said Sloof.

Sloof credits her parents on their never-ending support of whatever she decides to do. "They have always been there for me, and the Lord has been strong for me, but we are all in this together," said Sloof.

Sloof feels that the Lady Flames are once again in search of yet another Big Ivy Women's Tennis Conference Title.
Hockey whips Va. Tech-10-8

By Jeff Lowes, reporter

The Roanoke Civic Center erupted with cheers and the sounds of beer being poured as the Flames took command of the game last night.

The Liberty Flames, led by the defensive play of Mel Hankinson, routed Virginia Tech 10-8.

The game itself is similar to ice hockey, with a few notable differences. According to Shubert, the team was instead coming into the game after last weekend's big win over UNC. Shubert had promised his team that they would dominate the game.

Despite Shubert's prediction, the Flames stood tall and dominated the game throughout the three periods. According to Shubert, the team was very disappointed with the loss, as they came down hard on the Flames Maurice Watkins, asump three goals on the board.

Both Chris Lowes and Ben Wilson gave LU the win. LU took advantage of Tech's weaknesses, allowing Joe Smith to score one goal, and along with Ben Wilson's contribution of three goals. Both Head Coach Bob Bloomfield and Captain Chris Lowes quickly responded, putting two goals each on the board. Joe Smith and Ben Wilson had each scored goals in previous games, demonstrating their offensive prowess.

Bloomfield said, "In the third period, we overcame our mistakes, and played good hockey." According to Shubert, the team was excelling in the second period, after last weekend's big win over UNC. Shubert had promised his team that they would dominate the game.

The Flames' quick start set the tone for the rest of the game, as they went on to win 10-8. They were able to gain momentum and maintain their lead throughout the game, showing their character and how well they play as a team.

The Flames' offensive strategy was effective throughout the game, as they were able to capitalize on their opportunities and score multiple goals. They were able to outshine Virginia Tech in terms of both defense and offense, demonstrating their skills and teamwork.

The Flames' defensive strategy was also effective, as they were able to prevent Virginia Tech from scoring multiple goals and keep them on the defensive throughout the game. Their ability to defend effectively and maintain their lead is a testament to their overall performance.

In conclusion, the Flames' victory over Virginia Tech was a great win for the team, as they were able to dominate the game and show their skills and teamwork both offensively and defensively. They were able to outshine their opponent and maintain their lead throughout the game, demonstrating their character and how well they play as a team.

The Liberty Flames lost their seventh straight game Tuesday night, falling to the conference's first-place team, USC Asheville. The Flames dropped to 5-15, 1-5 in conference.

"The game was a testament to our determination," Head Coach Mel Hankinson said. "The team needed him the most, it shows his character and how well they play as a team."

New York: a "Giant failure"

After beating all week that the Giants couldn't even touch their Super Bowl opponents, the New York Giants showed the team they were facing nothing new in Florida.

He didn't understand where the team went that was supposed to show up and put the Baltimore Ravens in Tampa, but it turns out that nothing much has changed in New York.

The Giants' 3-0 lead didn't show Kerry Collins and any thought he was making. His interceptions and multiple mistakes were nothing for Chris Simms to smile about. Baltimore limited the Giants to a single touchdown and that came on a field goal returns on the team's final drive. It seemed almost as if the Giants didn't show up.
