On Aug. 22, the IRS started the renunciation of its proposed new policy in the back pages of the national press. This is in contrast to not publishing its proposal in the “rules and regulations” section of the Register of the IRS directly flouted congressional intent.

The IRS’ proposed new procedure for the Christian schools and churches is one that the schools are guilty of systematic violations. This new procedure is of no use to the public, but it will retroactively strip the IRS of its power and make the IRS lose its power.

The IRS’ “Reasoning” is that any private school which adheres to the federal government’s freedom of religion policies was created for the IRS by the private school, perpetuating “separation” and “discrimination.” Thus, any school that has been created since 1957 will be subject to IRS regulations.

Several governments have denounced the IRS attempt to enact its proposed new regulations into law without following the due process procedures.

Rep. George Hansen (R-Idaho) denounced the agency’s action on Sept. 20. He said: “The regulation...was published in the “action” section of the Register, and without a chance to understand or agree. The proposed regulations were not published in the “proposed rules and regulations” section, but was buried in the back in the Register itself. In the proposal itself, the IRS makes the absurd assertion that the proposed rule is not significant (thus that does not come within the scope of congressional intent).”

Hansen said the proposed regulations “are the greatest conceivable implications of the proposal and schools certainly are the IRS wide scope for abuse and harassment. It is commonplace to claim that the regulations...is not significant.”

The proposal specifically includes church-related schools and there is nothing in the regulations which could not later be applied to churches themselves.

“What is involved is a very deep First Amendment question,” Hansen said. Hansen has introduced a bill (S.B. 143) to repeal the IRS regulations in order to implement the proposed new regulations. In addition, House Concurrent Resolution 711 has been introduced, asserting that Congress does not approve of the IRS adopting the proposed new regulations to strip private schools retroactively of their tax-exempt status.

As of the end of October, any school found after 1957 will be automatically assumed to be guilty of rampant racist behavior and will have its tax-exempt status revoked immediately. Schools will be able to appeal the revocation during October provided they can prove they have implemented radical “defensive” measures to prevent the “injurious action” in the federal code-word for individually imposed racial and sexual quotas systems.

Specifically, private schools will have to prove they are “blackbirds” to teach. “Engaged in active recruiting of black students.”

Establishing special scholarships reserved for blacks. “Radically increasing the proportion of blacks.”

The IRS bureaucrats have, in fact, established six separate “minorities” the private schools will be automatically found of “discriminating” against.

Furthermore, these other requirements, private schools will be forced “to make friends with the Jews in all groups.” Further, private schools will have to make friends with the non-black schools in a (lengthy list of activities).

This is an integrated, as in, TBL, TRB, and LBC. We will not integrate, and we oppose segregation of any kind, because we are not afraid to address the government and attempts to control Christian Schools.

The time is short. We must take immediate action now. The present of Internal Revenue, Attenion EEO, Washington reporters, and our Congressmen and Senator. If you want to preserve Christian schools, write today.

BETSY + RACES = NO!

Be JERRY FAULKELL

We will be voting on part-remember the lost generation! This is because polls say that Virginians would approve the referendum if the vote were held today.

I am surprised that churches and Christians in Virginia have not spoken out against this evil. It is time for every pastor and Christian to speak out and带头 against this evil threat to our state.

I am against gambling because it is based on a (quick and killing) game. I am against gambling because it violates the principle behind each of the Ten Commandments. I am against gambling because it will cost churches and taxpayers.

People will have to pay welfare for the lives of the children without the protection, and for increased tax revenue.

I rally the churches of Virginia. Every Christian should see against gambling on Nov. 7, 1978.

Dear Editor:

I recently read your editorial and was quite impressed with your analysis. However, the article did not fully explore the implications of this issue. It seemed to me that the author did not consider the role of education in this matter. I believe that education is crucial in order to provide a secure foundation for the future. I look forward to your response.

WHERE DO YOU STAND ON THE VITAL ISSUE OF LEGALIZED PARI-MUTUEL BETTING (RACE TRACK GAMBLING) IN VIRGINIA?

Are you in favor of pari-mutuel betting even at the risk of letting ORGANIZED CRIME get a foot in the door of basic morality (as Maryland and Illinois)?

If you are not in favor of pari-mutuel betting, what reforms would you bring about to make legalized gambling more acceptable?

Your opinion is needed now in helping to combat and mobilize Virginians against the risks and dangers of legalized gambling.

SAY THE WORD FOR CHRIST

While Bill Gaither writes a song he tells you something about his life. And something about yours, too.

Nancy, Charlotte, Debbie, Nancy, and Mark, are the children of the Whitlock family. In this song, they are the voices of the children. Why? Because they believe that Christianity is for every family, and that the Church must reach people everywhere.

To help do this, Nancy is writing a new monthly resource paper for the parents, which she calls "Making a Difference." This paper will focus on the needs of families of the children. Why? Because they believe that Christianity is for every family, and that the Church must reach people everywhere.

A total of six children were involved in the research for this paper, including Nancy's father, Art DeMoss, a pastor at the church, and her mother, Marion, who is also a pastor.

The King is Coming, He Touched Me, Because He Lives, and We're Going Home. These are the songs that have set new standards for gospel music. Songs with messages that reach the hearts of us all.

Building Churches In The CAN

"CHANGE A NATION" IS STUDENT GOAL

By BRENDA EASTERING

Daniel Henderson, a junior at Lynchburg College, is spearheading a unique method of spreading the Christian gospel. He is embarking on a mission to build churches, his team called "Change A Nation." The mission of CAN is to "change the world through the power of the Holy Spirit and the church." The team consists of students from various colleges and universities across the United States.

The concept of CAN was born out of a study and planning session that took place in December 1976. Since then, the team has been actively involved in building churches and spreading the gospel to various parts of the world.

The team is currently made up of students from colleges such as Lynchburg College, Virginia Commonwealth University, and others. They are working together to accomplish their goal of changing the world through the power of the Holy Spirit and the church.

The team is also working on developing a multi-team concept to reach the city of Seattle, to a smaller area in the United States, and to other regions of the world. They are planning to start a radio ministry, and they are also working on developing a multi-team concept to reach the city of Seattle.

TAX BOUT: CHURCHES BATTLING LABOR SECRETARY

By ROY HARREYS

WASHINGTON -- Many fundamentalist churches across the country are fighting back against the government's recent attempt to redefine the church and the state. The Secretary of Labor has come out with a new interpretation of the law that the church would like to see revised. The churches feel that the new interpretation is too restrictive and that it would interfere with their religious freedom.

The two main arguments made by the churches are that the church is a secular organization and that the government is not entitled to interfere with the church's religious activities. The government, on the other hand, feels that the church is a public institution and that it must be regulated just like any other organization.

The Secretary of Labor, in response to this argument, has said that the church is a religious institution and that it must be regulated just like any other religious organization. The churches feel that this is a violation of their constitutional rights and that it is a form of government interference in their religious activities.

The churches are also concerned about the fact that the government is looking for ways to impose taxes on the churches. The churches feel that this is a violation of their constitutional rights and that it is a form of government interference in their religious activities.

The churches are fighting back against the government by filing lawsuits and by lobbying for legislation that would protect their constitutional rights. The churches are also working to educate the public about the importance of religious freedom and the need to protect it.
Senior Adults Active, But Not Retired But ‘Re-Fired’

NORM HEDDING DIRECTS SENIORS

Senior Hedding has assisted considerably for headship up for the Senior Adults Ministry, Thomas Road Baptist Church. The church has grown from 500 members in 1974 to over 5,000 today. The church now has a strong emphasis on involvement at all levels of ministry, including senior citizens.

One day as Norm walked by a Christian bookstore, he saw The Cure Goes Green. Earth was his only wife, that he was not ready to become a parent. Norm bought it. He could see that something was different at Liberty Baptist Seminary. Norm Hedding was in the first class to start the senior program and the first class to graduate. He was unshackled in Lynchburg.

While at the Seminary, the church continued to manage the church, but Norm Hedding, who had been working on a major project in LCAD, had been kept busy managing the church and the zone, and he found himself to be a public, Bible-believing church.

Thomas Road Baptist Church, with a unique Christian fair, was able to grow its Sunday School from 250 to 1,800 in five years. In 1978, Norm Hedding left LCAD to become the director of Senior Saints at Thomas Road Baptist Church.

When asked why he wanted to become a minister, Norm said, “I was in the wrong job and that God wanted me to get out of it.”

Several years ago, Norm Hedding was asked about the current state of senior ministry. He said, “I think we have come a long way in terms of understanding the needs of our seniors.”

Norm Hedding said that senior ministry is important because it helps churches to reach out to people who have been forgotten. He added, “We want to make sure that every senior feels welcome and included in the church.”

Norm Hedding also emphasized the importance of providing opportunities for seniors to serve and use their gifts. He said, “Senior ministry is not just about providing programs for seniors, but also about involving them in the life of the church.”

Norm Hedding concluded by saying, “Senior ministry is an important part of the church’s mission to reach out to the whole community, and we want to make sure that seniors are included in that mission.”
