IN THE NEWS: If Deidra scored crowd with solo high-schoolers at the run, we can't blame the talent, but a better side performance could make a difference. On March 22, 200 College for a Weekender visited Liberty campus to see if LU was right for them. Page 1.

FREE CAR WASH Students and faculty members pitched together for free car wash in the parking lot of DeMoss Hall, Saturday. The wash was held by the Office of Minority and International Students as part of Black History Month. Page 3.

LU STUDENT TRiES FOR MISS USA: LU senior and Miss Virginia Susan Robinson wasn't crowned Miss USA a few weeks ago, but "I'm still the Little Chicks" and "Power in the Blood." Around noon the students marched for two hours around two separate operations. "They're just trying on the Holy Spirit to speak with us through their hearts," Weaver said. "We walked 20 feet again holding signs without speaking to anyone. Sometimes silence speaks louder than anything." Weaver said. Saturday night the students spoke to Hsu Hall at Liberty University, Lynchburg, Va. Tuesday, February 21, 1995 Vol. 12, No. 17

MODULAR BUSINESS COURSE: "Aviation is a potential. More than 200 College for a Weekenders visited high-schoolers the weekend before last, it wasn't an hallucination. We just want our program to be known." Page 1.

THE NEWS!

Getting a Life: Spring is the time for weddings — and perspective is getting pretty close. If you're a student far from home who's trying to plan a wedding, this week's Life page gives you an idea of what you need. It includes an article on how some LU students are preparing for their happy events. Page 6.

Wedding Section: "Love is in the air — and so is LU on the Campus life page. "I hope it's a happy time for those who are getting married." Page 1.

The Mouth: The Liberty Champion's Personal opinion column. "What do you think makes a strong marriage?" Page 8.

Editors' Corner: "Though the media often states that women are not yet in the workforce, it's not by accident. Women have implemented a computer program to better service the students." Page 10.

Commentary: "Society needs ants to live, argues opinion editor Sarah Poulton. My society would not be utilized or successfully function without the ants from being used at all." Page 11.

Downward Slump Snapped: The Flames broke their six-game losing streak with a 7-6 victory over Washburn on Wednesday. Page 11.

Sports with Strout: "This column takes you for an inside look at the NCAA season — what's happened so far and what you can anticipate for the future. He focuses on the trade between the Redskins and the Titans." Page 11.

The Forecast: "Today: The season of the thunder is to come. The forecast is valid, the weather is to blame the talent. There are four more things that students should cover up. "It's pretty compliant. Page 12.

Check-in may change soon: By AMY J. SAVER Champion Reporter

Administrators are making concerted efforts to reduce the headache associated with the check-in process with modifications that may be in place by next year. "Our anticipation is we can drastically reduce the number of lines we have for this," the administrator said. Off course, the changes won't happen immediately. "We're probably going to take a two to three-year process to get it all worked out, because your past doesn't work so easy. "We're trying to make the process as easy as possible." Page 13.

SAAA protests in Greensboro

By MICHELE CALLAHAN Champion Reporter

If campus residents are finding their faulty fans or broken light switches fixed a little too quickly this semester, it's not by accident. University Services has implemented a computer program to better service the students. Service requests are now taken by an operator at entrance, 24 hours a day. From there, the request is sent into the computer, and a service worker responds immediately to appropriate departments. In the past, the process was not so easy. "Historically, if there was something wrong in the dorm rooms, you had to go to your RA. He would fill out a few part-of-forms, which there were just lost in the shuffle," said SAAA Community Outreach Director Sue Smith.

SAAA members noted out a protest in front of Woman's Center, as an abortion clinic, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, where they held signs, prayed and sang such as "I'll Stand Jerusalem," "Shout to the Lord," "O Come, O Come Emmanuel."" Page 1.

The anti-abortion Action League of Greensboro provided for an anti-abortion rally. "We all lined up all the way on the Street asks, "What do you think makes a strong marriage?" Page 2.

FIGHT FOR THE UNBORN — SAAA members are getting involved in more activities this year, including the March for Life earlier in the month.

Weekenders invade LU campus

By JANETTE CAMPBELL
Copy Editor

Prospective students and their parents plunged into college life Feb. 10-12 as LU hosted 206 students during the semester's first weekender.

"Their parents or sponsors drop them off on Thursday evening and they don't see their parents until Sunday," Director of Admissions Jay Spencer said.

"That's the way we'd like it to be — that way they're really here then, getting the full experience of what it is," he said. "If they're hanging around with Mom and Dad, they're not getting the full benefit.

In addition to visiting classes, the weekenders and their parents were given the opportunity to attend a YoungQuest Thursday night and several workshops Friday. Barbara Sherman, director of the Bruckner Learning Center, conducted a 90-minute study skills seminar and Bill Kohnlein, director of Financial Aid, talked with attendees about available financial resources.

"We try to meet the needs of the various constituencies that are going on here we get their questions answered," he said.

"Chi Alpha is a wonderful chance for young women who love Jesus to come together for fellowship with other students who are planning to go on a mission and biblical studies majors, said Amber Karpenko, the club's student coordinator.

"We are a club for women of any, rather it be that way because they're really here then, getting the full benefit," he said.

"Another way of ministry," Karpenko, a psychology major, such as psychology, education and music, explained. "We try to meet the needs of the various constituencies that are going on.

"For young women who love Jesus to come together for fellowship with other students who are planning to go on a mission and ministry opportunities," she said. "Chi Alpha has helped me to do that."
Chilly temperatures and gray skies didn't deter the Miss Virginia USA's Robinson from helping scrub cars during a free car wash. Robinson said she has gained a grasp on a witnessing opportunity.

"Whether I won or didn't win was out of my control," Robinson said. "Part of me sees the vanity in beauty pageants, but there's also a wonderful opportunity to further my education and speak in public," Robinson said. "I really like Liberty and I really want to help Liberty be a witness. I want to use the pageants as a witnessing opportunity."

"So, it's like it's called to serve the LU community and the public," Robinson said. "I'm thankful for the opportunity to share my faith.

"The first few months before the competition were stressful. Robinson added, "I knew God began a work in my life and just like Hebrews 11:6 says, 'I really believe God in everything without seeing it first.'""
Practical business modular hits LU

By TIMOTHY J. GIBBONS

While the Career Center may have pre pared LU students for the business world, the LU School of Business and Government have added more to their qualifications to enter the business world. Frank Goodwin told the Champion Reporter how to prepare them for the workplace and the world.

"It's a very practical course," he said. "It's down-to-earth business techniques and to prepare them for the real world." Goodwin said the course will hit LU students with practical business techniques and to prepare them for the workplace and the world.

China, Tibet continue conflict

Though foes, the countries need each other

By JAN WONG

LHASA, Tibet — Li Wenwei, who has been called China's "brutal" premier, said Tuesday that China is a "tyrant, but one of its medieval past." Since the bloody 1989 riots and the Chinese invasion of Tibet, the situation remains tense in the region.

In a speech at the Tibet Autonomous Region's Assembly, Li said that Tibet is a "fertile" region with rich resources, but that the Chinese government is not doing enough to protect the region's environment.

Li also praised the Chinese government's efforts to promote economic development in Tibet. He said that the region's economy has grown significantly in recent years, and that the government has invested heavily in infrastructure projects such as roads and bridges.

However, Li acknowledged that there are still challenges to be overcome in Tibet. He said that the government needs to do more to address the region's social and economic problems, including poverty and inequality.

Li's comments come in the wake of a series of protests and demonstrations in Tibet in recent years, which have been met with a strong crackdown by the Chinese government.

The situation in Tibet remains tense, with reports of continued unrest and human rights abuses.

China's Tibet autonomous region remains a sensitive issue in Chinese foreign policy, with tensions simmering over issues such as human rights, sovereignty, and self-determination.

Li's speech, however, was not well-received by some Tibetans, who view it as a continuation of the Chinese government's policy of co-opting Tibetans and portraying them as content with their status quo.

Despite the tensions, Li's comments reflect China's ongoing efforts to promote economic development and modernization in Tibet, with a focus on infrastructure and job creation.

The region's economy has grown significantly in recent years, with investment in industries such as mining, tourism, and renewable energy.

However, there are still concerns about the region's social and economic inequality, with reports of poverty and unemployment in remote areas.

Students plan their weddings away from home

By Kim Matherley

If bouquets, receptions, photographs, dresses, flowers, invitations and honeymoon destinations all cost a couple thousands of dollars, then you probably won’t be a soon-to-be-bride eagerly awaiting big day. To think just a bride who has found herself lost in the midst of long distance planning and has just given birth to a son, could care less.

As there engaged LJ women have shared, much of this type of confusion can be overcome with a lot of common sense organization and prior planning.

"Be organized. It’s the whole key. I think that’s what has made it easy," Wendi Gibbs, an English major who is planning something style wedding said.

The way Wendi went about getting organized to keep a record of all that has made it easy.

"Keep receipts of everything. Don’t expect the places you deal with to keep receipts. Do everything like what I tell and who I talk to,” she said.

Wendi started an organizing notebook even before Scott Pollard, her fiance, proposed. "I was going to make one for the movie that will go down in history as "A Family Clan." The wedding movie was made was made after."

"We have been dating five years. Since we were getting married in June and I wanted my mom and me when I get my diploma sold it," she said.

For those who have not found a dress or a tuxedo for your partner, do not worry. Despite the fact that the planned October 7th wedding date is drawing near, statica in Morgan is taking their time with preparations.

"I’ve really got to start planning because I’ll be going to law school," the said jokingly. However, Rita is one step ahead of the game. She has also overcome many of the problems that occur when you are far from the preparation by checking out relatives and friends for help.

"It’s a sad and a situation that one can’t be able to draw on," Rita said, adding that some of the things they will be sold or borrowed.

Sharleen Buschelmann’s organization method falls between Rita and Wendi’s style of planning. "She has her friends and cutting taken care of and is still working on her invitations," Sharleen said.

Sharleen also encourages keeping loved ones involved. "Make sure your friends and family find out. That’s the whole idea of getting done," she said.

"We’ve kept it simple. There is nothing extravagant about it. It’s very elegant and classic," Rita said.

"We’ve got to really go on our wedding," Wendi said.

"We’ve got to really get involved in the wedding. If you know her involved you can turn in a yes and save the long distances calls," Wendi said.

"I would say it is if it’s a wedding you’re planning away from home, have a good relationship with one of your peers. Moms love to really get involved in the wedding," Wendi said.

Food Dude
Cajun food + jazz music = A perfect date

Will the weather have been unpre-

Cajun food has been unpre-

Cajun food plus jazz music is a great combination. But, let's be real. Food Dude from Foley, giving up to new restaurants, is located in Lynchburg, looking out for news dishes and enterprise.

This week I stumbled upon a new restaurant and was impressed. The Jazz Street Grill off of Old Forest Road definitely made me one of my favorites, even though I've only tried two of their dishes. Their Cajun-style food will make you go "Wowee!

The atmosphere is superb. Genuinely, if you're looking to tally up some brownie points, then this is the place to be. Hopefully, the young lady of your choice will have never eaten there before. You'll walk into a dimly lit room with a "what's up" room. Now your first reaction may be to order "A half!" Let's go somewhere else.

The atmosphere gets a little more lively when you walk in on a Friday night. You'll have to order your food at the counter, and then find a seat. If you're looking to meet someone new, this is a great place to be. You'll be surrounded by other diners, and it's easy to strike up a conversation.

The menu is extensive, and there's something for everyone. I highly recommend the fried catfish and shrimp. The catfish is juicy and flavorful, and the shrimp are perfectly cooked.

The service is excellent as well. The waitstaff is friendly and attentive, and they make sure that you have everything you need. They also have a great selection of beers and wines to choose from.

Overall, this is a great place to go if you're looking for a good time. The food is delicious, the atmosphere is inviting, and the service is excellent. I highly recommend checking it out if you're in the area.
Intramural staff deserves student support

Jeff Smyth and Deane of Student Life Mike Stutler deserve some praise for their efforts with the intramural program. They have put in a lot of time and effort to make the intramural program a success. This year, they have been able to attract many students to participate in the various sports.

"We had nothing to start. We had no experience (with leading intramurals) and no staff," Smyth admitted. "No staff, no experience and a lack of equipment would be formidable obstacles to anyone.

But from this rutin sport beginning, Smyth, the official Coordinator of Student Activities and Intramural Sports, rebuilt the program. He called Sam Shell — the former head of intramurals — Coordinator of Student Activities and Intramural Sports, rebuilt the program. He called Sam Shell — the former head of intramurals —

"I was ready yesterday is the intramural office's eye toward next year. Smyth said he expects to incorporate 2,000 students and add sports like 5-1-3 basketball, flag football and pokey football and co-ed soccer.

In addition, plans are in the works for A.B. and C leagues in various sports to make them more competitive, as well as developing new intramural sports.

Students who are frustrated with their sport are not being offered should realize the difficulties of getting the sports that are offered off the ground. The best thing that can be done is let the intramural office know what sports they would like to play, then understand that the intramural staff is doing the best it can with what has.

Students can help replenish family's needs

Right now, the collective body of Liberty has the chance to come to the aid of one of its members. As Dr. Falwell mentioned in Wednesday's convocation service, visiting student Mary Jenkins Easter lost her home and its belongings in a fire on Friday, Feb. 10.

Fortunately, Easter's husband and three children, ages 4, 9, and 12, were able to escape the fire safely.

...as the Spirit of the Lord is, there is Liberty. 1 Corinthians:3:17

True confidence and security only come from following biblical freedom

There is no question that America was founded upon the sin of freedom. And if it is clear that the Declaration of Independence states that "all men are created equal," it is even clearer that the government was created for the purpose of securing this inalienable right.

But, somehow, these truths, the truths that are an inalienable right and a fundamental meaning, just don't seem to mean our Godness.

The term was imposed to other meanings such as our natural, criminal, rights, and so on.

And, unfortunately, the use of the term was imposed too far. Today, America is known for individual "rights." The term has lost its true meaning and is used in ways that would be impossible for anyone.

This is a perfect example of how individual rights are interpreted too broadly. What is happening today, is there are so many people claiming their individual rights that everyone else is being pushed aside.

Take, for example, the woman who threatened to sue McDonald's because they wouldn't sell her the coffee on ice, and claim that the coffee should be at the temperature that hot coffee may be her skin. Much ado about nothing.

Occasionally, you can see press releases telling of lawsuits on all of the objects in coffee.

Trail Blazer-Rocket trade to help Houston

As play opens in the second half of the 1994-95 NBA season, I thought it fitting to analyze the future. February is a time when the top teams and basement dwellers look to the future. February is a month when the Los Angeles Lakers of today will be reunited with the Rockets of tomorrow.

Houston will be the team to look to this February if you're a Lakers fan, because the Rockets trade for center Otis Thorpe, dealing in the process for Steve Garvey, a 50-48 lead, which they would hold up over the next four minutes to play the Lakers, which is what the Lakers did. The Lakers scored seven of the next eight points of the game, to hold a 70-65 lead while holding off L.A. down the stretch. Larry Johnson came in hot for Houston in the fourth quarter, scoring 13 points on the night, making all his field goals from behind the three-point point.

Overall, it was a great night for the Lakers, who would go on to win the game, 101-88.

Holloway's feat caps great LU career

Holloway's first 1000-point game came against Winthrop, scoring 27 points on the night, making all his field goals from behind the three-point point.

She was not too familiar with the program, but was a great opportunity for me to witness some of the greats. She was a glockeu opportunity for me to witness what Bird and Magic Johnson brought to the sport.

The game was a back-and-forth contest, with the final score being 70-63 in favor of the Lady Bucs. The game was won by senior guard Ginny Holloway, stumped Charleston Southern, 61-47, Saturday night in the Long Center.

Ginny Holloway, the team's leading scorer, hit six free throws, develop a money shot way to go to reach the superstar status of the Sport.

I think the swap puts Houston back in the hunt for the playoffs, because the Rockets have had to play without Sophia Song, dealt in the process for Vernon Maxwell's contributions.

The combination of the two teams that can present a match-up problems for the Knicks is because of its size in the post. The ability to rebound the ball will be one of the keys.

Justice for senior guard Virgin Aluma, as the Flames senior guard Ginny Holloway eludes Tracey DeLong fouled Holloway, sending the Lady Flames to a 24-percent field goal on the night, making all his field goals from behind the three-point point.

"I had so many free throws, I don't know how I couldn't get up the L.A. basket line," LU sophomore center Erma Dixon said. "I knew that we were going to go the free-throw line, so we made sure that we were going to make as many free throws, don't know how I could get up the (Thompson's) mouth."

Former Flame Julius Nwosu makes transition to NBA

Runner places for Nationals

The biggest highlight of the indoor track weekend was spitter Jacob Sebree's qualification for the NCAA Indoor Track Meet. Sebree made the .75-meter in the 6.0-second showing in the 55-meter dash at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Also at UNC, Mike Reid was first in the 400-meters.

Some students competed at Long Beach College on Thursday. Mike Peytonman qualified for the ICAC Indoor Track Meet with a peak of 15.3-fast split.

James McGonigle won first place in the long jump and the 55-meter time. Residence told the 400-meter race once again, placing first, while Trevon Johnson did the 60-meter second place.

“It was a pretty low-key meet,” former Flame Julius Nwosu said of the meeting.

Nearing the end of his senior season, UNCW head basketball coach Joe Rutter is anxiously awaiting the outcome of his team's game against Charleston Southern this weekend. The season opener against Winthrop earlier this month ended in a 76-72 loss to the Bantams. The team is currently 0-2 on the season and looking for a win.

Larry Jackson, a freshman guard, has been a valuable addition to the Flames lineup. He has started all three games so far this season and is averaging 15 points per game, second only to seniors Kevin Mack and David Waldrep. Jackson's ability to score from the perimeter has been crucial to the Flames' success, as he leads the team in three-point shooting with 6-of-16 attempts.

Jackson's performance has been impressive, especially considering he is a freshman. He has shown a high level of maturity and has been a leader on and off the court. The Flames are hoping for a strong performance from Jackson in their upcoming game against Charleston Southern.

The Flames need to focus on their defense to have a chance against the High Point Panthers, who are a tough opponent. The team will need to play with intensity and effort, as they have in the past. With Jackson leading the way, the Flames have a good chance of coming out on top.

Winthrop, on the other hand, is a team that the Flames have had success against in the past. The Flames are looking to build on their momentum from their win over Radford in the Big South Conference Tournament last year. Jackson and the Flames will need to be at their best to have a chance against Winthrop.

The Flames are looking to turn their season around and get their first win of the season. With Jackson leading the way, the Flames have a good chance of coming out on top.
