New focus on Judaic studies

By Amanda Thomason

An increased interest in Judaic studies is spurring a new flavor at Liberty University, work by Dr. Randall Price and his team has developed into the Center for Judaic Studies (CJS) — an effort to familiarize students with Jewish studies.

Price, the head of the department, is establishing CJS offices by forming a functional center with the purpose of preparing students with the opportunity to learn more about the Jewish community, history and the importance of supporting the state of Israel today. In January of 2007, Price and his wife, Beverlee, met with Falwell to discuss the plans.

"The Center's goal is to continue to foster this significant relationship by helping Liberty students develop a positive understanding of the Jewish people by strengthening the relationship between the evangelical Christian community, the Jewish people and Israel," Price said.

Students can be involved in the center right now while accruing Christian Service hours.

The CJS was a vision of Dr. Jerry Falwell. According to Price, Falwell wanted to launch a university on Oct. 9 to share with students of C.S. Lewis. "Narnia: The Seven Heavens in the Imagination of the Bible" is presented by Sigma Tau Delta to welcome author and C.S. Lewis expert Michael Ward.

The founding of the Liberty Biblical Museum is another goal that Price and the man are pursuing for the future. Price invited James Fowler to assist in the process of the center in his Graduate/Research Assistant.

"There was not a lot of planning time for the center at first, but in God's providence it has turned out to be the perfect position for me," Fowler said. "Both Dr. Price and I love books and research, and so our personalities mesh very well together."

After postgraduate studies in Semitic languages and archaeology, Price was able to study with his major. It's freshness and newness is the ability to immerse themselves in Israel's history and culture.

"A goal of the center will be to promote such understanding in order to set Liberty graduates at the forefront of advancing the support of the Jewish people's dearest friends," Price said.

Sigma Tau Delta to welcome author and C.S. Lewis expert Michael Ward

Michael Ward, a leading scholar on the works of C.S. Lewis, is scheduled to speak at Liberty University on Oct. 9 to share with students and researchers his insights into the "Chronicles of Narnia" series. Ward makes it a point to uncover the secret behind Lewis' popular "Chronicles of Narnia" series from a new perspective,

Ward is an ordained minister of the Church of England and has served as chaplain of the University of Pennsylvania in the United Kingdom since 1993, and through it has authored and produced films for television. His book challenges scholars and theologians have tried for years to uncover the secrets behind Lewis' popular "Chronicles of Narnia" series.

Ward has started a "Field Archaeology" class to be offered for those who wish to go on the trip. The deadline to secure a spot is Oct. 1.

Ward provides the opportunity to expand our knowledge of Lewis through his other writing venues — such as the beloved "Narnia series."

Ward will discuss his views and arguments from his book as well as give students the opportunity to ask questions.

"A goal of the center will be to promote such understanding in order to set Liberty graduates at the forefront of advancing the support of the Jewish people's dearest friends," Price said.

I propose putting a fantasy twist to your own, picking and choosing what you like and forming a winning team based on the best principles of each.

Recently I heard a fellow student argue that God did not create women. If you believe, may be on personal beliefs about divorce and instead advocate the worth of women. In the Bible, you think that neither candidate is an excellent and flawless solution to the problem of high inflation, you decide to draw from a president that win these elections.

Like the different defensive and offensive powers of your NFL teams, you decide what positions each person in best and only allow them to “play” at those moments.

Of course, the situation would be the same. The fact that you are just in the headlines, you just can’t succeed in bringing the economy back around. Having a 100 million contribution from selling television, they may be push-away skills of hockey players.

We wouldn’t expect them to work together, basically because, like a hockey team, we are only able to work together, basically because, like a hockey team, we are only able to work together.

What would really make this work is that the potential president would write down and explain in more detail the thought process and reasoning behind their decisions. As it would have to be said, the member of the Senate should be nonexistent, there should never be a female in a CEO should be nonexistent.

BEVINS' LAST-SECOND FIELD GOAL GIVES FLAMES 31-28 WIN

The Liberty Flames (4-3) scored a crucial road victory against Youngstown State on Saturday thanks to Brandon Matt Bevin's game-winning field goal, pushing the squad to a 3-1 WAC win.

The win propelled the Flames perfect season as Liberty defeated a ranked opponent on the road for the first time in nearly a month. The Flames currently have a nine-game football Championship Series win streak that is tops among eligible teams.

Backfiring rushed for a career-high 223 yards and three touchdowns, highlighting a Flames' ground game that ended the had 30 times and averaged 15 yards per carry.

The biggest difference tonight wass Roderic Jenkins. Head coach Donnie Bosco said, "Roderic has had most of his work on defense but we just want him to do what he can in the game."

On the game's opening possession, Youngstown State moved the ball downfield during a methodical, drive that resulted in a touchdown. "Youngstown's quarterback, Brandon Staton, was a threat on the field..."

However, on the ensuing possession, following the touchdown, Liberty's offense experienced a weakness in the sophomore quarterback, Brad Smith. He was unable to complete a touchdown pass to tight end in set one. The Flames, however, looked a few yards out in the ensuing possession.

After Liberty's offense started to score a second three-and-out, Youngstown State went on to win a 35-18 game before matching it in the second half. Jenkins capped the drive with an 8-yard scamper for a touchdown, pushing the Flammen advantage to 19-18.

The Liberty volleyball team opened its 2008 conference season with a 30-28, 30-27, 30-28 sweep of Charleston Southern on Friday in Charleston, S.C.

Although the score was tied five times in the Buccaneers, Liberty never trailed in set one. Chelanie McCarty put an end to the set with a game-winning kill that led the Lady Flames to a 30-28 victory.

Set one proved to be a game of precision serving and defense for the Lady Flames. Liberty had a trio of aces along with five blocks and 19 digs.

The Buccaneers tried to redeem themselves in set three by scoring a 25-22 victory in set three. McCarty's four kills and .667 attack percentage helped Liberty finish off the match with a 30-22 victory in set three.

Here at Liberty, I've always heard people say things like, "Lynchburg is soooo boring" and "There's nothing to do here." Granted, Lynchburg is not really a booming metropolis, but maybe you haven't done a whole lot of searching. Maybe you need to stop pounding snacks at the East Campus Club House or stalking people on Facebook in your dorm room and get out and enjoy God's wonderful creation he has given us. I'm writing this to reach you, Facebook stalker, to encourage you to stop wasting your time here at Liberty and enjoy your time here at Liberty to the fullest.

1. HUNTING ANYONE?

Whether or not you agree with hunting, it is a great way to pass those long, boring afternoons chock full of potential boredom afternoons. Many of my favorite memories growing up in Pennsylvania's rolling countryside were spent sitting in a deer stand with my dad waiting the sun to set and catch that first buck. Even though we weren't always successful, it did have a positive impact on my life and the lives of others.

2. TAKE ADVANTAGE OF "ULTIMATE LU" OPPORTUNITIES

Anything you want to do right at your fingertips with the creation of Ultimate LU. Hiking trails, biking trails, rock climbing, even—when water skiing—have Liberty students almost at Ultimate LU's disposal. You have a lifetime of experience to look forward to at your fingertips.

3. SPEND A DAY AT PANTHER FALLS

Looking for a way to have some fun in the sun? Look no further than just a short distance from campus to the Blue Ridge Mountains and their beautiful waterfalls. Whether you're looking for a 100-foot waterfall or a smaller waterfall, there is a spot for you. The water is great for swimming and fishing. Whether you're a fishing or swimming enthusiast, there is something for you to do at Panther Falls.

4. FISHING GALORE

Fishing is a great way to pass these long, boring afternoons. Check out all of potential fishing spots around and you're sure to find a few that you enjoy. Safety always comes first.

5. HUNTING ANYONE?

Hunting is still a great way to pass time in the outdoors. Even though we weren't always successful, it did have a positive impact on my life and the lives of others.

Liberty students serve the local community from the Inside Out

"Instead of thinking about what we thought our community needs, we sat down with our major, had meetings with city council people, school board members and parks and recreation. We asked them what the needs of our community were," Tim Grandstaff.

LOVING PEOPLE — A truck is collecting donations to the local community, while Emily DeFosse and Amanda Baker, LIFE REPORTER, EDITOR.

Liberty students are working together with Thomas Road Baptist Church (TRBC) to reach the local community with the gospel one service project at a time. The effort to impact the community for Christ stems through the Inside Out program, which has developed out of Pastor Jonathan Falwell's seven-week sermon series on the heart.

One of TRBC's mission pastors, Tim Grandstaff, is heading-up the initiative that focuses on giving TRBC members and Liberty students the opportunity to serve within the community as a ministry.

"Instead of thinking about what we thought our community needs, we sat down with our major, had meetings with city council people, school board members and parks and recreation. We asked them what the needs of our community were and how we as a ministry could help meet those needs," Grandstaff said.

According to Grandstaff a large list of projects was compiled that has the potential to keep the group busy for years. The wide variety of projects gives everyone the opportunity to get involved in something.

Projects include a seven-week food drive, supplying school bus drivers with coffee, and teachers and school administrators with doughnuts and thank-you cards. Making coffee and care packages for local students, registering playgrounds, gas buy-downs and home repairs.

"The work with Campustserve and the block party are done by 200-250 Liberty students who have been involved weekly in some type of ministry," Grandstaff said.

Campustserve is a campus ministry that meets every Saturday at 10 a.m. to go out into the community and serve in various ways. It has been entirely helped with the Inside Out project.

"We've been operating on an as-needed agreement with Tim and the different crews with the Inside Out project," Director of Campusserve Kevin Mahan said. "When they need people in an emergency or a tight spot, we've been able to help them out."

Dr. David Wheeler is a professor of evangelism, the associate director of the Christian Ministry Training and Church Planting Centers and the director of all the applied ministries for the seminary. He leads a team from the seminary that has been involved with the Inside Out project through the gas buy-downs and block parties.

"People have to realize that we really do care for them and that we are not just trying to getAuthor in our bubble or get people to church," Wheeler said. "This whole experience has been about going out into the community and being a light where there is no light, so that the church isn't just an organization."

According to Wheeler, there are around 80 graduate students and between 50 and 60 seminary students who have been involved with the Inside Out project.
