Debate team grabs No. 1 slot in NDT

"We've been in the top four or at least eight of every tournament," O'Donnell said.

Although Liberty is No. 1 in the NDT rankings, the team has never won a National Debate Tournament. "It's a matter of performance of your entire squad through the season," O'Donnell said.

"Our variety team is our strength," O'Donnell said. "They are doing really well, and we have been this year at all of these tournaments. Liberty's best tournament success took place at the University of Michigan Feb. 9-11 when the debate team and debate pages accumulated more NDT points than any other team.

The debate team will continue to debate if the U.S. should increase its security assistance to Eastern Europe, again predicable at George Washington University. Other upcoming tournaments included the American Debating Association Tournament at Wisconsin March 9-11 and the NDT tournament at Wake Forest March 7-9.

According to O'Donnell, eight teams remained after being eliminated from the NDT tournament. Liberty's debaters will win the "TS" range.

The Mikado

The Mikado is a musical farce about conflicts between love and death in 19th-century Japan. The Mikado is the emperor of Japan. His son, Nanki-Poo, has been promised in marriage to an elderly lady of beauty and has defied this to his father's wishes. Nanki-Poo runs away and falls desperately in love with a beautiful girl called Yum-Yum in the town of Titipu.

Nanki-Poo's plan is that all who will attend the Mikado and bring him the small bouquet of Titipu flowers will be married to him, his promise. "This is where the fun starts," Hughes explained. And that's an important cautionary note: it is finally resolved in the court.

New Horizons

New Horizons is a musical comedy about the adventures of a boy named Mikado, on Feb. 22, 23, 24, 29 and March 1 and 2.

I Love Liberty

I Love Liberty is a musical comedy about the adventures of a boy named Mikado, on Feb. 22, 23, 24, 29 and March 1 and 2.

Prof launches campaign for Lynchburg council

By TIMOTHY J. GIBBONS

Lynchburg is ready for the Reagan revolution, believes LU government professor Kevin Clauson — and he believes he's the one to bring it there.

"We need to get serious about lowering societal costs and personal property tax," he said. "That's why I'm bringing the Reagan revolution to Lynchburg."

Clauson hopes to bring the revolution — which he defines as lower regulation — by winning a spot on the Lynchburg city council. The professor, 40, is running after Preston Bryant resigned to take the council's at-large seat.

Clauson said his philosophical background will be his greatest strength in seeking the post.

"A philosophical background is important," Clauson said, because of the wide variety of people the position represents.

"I think if you are going to represent the whole city, you are going to have to have something complete," he said.

The professor said his years of teaching at Liberty will help him to win the seat. "I've been a full-time professor primarily for the last 15 years. In that kind of an atmosphere you pick up a lot of ideas and read a lot of studies."

Liberty students are invited to get involved in the campaign, Clauson said, but there isn't much they can do right now. "Students from Liberty will certainly play a valuable role," Clauson said. "We have the time to get nominated first."

Clauson's goal is to make Lynchburg a city where people want to come.

"Lynchburg is a good people — and I want you people to stay," he said.

The position is presently held by Dr. Robert Wieder, who is seeking a second term representing his home ward.

When this year's election is over, Clauson was also present at this assembly. The professor said he had decided that he wanted to run.

"I've been in academia primarily for the last 15 years. In that kind of an atmosphere you pick up a lot of ideas and read a lot of studies," Clauson said. "For me, this is a great form of stress relief and it helps increase the quality of life. We would like to give you some help finding the way you like to exercise.

"It makes a big difference," he said.

"I want to take the students to Liberty University," he said. "I want to work hard and show them that they can get a great education.

The assembly gave Jordan a round of applause for his contribution to the event.

"The campus looks much better. It was a big difference," he said.

London bomb kills 2

LONDON — Two people were killed and 175 wounded in the Double-Decker bus explosion in the Docklands area of East London on Friday. The bomb was planted in an underground parking area next to the tallest office complex in London.

Authorities are assuming the explosion was a terrorist act. Ireland is responsible for the London bus explosion, as well as 15 other bombings in the last six years.

Football players prepare to make pro jump

By JOSHD BOWE

Doth day may not be on the minds of Liberty football players, but for the players on the ice and on the field, March 1 is a day that can change their lives in two ways.

The Flames, a team that has flourished since entering the National Forevors Association, are also expected to play pro ball (Champion, Feb. 6).

When Liberty graduate J.T. Morris, David Long and Tony Davis were drafted in last year's NFL Draft, it was big news. Where Morris, Davis and Davis are now, there are still many players who are hoping to make it.

Getting to where he was against Lehigh, senior linebacker Ben Watts saw his draft stock increase because scouts will have had more time to get a look at him.

Watts didn't have the biggest numbers, but what he did do was prove himself. "Number one, am I healthy again and (two) am I back to where I was before I got hurt?" Watts said.

Watts feels the same way about football. "I think my ability to catch and... a (

Get one of liberal's picks, also. We've told them if they give up two runs, they're out of the game," said Watts.

According to Watts, the route he took for scouts with one thing in mind — to represent Christ on and off the field. The team expects to improve for us; we stayed out for NFL scouts, he feels the CFL may not have had the most storied prospects.

The Liberty men’s basketball team showed it is a team to reckon with last Saturday when the Big South Conference Tournament with its second straight resonating win over a conference powerhouse.

The Flames (13-11, 8-4) embarrassed Charleston Southern (13-11, 8-4) 72-63 in an off-week that saw perhaps LU’s best basketball of the season.

CSU came within six points of the Flames after a brief spurt, but the Flames overcame the Rams at closing by finding the game with a 13-3 run.

“We were really locked in during the stretch. We did some good things, but (this past of the game) caught up with us,” Charleston Southern Head Coach Gary Edwards said.

LU built on a 19-12 half-time lead and inflamed it up to as many as 17 points at 33:58 left to play. The exclamation point in the run came via Peter Aluma and Marcus White. The junior center’s huge steal and break-away dunk put the crowd on its feet.

The Rams were left standing as white with the following bombarded pass and duplicated Flames’ antics.

“After timeouts, we got into a lapse offensively. Fortunately it didn’t last long,” Aluma said.

“The two Rams were huge; it changed the crowd and looked to get us going, but then we hit a huge mark of offensive production,” Head Coach Jeff Meyer said. “This is one of those games…you know a team of good teams was there and we were able to close it out.”

After taking two steps forward last week, the Lady Flames took three big steps back this week.

The Lady Flames’ woes took a turn for the worse as they suffered defeats from both CSU, giving Liberty the higher seed.

The win has Liberty seeming to be the leader of the conference with the only loss to the Flames (13-11, 8-4) on the road. CSU came within six points of the Flames after a brief spurt, but the Flames overcame the Rams at closing by finding the game with a 13-3 run.

And down the stretch they come.

The Big South Conference has one week remaining before the end of the regular season, and little has been decided. Two games in the standings are all that separates the top team in the Big South after defeating Charleston Southern with masking tape (Radford).

The Big South Conference has one week remaining before the end of the regular season, and little has been decided. Two games in the standings are all that separates the top team in the conference (UNC Greensboro) from the fifth team in the conference (Radford).

Liberty (14-6 overall, 8-4 conference) is currently sitting in a tie for the second spot in the Big South after defeating Charlotte Southern (13-11, 8-4) 72-63 at the Flames Center last night. Charlotte Southern is in a tie with Asheville, despite having an identical record in both Asheville and Liberty. LU swept the series with CSU, giving Liberty the higher seed.
