The night the lights went out...

Faulty cable spurs campus mischief

By TIM FARRANT

Last Monday night at about 12:30 a.m., a high voltage wire that ran behind a local house and the buildings of darkness that covered all of Liberty University and extended down Route 29 south.

The cable was a 50-year-old underground route that interconnected with the LV power system.

Charles Spence, LV's maintenance director, explained that the insulation had been worn down on the cable, allowing moisture to meet the 12,470 volts running through it. This raised the center line of the cable, causing the boom.

The fuse, set up in a high voltage yard behind campus, had a secondary system that reversal around the bad cable and restored power. This secondary system explains why the power came back on in two or few seconds after the initial power outage. Unfortunately, it was a cure for the problem because the cable, allowing moisture to meet the 12,470 volts running in a matter of seconds. Had this occurred, the only places that would have suffered included the LV power system.

Lynches Liberty and extended down Route 29 south.

The cable was a 50-year-old underground route that interconnected with the LV power system.

Charles Spence, LV's maintenance director, explained that the insulation had been worn down on the cable, allowing moisture to meet the 12,470 volts running through it. This raised the center line of the cable, causing the boom.

The fuse, set up in a high voltage yard behind campus, had a secondary system that reversed around the bad cable and restored power. This secondary system explains why the power came back on in a few seconds after the initial power outage. Unfortunately, it was a cure for the problem because the cable, allowing moisture to meet the 12,470 volts running in a matter of seconds. Had this occurred, the only places that would have suffered included the LV power system.

Lynches Liberty and extended down Route 29 south.
Blackout hits campus

Continued from Page 1

between Dorms 20 and 22. They hit a brick container located next to Dorm 22, which housed two major electrical units. The pair of students went on to say that "arubbers on the cars have been applied." However, despite recent accidents on their other lines, Norland said, "We have the best railroad safety record."

Train wrecked on investigation

Continued from Page 1

Dr. D. Van Syke, associate professor of English and director of the Office of Educational Testing at Liberty University, said that there are several reasons why the train was not stopped sooner.

Dorm sweep fails to net narcotics

Continued from Page 1

"I think drug testing is a good policy," Sloan said. "Whether or not drug testing now becomes a revised policy for the university or not, as a result of the reported marijuana use, is up to the police department."

"That's why they allowed us to come in and do the things we're doing now," Cummings said. "There is no way that you can stop that kind of activity."

The demonstration will give students a chance to see what the National Guard unit was comnected to the base for training excursions. "The demonstration will give students a chance to see what the National Guard unit was connected to the base for training excursions."

Students set to kick off Military Awareness Day

"By BILL MEYER
Champagnes Reporter"
Motivation: My motivation for seeking the office of SGA President is help the student body to become more Christian. It is imperative that we have a strong political voice understood with great spiritual influences in order to ensure a godly, professional, and personal touch. I believe that my past experiences and my political opportunities provide me with the training, talents and expertise to deliver the first place goal.

Secondly, I believe we have the integrity and character and character to represent Liberty both globally and locally. If Liberty is to be all she should be, it will be because of the example that her leaders set.

Thirdly, my motivation for seeking this office is the same motivation Jesus had when he said: "The leader should be as the servant, * Luke 1:28.

Finally, my desire to change the effectiveness of the body is rooted in the fact that I have been an elected official and know the shortcomings. I also think my knowledge will help us to present our maximum ability. It can be summed up in the big "C" Character, Commitment, Cooperation and Confidence.

Campaign Platform: Work on improving the image of the SGA, especially as regards to student gatherings, student-oriented events, and student-oriented activities. I seek to implement a policy that the SGA and LU would work to provide a service-oriented environment for students, faculty and administration.
SIFE finishes 2nd in local marketing competition

By CREIG RAIKES

Liberty's chapter of Students in Free Enterprise finished up a successful season last semester in Richmond, receiving finalist status for its team and finishing as second runner-up in the local competition. About 30-40 schools participated in the competition, which was held Feb. 19 at Lynchburg College, North Carolina A&T and Virginia Union University.

As part of the competition, Liberty delivered a presentation to the 10-15 judges about the projects that SIFE has been involved with since the club's inception in February. Among the programs that SIFE members help out Lynchburg small businesses include "Project Clean," a program in which members of SIFE help out Lynchburg small businesses.

SIFE also teaches high school students about consumer issues and is looking to get into elementary schools to teach students about the basic concepts of marketing.

During the presentation, students Phil Casor, Matt Adkins, Dan Hauser and Tammy Jones represented Liberty by giving a history of the University, Liberty’s chapter of Students in Free Enterprise and SIFE's activities.

The Judges seemed impressed by our presentation," said Casor, one of the three operating managers. "All the sponsors of SIFE are Fortune 500 companies, including American Express, Philip Morris, RJ Reynolds and Wal-Mart, whose founder, Sam Walton, founded SIFE." Smaller business is the market that SIFE is a sustainable group that involves over 500 schools. The sponsor of the district tournaments around the country to go to the national championships to be held this year in Kansas City.

One of SIFE's goals is to help students find jobs after college using its resume program. Companies involved with the organization give priority to students in SIFE when it comes to finding jobs.

"SIFE gives you the satisfaction of getting to work in real life situations," says Casor. "SIFE works hard when you're a senior to find you a job. They market you."

SIFE has meetings every Tuesday night at 7 p.m. in EH 117. The club is especially helpful to those looking to be business majors and communications students.

"SIFE works hard when you're a senior to find you a job. They market you."

Phil Casor, Operating Manager, SIFE

Conrad Bailey, Press Secretary, Lynchburg

Lynchburg's chapter of Students in Free Enterprise, won second place in the local competition, finishing as second runner-up in the local competition. About 30-40 schools participated in the competition, which was held Feb. 19 at Lynchburg College, North Carolina A&T and Virginia Union University.

As part of the competition, Liberty delivered a presentation to the 10-15 judges about the projects that SIFE has been involved with since the club's inception in February. Among the programs that SIFE members help out Lynchburg small businesses include "Project Clean," a program in which members of SIFE help out Lynchburg small businesses.

SIFE also teaches high school students about consumer issues and is looking to get into elementary schools to teach students about the basic concepts of marketing.

During the presentation, students Phil Casor, Matt Adkins, Dan Hauser and Tammy Jones represented Liberty by giving a history of the University, Liberty’s chapter of Students in Free Enterprise and SIFE's activities.

The Judges seemed impressed by our presentation," said Casor, one of the three operating managers. "All the sponsors of SIFE are Fortune 500 companies, including American Express, Philip Morris, RJ Reynolds and Wal-Mart, whose founder, Sam Walton, founded SIFE." Smaller business is the market that SIFE is a sustainable group that involves over 500 schools. The sponsor of the district tournaments around the country to go to the national championships to be held this year in Kansas City.

One of SIFE's goals is to help students find jobs after college using its resume program. Companies involved with the organization give priority to students in SIFE when it comes to finding jobs.

"SIFE gives you the satisfaction of getting to work in real life situations," says Casor. "SIFE works hard when you're a senior to find you a job. They market you."

SIFE has meetings every Tuesday night at 7 p.m. in EH 117. The club is especially helpful to those looking to be business majors and communications students.

"SIFE works hard when you're a senior to find you a job. They market you."

Phil Casor, Operating Manager, SIFE

Conrad Bailey, Press Secretary, Lynchburg

Lynchburg's chapter of Students in Free Enterprise, won second place in the local competition, finishing as second runner-up in the local competition. About 30-40 schools participated in the competition, which was held Feb. 19 at Lynchburg College, North Carolina A&T and Virginia Union University.

As part of the competition, Liberty delivered a presentation to the 10-15 judges about the projects that SIFE has been involved with since the club's inception in February. Among the programs that SIFE members help out Lynchburg small businesses include "Project Clean," a program in which members of SIFE help out Lynchburg small businesses.

SIFE also teaches high school students about consumer issues and is looking to get into elementary schools to teach students about the basic concepts of marketing.

During the presentation, students Phil Casor, Matt Adkins, Dan Hauser and Tammy Jones represented Liberty by giving a history of the University, Liberty’s chapter of Students in Free Enterprise and SIFE's activities.

The Judges seemed impressed by our presentation," said Casor, one of the three operating managers. "All the sponsors of SIFE are Fortune 500 companies, including American Express, Philip Morris, RJ Reynolds and Wal-Mart, whose founder, Sam Walton, founded SIFE." Smaller business is the market that SIFE is a sustainable group that involves over 500 schools. The sponsor of the district tournaments around the country to go to the national championships to be held this year in Kansas City.

One of SIFE's goals is to help students find jobs after college using its resume program. Companies involved with the organization give priority to students in SIFE when it comes to finding jobs.

"SIFE gives you the satisfaction of getting to work in real life situations," says Casor. "SIFE works hard when you're a senior to find you a job. They market you."

SIFE has meetings every Tuesday night at 7 p.m. in EH 117. The club is especially helpful to those looking to be business majors and communications students.

"SIFE works hard when you're a senior to find you a job. They market you."

Phil Casor, Operating Manager, SIFE

Conrad Bailey, Press Secretary, Lynchburg

Lynchburg's chapter of Students in Free Enterprise, won second place in the local competition, finishing as second runner-up in the local competition. About 30-40 schools participated in the competition, which was held Feb. 19 at Lynchburg College, North Carolina A&T and Virginia Union University.

As part of the competition, Liberty delivered a presentation to the 10-15 judges about the projects that SIFE has been involved with since the club's inception in February. Among the programs that SIFE members help out Lynchburg small businesses include "Project Clean," a program in which members of SIFE help out Lynchburg small businesses.

SIFE also teaches high school students about consumer issues and is looking to get into elementary schools to teach students about the basic concepts of marketing.

During the presentation, students Phil Casor, Matt Adkins, Dan Hauser and Tammy Jones represented Liberty by giving a history of the University, Liberty’s chapter of Students in Free Enterprise and SIFE's activities.
Life's a journey, travel light.

Don't imitate, innovate.

The world is getting smaller, smell better.

FREE SAMPLES of HUGO and HUGO WOMAN at the Belk Fragrance Counter. One per Customer while supplies last.
Not everyone has the bad fortune (yes, that summer heat is bad) that the demands of dormitory living often take from me, I thought, as I examined something strange.

Now there are many strange happenings, one of those oddities was a strange voice that was heard behind the track.

"Take care of the inside," said one of our phone operators.

"Come on in," rumbled the voice, "we're cleaning up after the sloppiest cleaning.

"I see," I said, taking in the view of the room. It was changed completely in the moment.

"You need a change," the voice said, "you need to clean up."

"You're right," I said. "I'll do it right away."

I got down on hands and knees and began cleaning the room. It was a great moment.

Even if it was not required, a good change was needed to get the rooms back.

I got down on hands and knees and began cleaning the room. It was a great moment.

I got down on hands and knees and began cleaning the room. It was a great moment.

I got down on hands and knees and began cleaning the room. It was a great moment.
"So I'll cherish the old rugged cross.

With Easter just around the corner, it's time to stop and remember the sacrifice of every human history. Good Friday, and the payment Christ made for the sins of mankind from the Fall till the end of time, is a very special time. It's not a pretty picture. Christ at the center of a mat covered with a pool of blood from the richest man to the poorest. He carried the weight of all our sins. Though beautiful himself, We can imagine the sorrow of watching the son you lost. He was the only one who could have really done it with nothing else left to be done. The Father himself turned his back, unable to look at his son. The Cross erected. It is not easy. The words inscribed "VICTORY INSTINCT" for me. It didn't open the cover than it did over the. The text didn't agree with all. The book was inscribed "Gall's of Nations". This sort of name-calling has no place whatsoever in a Christian Institution. If an accident then, is that it "favored men." Great. Implied more gender equality... to some. Soviets just wanted to be left alone. Uh huh. 1 took HLS 222 last semester with Dr. Fahvell has stood strong for truth... We may think LU students deserve better. We have a huge responsibility. The most obvious being that... "When we go to the polls later this month, why not take the opportunity... to spend the whole semester debunking... Our credibility is on the line of History..."
Arkansas school shooting reminds Americans of sin's consequences

By JON BLACKBURN
Champion Editorialist

The tragic shooting last week at an Arkansas middle school reveals not only the inevitable reaction to the lack of moral instruction of today's youth, but also the inability of the mass media to completely ignore this problem. The school that is known for its guns and the children who are allowed to have them is not alone when it comes to completely ignoring this fact.

The too brief visit by the Arkansas school has been seen in many little towns, well liked by everyone in the neighborhood. That is one of the reasons why we should never be fooled by the actions of such violence. However, society must commit itself to better schools and do their part to stop the symptoms that are evident. They are the school that is known for its guns and the children who are allowed to have them. That is one of the reasons why we should never be fooled by the actions of such violence.

The problem is the one's resume. They are real and nice, but rather on the campaign's expenses, but rather on the campaign's expenses. It is clear that these mistakes will be spent the full and ought to be spent on the campaign's expenses, but rather on the campaign's expenses. It is clear that these mistakes will be spent the full and ought to be spent on the campaign's expenses, but rather on the campaign's expenses.

According to Kornie Jarboe, who ran for the presidency of student senators last year, the strange offering to students who make a large amount of money on a campaign is not really necessary. “It doesn’t really work. They just tell students it doesn’t really work. It’s not real. From an educational standpoint, anything that would come from that.”

Dreading moving everything home in May and Bringing it back in August?

Great Dane Mini Storage is located only 5 MINUTES from Liberty Univ. on Timberview Road beside Fort Flora Market.

Call 209-893 (8600) now to reserve your space! Receive $30 off the first month's rent

Call our 24-hour hotline for tips on renting a unit 239-1973

SAE election spending has become unreasonable

By CURTIS REMMERING
Champion Editorialist

The Student Government Association will soon be initiating its annual election. The candidates will spend the dollars that they receive to promote rehabilitation and political campaign. The candidates will spend the dollars that they receive to promote rehabilitation and political campaign. The candidates will spend the dollars that they receive to promote rehabilitation and political campaign.

The problem is the senate. When students spend a large amount of money on a campaign, it is not really necessary. “It doesn’t really work. They just tell students it doesn’t really work. It’s not real. From an educational standpoint, anything that would come from that.”

And when can a non-living entity be responsible for what a person does to whom? The implicit assumption that guns are to blame for the child's actions is wrong. Yet, Americans seem unwilling to recognize this fact.

So once we examine from justice, even the children. The Bible teaches this, but America has forgotten, or perhaps chosen to forget. Old Testament Law does not use distinctions as being a valid reason but any gun-manufacturer has the power of God, experts no less.

The second issue is the one's resume. It is abundantly clear then, that these elections are both nice and unnecessary to the candidates. However, students should commit themselves to better schools and do their part to stop the symptoms that are evident.

True justice cannot discriminate on the basis of income. It is not just a matter of money.

In doubles, the Corolla has the advantage of being able to accomplish our purpose and upholding our responsibilities.
Baseball continues perfect run in BSC

— continued from page 12

Buccaneers hit.

David Benham sparked the seventh inning rally with a single to right field. Bryan Byler sent Benjl Miller across the plate with an RBI single, while Byler eventually stole home for the third run. Trey Miller scored the fourth and final run.

The Flames eased into Sunday's game with the double-header sweep, boosting the team's confidence. Tim Harrell looked sharp on the mound, pitching a complete game and claiming his fifth victory of the season.

Liberty opened up an early 2-0 lead on McClellan's RBI double. McClellan was then driven in by Jason Benham.

CSU was held scoreless until the bottom of the eighth inning, when Tim Brooker sacrifice fly sent Bryant Gilmore across the plate.

After adding a run in the seventh, LU nailed the coffin shut with a three-run ninth. This rally was highlighted by Steve Wright's team leading 10th home run of the season.

When it was all said and done, Liberty walked away with a 6-1 victory.

Liberty was not so fortunate earlier in the week, as it dropped three straight games to Richmond, Virginia Tech and William & Mary. On the season, Liberty is 1-1 against Richmond and 0-2 versus Virginia Tech.

The Flames' current overall record stands at 16-17 and 8-0 in the Big South.

LU faces High Point and Elon at Worthington Stadium this weekend.

Women place 5th at UVa.

— continued from page 12

with a fourth place finish in the 100m dash. Deem, following Seymour's example, picked up a pair of second place finishes in the 100m high hurdles with a time of 14.99 and in the 400m hurdles with a 52.84 finish. Rodriguez threw herself into second place in the hammer throw with a distance of 150'11" and then placed third in the shot put.

The 4x100m relay team took the third place spot with a time of 48.94. LJ's Jay Jay Field missed a third place finish by just a tenth of a second with a time of 57.85. Sweeping the fifth and sixth places were Ray Chandler and Vincent Miller.

Any Thomas grabbed a third place finish in the 800m run with a time of 2:21.17. Robin Williams hopped into fourth in the long jump with a distance of 19'-9.75".

After all was said and done, Tolsma said, "The team needs to improve its focus. This was a challenge and hopefully it will motivate us to do better."

The LU track and field team will participate in a home meet April 12-13th. The following weekend Liberty will host the Big South Conference meet.
Arkansas school shooting reminds Americans of sin's consequences

By JOE BLACKBURN
Champion Editorialist

The tragic shooting last week at an Arkansas middle school reminds us of the inevitability of the results of the lack of moral responsibility. This lack of response is also America's determination to completely ignore this problem.

Even an 11-year-old child knows this fact. Indeed, they close their eyes to the irrelevance of the modern world, insisting that guns or the child's upbringing are something to be blamed for the child's actions or that the individual himself is not responsible for them.

The parents of the young man murdered at an Arkansas middle school deny any responsibility for their actions. Any weapon, they said, was bought legally. The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.

The murderer, Rashid Baz, opened fire on a van with Jewish students that year ago on the Brooklyn Bridge. He was convicted of murdering two people in a righteous crusade however.

The blame for gun violence belongs not to the guns, but to the people who use them. The murderer, a manufacturer of guns, had sued the company's owners, Wayne McQuay and Sylvia Daniel, seven of their gun manufacturing companies, and the manufacturer, Lebanon local.
Baseball continues perfect run in BSC

— continued from page 12

Buccaneer hits.

David Benham sparked the seventh inning rally with a single to right held. Bryan Byler sent Benjt Miller across the plate with an RBI single, while Byler eventually stole home for the third run. Jay Sullenger's triple was the straw that broke CSU's back as Trey Miller scored the fourth and final run.

The Flames eased into Sunday's game with the double-header sweep, boosting the teams' confidence.

Tim Harrell looked sharp on the mound, pitching a complete game and claiming his fifth victory of the season.

Liberty opened up an early 2-0 lead on McClellan's RBI double. McClellan was then driven in by Jason Benham.

CSU was held scoreless until the bottom of the eighth inning, when Tim Brooks' sacrifice fly sent Bryant Gilmore across the plate for the Flames' lone run. turkey.

After adding a run in the seventh, LU nailed the coffin shut with a three-run ninth. This rally was highlighted by Steve Wright's team-leading 10th home run of the season.

When it was all said and done, Liberty walked away with a 6-1 victory.

Liberty was not so fortunate earlier in the week, as it dropped three straight games to Richmond, Virginia Tech and William & Mary. On the season, Liberty is 1-1 against Richmond and 0-2 versus Virginia Tech.

The Flames' current overall record stands at 16-17 and 8-0 in the Big South.

LU faces High Point and Elon at Worthington Stadium this weekend.

SARENA BEASLEY

NOT EVEN CLOSE — LU senior Jason Benham slides back safely into first base on a pick off attempt. Liberty's Big South foes have tried to pick LU off the top of the standings but have been unsuccessful. The Flames have remained a perfect 8-0 in conference play.

Women place 5th at UVa.

— continued from page 12

with a fourth place finish in the 100m dash.

Deem, following Seymour's example, picked up a pair of second place finishes in the 100m high hurdles with a time of 14.94 and in the 4x100 relay with a 45.04 finish.

Rodriguez threw herself into second place in the hammer throw with a distance of 150'11" and then placed third in the shot put.

The Flames' record finished the season with a 48-10 finish.

The Flames' current overall record stands at 16-17 and 8-0 in the Big South.

LU track and field team will participate in a home meet April 12-13th. The following weekend Liberty will host the Big South Conference meet.

April 16th
7:30PM
Vines Center
LU Student Tickets
$10
(First 1000 tickets only)
Available in the Bookstore

Call 582-2131 for tix info

Call 582-INFO for more information

OR visit our web site at: www.liberty.edu/~studntlf
Landrey knew he had the inside scholarship. But golf coach Frank thine heart, and lean not unto the teaching and their fundamentals. “SAFE! at second base. Liberty came close in the first game of a double-header. LU would fan no better in the second game, falling 2-0 to the Lady Flames. LU dropped all five meetings with ECU last season and looks to challenge this year for the big South title.

Actually, Tipmore could’ve been guided by these words since that were hotly pursuing him, but more than 27 years ago. "The main reason for choosing Liberty was his first choice from the beginning," Tipmore said. "Also, it’s quite an opportunity to win, not to finish." So not only did Landrey know that Tipmore was his first choice from the very first letter that he sent to the teaching and their fundamentals. The biggest thing I’ve always wanted," Tanner said. "You know, ‘bet-you-can’t-beat-me’ kind of kid.”

Tanner continues to run away from his competition. Tanner keeps stacking up the accomplishments. Behind every great athlete is the desire to succeed. The biggest motivation: driving Tanner into top performance in the desire to be the best. Tanner is one of the best.

CATCH ME IF YOU CAN — Lynchburg’s very own Marlon Tanner was a member of the title-winning 4x400m relay team that made the provisional time for Nationals. The relay consisted of Cedric Franklin and graduates Carlton McQuffle and Heath Hurst. In the 1996 Big South Championships held on Feb. 01, Tanner was a member of the title-winning 4x400m relay team. Adding to his list of titles, you can throw in the 200m dash too. Looking back, Tanner made his debut early. "I always liked to run. I always wanted to be the fastest," Tanner continues to run away from his competition. Habitat Tanner’s running career took off while he was in high school. He was named All State in the 100 high hurdles and 400m hurdles.

By MATT DERRICK Champion Reporter
LU; shares ties with Coach Landry

"Dirty" Work

Top-notch golf recruit signs with LU; shares ties with Coach Landry

By MATT DERRICK Champion Reporter

Liberty’s golf team is expecting a boost for next year after Randy LU; shares ties with Coach Landry.
By PAUL PIERSON
Champion Reporter

Three Liberty University lacrosse players were invited to Charlotte, N.C., last weekend to display their skills on the lax field. Coach/play­ er Jeremy Kortright, attack man Kyle Brennon and freshman Mike Deeter played six games in a round robin tournament that started Saturday morning and ended Saturday night.

Leading the Flames with 12 goals and five assists, Brennon drew many key plays and thus contributed significantly to his team's win against four goals and 12 assists. The tournament was split into halves, with each set of three games played back to back without any breaks.

"It was very exhausting, but we had a lot of fun," Brennon stated. After losing a 13-10 au­ditor to UNC Asheville, Wesleyan (the team that featured all three Flames) came back to defeat East Carolina University in overtime, 8-7.

Lead by the trio of Flames, Wesleyan squandered another win past University of Kentucky, 9-7. Playing with fatigue and exhaustion by Sunday, Wesleyan failed to establish a win against its final three opponents. Georgia Southern defeated the other two games by 2-1, with UNC Charlotte barely winning in a 3-3 tie.

"It was a great experience for the Flames," Kortright said. "I don't think I played all that well, but I did have some good times." Kortright said. "It was an honor for us to be invited to this tour­nament."

Rookies should make "big" impact on Liberty's line

Five of the eight incoming freshman class recruits hale from South Carolina. All eight fresh­men have gained at least one year of All-State status in their respective states.

"We have established ourselves for the next six to eight years in specific areas with the high school coaches and that helps our recruiting," stated Coach/Player Nick Braden from Knoxville, Tenn. will look to fill a good hands position is Randall McCorkle from South Carolina State from Lake City, S.C. State is a Top 50 recruit from S.C. as a WR/DB.

Looking to fill a good hands position is Randall McCorkle from South Carolina State from Lake City, S.C. State is a Top 50 recruit from S.C. as a WR/DB.

Nick Braden from Knoxville, Tenn. will look to fill a good hands position is Randall McCorkle from South Carolina State from Lake City, S.C. State is a Top 50 recruit from S.C. as a WR/DB.

"It was very exhausting, but we had a lot of fun," Brennon stated. After losing a 13-10 au­ditor to UNC Asheville, Wesleyan (the team that featured all three Flames) came back to defeat East Carolina University in overtime, 8-7.

Lead by the trio of Flames, Wesleyan squandered another win past University of Kentucky, 9-7. Playing with fatigue and exhaustion by Sunday, Wesleyan failed to establish a win against its final three opponents. Georgia Southern defeated the other two games by 2-1, with UNC Charlotte barely winning in a 3-3 tie.

"It was a great experience for the Flames," Kortright said. "I don't think I played all that well, but I did have some good times." Kortright said. "It was an honor for us to be invited to this tour­nament."

Rookies should make "big" impact on Liberty's line

Five of the eight incoming freshman class recruits hale from South Carolina. All eight fresh­men have gained at least one year of All-State status in their respective states.

"We have established ourselves for the next six to eight years in specific areas with the high school coaches and that helps our recruiting," stated Coach/Player Nick Braden from Knoxville, Tenn. will look to fill a good hands position is Randall McCorkle from South Carolina State from Lake City, S.C. State is a Top 50 recruit from S.C. as a WR/DB.

Looking to fill a good hands position is Randall McCorkle from South Carolina State from Lake City, S.C. State is a Top 50 recruit from S.C. as a WR/DB.

"It was very exhausting, but we had a lot of fun," Brennon stated. After losing a 13-10 au­ditor to UNC Asheville, Wesleyan (the team that featured all three Flames) came back to defeat East Carolina University in overtime, 8-7.

Lead by the trio of Flames, Wesleyan squandered another win past University of Kentucky, 9-7. Playing with fatigue and exhaustion by Sunday, Wesleyan failed to establish a win against its final three opponents. Georgia Southern defeated the other two games by 2-1, with UNC Charlotte barely winning in a 3-3 tie.

"It was a great experience for the Flames," Kortright said. "I don't think I played all that well, but I did have some good times." Kortright said. "It was an honor for us to be invited to this tour­nament."
BY MARC ROGGER
Champion Staff

Saturday's rainy, cold weather was a welcome break in 300 degree heat for Liberty's baseball team, as the Flames swept a double-header. Closed out was by Benidio Pena with a no-hitter, 1-0 shutout over East Carolina on Friday night to start the second of a three-game series. The Flames then swept the Pirates on Saturday, 4-0 and 3-1, improving Liberty's season record to 18-6 overall. Coach Paul Wetmore said, "We needed this break. They are our nemesis," LU will hit the road to face Northern Kentucky at 2 p.m., as they look to get another sweep behind the pitching of Benidio Pena on Sunday.

The Flames' record to 18-6 overall. We have to keep working hard for the season.

The Flames disappointed with results last week against Charleston Southern, but are expected to do the same this week. The Flames swept Charleston Southern on a winning RBI. ECU's Kelsha Hightower shut down the Flames with a 1-0 shutout over East Carolina on Friday night to start the second of a three-game series. The Flames then swept the Pirates on Saturday, 4-0 and 3-1, improving Liberty's season record to 18-6 overall. Coach Paul Wetmore said, "We needed this break. They are our nemesis," LU will hit the road to face Northern Kentucky at 2 p.m., as they look to get another sweep behind the pitching of Benidio Pena on Sunday.

The Flames' record to 18-6 overall. We have to keep working hard for the season.

The Flames disappointed with results last week against Charleston Southern, but are expected to do the same this week. The Flames swept Charleston Southern on a winning RBI. ECU's Kelsha Hightower shut down the Flames with a 1-0 shutout over East Carolina on Friday night to start the second of a three-game series. The Flames then swept the Pirates on Saturday, 4-0 and 3-1, improving Liberty's season record to 18-6 overall. Coach Paul Wetmore said, "We needed this break. They are our nemesis," LU will hit the road to face Northern Kentucky at 2 p.m., as they look to get another sweep behind the pitching of Benidio Pena on Sunday.