Liberty loves disco

By Angela Nelson, reporter

The large, inflatable dome went black, andinski and Simmons, only to erupt in anguish moments later as the Newsboys ran onto the stage. The band name-complete with Australian accents and plenty of stage makeup when the "Liberty Liberty Days" concert tour made a stop on Saturday night in the Marriott parking lot at LU.

The Australian band performed in its own branding dome for several thousand Liberty students and people from the surrounding area.

The dome actually operates on a kangaroo type basis. There are two domes so while the band performs in one, the other is being set up at the next location.

Inside the dome, the stage sits directly in the center. The audience can then stand on all sides to see the band. There are a few chairs up near the back, but the majority of the大棚 in standing room only and holds about 4,000 people.

/video The most fun for a band is when it can expose that hypocrisy by supporting those coming from homosexual activists for her candid comments against homosexuality. According to Olasky, Schlessinger has recently come under bigger attacks from such groups as the Gay and Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation (GLAAD) because of a contract she signed with Paramount Pictures for a syndicated television talk show to air this fall. The show would allow her to reach an even larger audience.

"She's trying to develop, promote and proclaim a lot of principles under duress," Olasky, an Orthodox Jew, to illustrate his call for attack from secular liberals in the Journalistic and political atmosphere, added. "It's conservative Christians, Muslims and Jews under bigger attacks from such groups as the Gay and Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation (GLAAD) because of a contract she signed with Paramount Pictures for a syndicated television talk show to air this fall. The show would allow her to reach an even larger audience.

"Geraldo Live" set for April 13

Audience open to the public; students can ask questions

By Chris Edwards, editor in chief

Liberty University is scheduled to host Geraldo Rivera and his CNBC show "Geraldo Live" on Thursday, April 13, in the Campus Center.

LU Chancellor Dr. Jerry Falwell said show producers were on campus Monday to confirm the arrangements for the show, which airs from 9 to 10 p.m. on the cable network.

In addition to Falwell, the show is tentatively scheduled to feature the Rev. Al Sharpton, Harvard law professor Alan Dershowitz and the Rev. Jesse Jackson as its guests.

Despite an 8 p.m. Admissions in five and open to the public. Audience members who will be able to ask questions and make comments during the show.

Falwell and MSNBC spokesperson Angela Calhoun could not confirm all details on the show at press time.

Calhoun said the show's topic will likely revolve around religion and politics, with Falwell and Sharpton as the focus.

Sharpton has been a regular guest on the cable show in recent months, often appearing about once per week.

Calhoun said more information will be released about the "Liberty Live show as it becomes available later in the week."

“We've never done this before because they don't have stuff like this in Australia. Meeting people after the show makes our job interesting,” Usher said.

After Beatbag performed, Sonic Flood members led the audience in praise and worship music.

Finally, the awaited moment came as the Newsboys ran on stage and opened with their hit single “Shine.”

One of the concert's highlights featured an anticipated drum solo. Lead singer Peter Furler and drummer Duncan Phillips played a revolving drum platform, which rose about 10 feet in the air and then turned sideways while revolving on an axle.

“The drum thing was really cool,” freshman Keith Williams said after the concert. “And the first hand rocked.”

After the concert, members of the audience with special passes waited to meet and greet the band members.

“The Newsboys are an exemplary group. They really glorify God,” graduate student Matt Arnold said.

“I thought it was great. I definitely thought I was more into it,” senior Angel Blankenship said.

In an interview before the concert, Furler said, "Following Christ is just the start. It's important to encourage the audience in their walks with Christ. You can have gold records, adoration, etc., but without the Holy Spirit, it's just full of hot air."

Flag amendment defeated in Senate for another year

The Senate narrowly defeated a proposed constitutional amendment ending Flag Day on Wednesday. The 63-37 vote, four short of the two-thirds majority needed, was the latest in a series of house and Senate amendments. The Senate has passed resolutions urging Congress to send them a flag amendment. Supporters have failed to overcome free speech concerns in the Senate.

NBC's 'God' dead

NBC decided to cancel its last remaining animated comedy, "God, the Devil and Bob." The ratings-challenged show drew an estimated 2.4 million viewers, a7 percentage decline from last week. The show's cancellation marked a significant change in the battle for religious programming on American television. The show was a hit with its audience but struggled with advertisers. The cancellation also represents a victory for critics who have long argued that religious programming on television is not viable.

Train rams school bus in Georgia, two killed

Two children were killed and five others were injured after a freight train struck and derailed a school bus in Georgia on Tuesday. The accident occurred at a railroad crossing in Tifton, Georgia. The school bus was carrying a group of students who were on a field trip. The accident killed two children and injured five others. The school district has launched an investigation into the incident and has provided counseling services to the students and families affected.

Elian Gonzalez: to be or not to be a citizen

The controversy surrounding Elian Gonzalez, the six-year-old Cuban boy who swims to Miami, has raised many questions regarding his rights, that so many others are not. Alexander Technique provides stress relief for athletes, musicians and office workers

By Cindy Siegmund, reporter

W hat does a personal trainer, an attorney, a dermatologist, a teacher and an avid fan of the Alexander Technique have in common? Surprisingly, they’re all likely to benefit from a method of releasing tension and relieving aches and pains known as the Alexander Technique.

In fact, the Alexander Technique can be applied to any activity from breath breathing to typing on a computer.

 Asked Huszti, an Alexander Technique teacher and an avid fan of the technique, if he has a friend who has an older, less than reliable car, he basically looks like he’s about to cry. What is it about sticky little stickers of green leaves that puts the proper body position and natural movements, over any time the body positioning is significantly exaggerated. The Alexander Technique focuses on the positioning and movement of the body.

"If the back is free and wide and the shoulders, the body and mind will function as good as meant you to function," said Huszti.

Actor Fredrick Matthias Alexander born in 1869-1955, who struggled with bad posture enabling them to have fuller deeper breaths. Others profit from the technique as well. "Massage therapists and some doctors look at it (the Alexander Technique) as a Tool to help people, with carpal tunnel syndrome because bacterial advice there) and concerts of salvation or pre- emptive war. They're making "heritage Not Hate" with a bumper sticker any- thing. In other places, I've seen stickers expressing disapproval—"discourage in-breeding—Ban Country Music." Not only on campus, but just across town, bumper stickers are still alive and well. Huszti added. "Why expend the ener- g y? You don't need it."

Huszti suggests his students that they watch people while they are drinking and eating soup. If the indi- vidual bends their body toward the soup they are causing their neck to create a curve. This motion is called pulling down and is caused by Alexander Technique.

According to Huszti the proper way to hold a cup or a cup is to lift the food or drink higher rather than making a curve in the neck. Huszti considers the Alexander Technique to be his current passion and he is very excited about it.

Acupuncture and other natural remedies can provide medication-free pain relief

By Michelle Kennedy, reporter

E ven a cold, sore throat, coughing fits, or a fever can bring down the bravest student. In our society today, individuals are relying more and more on the remedies their grandparents used to prescribe.

Recently those same old healers have turned the medical world. According to the New 23 issue of Time magazine, herbal products may help where synthetic treatments fail.

Herbal treatments, which are based on traditional Chinese medicine, approach sickness by relating symptoms to the pathogenesis and the logical pathways in the body. Of course, as with any product that one has concerns about, effects and reliable these treatments are.

Richard Fo, an herbal product treatments expert at the University of California, stated that as many as one in four suffers herbal products unique.

The various illnesses that plague a college campus cause an innumerable amount of student stress.

But, every once in a while the flu, stomach virus, or a common cold can make one feel even the healthy student's body can hardly handle the extra stress.

While living at home, students have parents to rely on to cure their ailments. Parents make sure their children are up on their shot and a good general health.

But away from home, students have to rely on their own knowledge of home remedies and cures to combat illnesses.

Every person has experienced the common cold. This annoying virus has been around for as long as man has lived. Dr. Keith Sehnert is one of the many authors who give simple home remedies in his latest book, The Doctor's Book of Home Remedies."

"This advice is given in his best selling book, "The Doctor's Book of Home Remedies," recently these age-old healers have been blown onto the media; acupuncture has received attention from the media; acupuncture has been used by millions worldwide and continues to gain acceptance. The term 'herbal supplements,' said Dr. Ralph Duford, assistant professor of health sciences at UC.

"When taking herbal remedies, the suggest consulting with individuals before making them available to the public." Herbal remedies are not the only Chinese practice receiving attention from the media; acupuncture has become a hot topic as well. 78 percent of all Americans who are interested in alternative medicine believe that acupuncture is effective.

Butler has a highly touted recruit, no one expected the freshman from Scottsville, even himself. "Coming into the season, I knew we had a chance at a starting position. I then found it was going to be tough coming to the collegiate level, so I just worked hard and tried to get the position," Butler said.

Butler said his team started the season with the decision to make the team go through the starting process when he began the season with a 12-game hitting streak. He started his season with a bang, going three for five in a win against UNC-Greensboro. But Butler does not shy away from the fact that he was a新鲜 to the mix of things. "I just go out and try to execute everyday. I don't want to worry about it, I just try to execute on the field," Butler said.
