Christian Teachers Deny John Todd

FUNDAMENTALISTS CAUTIONED OF FORMER WITCH

BY RUTH TOMCZAK and ELMER L. TOWNS

In a day and a year when men are fearful and in-secure, and when young men are in trouble and are looking for solutions.

We are to command that "be not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: for many false prophets are gone out in the world."

Todd claims to have been born into a family deeply involved in witchcraft. While in the service he was convicted of witchcraft. He is warning Christians to hoard food, to bring back the days of the "Great Depression". Todd bases his prophecy on the theory that there is an "ultra-secret organization" that has gained control of the financial institutions.

We believe that the coming of Jesus Christ is near at hand and that the world is moving closer to the fulfillment of the events predicted.

The headlines blared, "Zionsville Baptist prepares for final war with witches." By including historic, legendary, prophetic, and religious phenomena, Todd is warning Christians to prepare for the coming of the Illuminati. We believe a person has the right to choose to believe as he pleases.

The New Year is usually a time for an optimistic look toward the future. It is a break from the routine of the old year and a time to set goals for the new year. It is a time to talk about the future and to plan for what is to come.

Mrs. Hogan Gives Personal Touch to TRBC Pastor's Office, Is 24-Hour Investment In Others

As a child, Jeanette knew Dr. Falwell's wife, Macel, and her family. They lived just a few blocks away from where her family lived in Lynchburg. The family was acquainted with most of the worshipers at the old, old sanctuary which was the Thomas Road Baptist Church. As a young girl, Jeanette learned of the Falwells by listening to their radio programs and by attending their church services. She was always attracted to the Falwells and became a dedicated member of the church. She graduated from Lynchburg High School and then began attending Thomas Road Baptist College. After she graduated from TRBC, she met Dr. Falwell and began working for the church, a job that she has held for over 20 years. Mrs. Hogan confesses that the most rewarding part of her job is serving people who are in difficulty. She has contact with many people on the telephone and in person. Mrs. Hogan is a mother who was a comfort and solace in the Falwell household. She is now married to Dr. Jerry Falwell and is involved in many different projects related to the church. She is a valuable asset to the church and has been a faithful servant for many years after Dr. Falwell started his radio and television ministry. She is always there to offer assistance and guidance to those in need.

New Home!! Low Interest Rates!!

We are presently over-whelmed with the demand for homes. We have sold 15 homes in the last 10 days. Our construction costs have increased by two factors, together, making a problem. We have had to increase the sale price of each home. We are making an effort to take care of everyone, but we are having to limit our construction. However, we are committed to helping everyone who is interested in building a home. We will continue to build, but we will have to be selective in the homes we build.

Tough Professor uses blackboard to explain Biblical principles at Liberty Baptist Seminary. By BOB HARRIS

Rev. James Gant was teaching a class in the Bible department when a student dropped his wallet. Mr. Gant was so shocked he dropped all his notes.

"I didn't know what to say," he explained. "I'm sure glad he dropped it."

Free People Must Be Alert

WITTMAN: Probably the most sinister aspect of the Russian military power is the space program. The United States has grown from a position of relative strength among superpowers to one of vulnerability in modern times. The Russians have always taken advantage of this vulnerability to push their own position. They have always been a threat to the United States and the world.

WITTMAN: The Soviets have forged ahead of us in many areas, such as military technology, and have developed and deployed a new generation of weapons. The Russians are now in a position to deliver nuclear weapons with greater accuracy and at shorter ranges than ever before.

WITTMAN: In the early 1960s, the United States worked to develop a new generation of nuclear weapons that was more powerful and accurate than the Soviet weapons. However, the United States was unable to match the Russian advances.

WITTMAN: The United States is now facing a new threat from the Soviet Union. The Russians are now capable of launching nuclear weapons with greater accuracy and at shorter ranges than ever before.

This is the beginning of a new article, which might be the start of a larger piece on Christianity's influence and challenges. It seems to discuss the integration of Christianity into various aspects of life, including education, politics, and personal beliefs. The text mentions the influence of missionaries and the growth of Christianity worldwide, possibly touching on both positive and negative impacts. The article might address the challenges faced by Christians in different contexts and the role of Christianity in shaping social and political movements. Without the full context of the article, it's challenging to provide a more detailed interpretation. This suggests a comprehensive exploration of Christianity's role in society, possibly including historical and contemporary perspectives.
