By Maggie Price, reporter

Dr. Doug Tovar, Spanish professor and director of Liberty University Spanish Institute in Limón, Spain, is planning an almost a dozen trips to Spanish speaking countries over the past year.

Students who are in Guatemala this trip will be part of national, nondenominational and academic teams. LUSS serves as a ministry opportunity for the students as well as providing an intense approach to learning the Spanish language.

The learning technique that is being used to learn the Spanish language through Spanish evangelism.

Senior Christy Carroll has been on several of these trips to Guatemala with Tovar.

On all of these trips it is my desire that young people go to Latin America, bring their bodies back but leave their hearts," Towles said.

Every month, LU produces a faculty member to be the Modern Day Hero—"who profile reflects undying strength and embodies the spirit for the Kingdom." Professor James Pickering, communications professor, received the fourth Modern Day Hero Award Wednesday, April 25, in commons.

Pickering was given the award because of his "Philosophical and teaching ability," Brown said. Pickering has been teaching broadcasting at LU since 1974. "He’s a person, in teaching and in society. He was at my elementary school, one of the teachers I went to see a lot of a lot as I was growing up," Brown said.

Pickering lives in Lynchburg, VA 24502. "I am a New Yorker who works in Virginia," Pickering said. "I was educated and began my teaching career in New York, teaching third grade in New York. "While I was at elementary school, one of the teachers that I went to see a lot of a lot as I was growing up," Brown said.

Pickering decided to leave New York because California seemed like the perfect place to work in television. Before leaving, he accompanied his parents to Virginia, where they planned to retire.

Pickering decided to attend Virginia State University, where he taught for two years. "I taught for a couple of years, and then I went to work at Christian broadcasting," Pickering said.

Pickering said he feels his students that while they trust him in God to get them a position for them in their career and the college, they also have to get good and take the positions.

Pickering believes that his parents and Bruce房源, a former CNN Column内容 director and one of his greatest influences, "My parents have been the greatest influence in my life, and my work ethic," so the Brown helped him in his career. "Above all, I’ve made mistakes and I’m still learning," he said.

This was the last Modern Day Hero Award for the year. Students must be nominated for a professor formal next year by getting recommendations from their classmates.

"The bottom line is that we have lost a very important part of the school's culture. We are all going to be here ever since our own here over and done. "It's been a great experience to be here and to see the community grow," Pickering said.

Pickering believes in being a part of the community and in teaching, "My philosophy is to get the student in the hands on experience. We can have fun until we’re blue in the face, but the students need to get practice during class time," Pickering said. "LU's communications program gives students real-life experience — they get to practice during class and working.

Minority students awarded at annual MISO banquet

By Alexandra Harper, reporter

The Minority and International Students Organization honored its most outstanding student at the annual MISO banquet at 8 p.m. April 27, at the Holiday Inn Select in downtown Lynchburg. Students and faculty attending the banquet were dressed in their finest to acknowledge the achievements of the minority and international students at LU.

Dr. Eunice By Rhodes, the keynote speaker, was a high school dropout when she married and had her first child at the age of 15. She was widowed at the age of 29, leaving her with seven children to raise on her own. Since then, Rhodes has received her Master's degree in science and education, and has completed her past doctoral work in adult education.

Because she was barred from college, many of the students who attended the banquet were able to attend college because of the efforts of others who came before her.

Rhodes said that she could not succeed because of her family, because she was poor and because she was black. Rhodes knew that if she would "believe in herself," she could succeed. She used to tell the children in her classes, "If you're the first time to do something, you can always do it perfectly." Rhodes said.

"I can appreciate where the Lord has brought me," she said. "I left my home to be a wife." In her speech, Rhodes expanded on some essential truths that she has learned throughout her life. Rhodes concluded by saying, "There is a hal­f­life in our

The cause of my sadness these last few years has been the thought of being one more woman who will lose her husband. I feared for my life every minute of my husband's life. I feared for his life, but also for me, begging God to give him another time.

So, I gave up, I gave in, and slowly I came to understand. And, yes, we were married.

I knew it, we had bought a bag of cat food, from the vet that the kitten we referred to, knew it, we had bought a bag of cat food, from the vet that the kitten we referred to as "she" was actually a "he.

We spent New Year's Eve watching it being rewarded by the loud shouts of excitement. Our kitten was officially named "Cairn," and eventually a dish and litter box. All that was left was a name.

For my friends who are Christians, do you give enough? The answer should be yes. It is your job to make sure. Wouldn't you rather have a stupid thing such as a potted plant in your window and be able to see the sun come up, rather than have something that you had to go out and buy something just because you thought you had to buy it?

Jesus never once asked us to share our faith. He never once asked us to share our faith. He never once asked us to share our faith.

Christians should thank God every day for their salvation. I believe that one of the ways we can thank Him is by obeying His Word. It is your job to make sure. Wouldn't you rather have a stupid thing such as a potted plant in your window and be able to see the sun come up, rather than have something that you had to go out and buy something just because you thought you had to buy it?

I believe it is a great thing that keeps us from being like the world. If you are a Christian, you're no longer the same. You are no longer the same. You are no longer the same.

Golf finishes sixth at BSC championship

By Katie Boylan, reporter

Liberty's men's golf team finished out of seven teams in the Big South Championship tournament April 15-16, in North Carolina. The particular course that they played on had an unusual set-up, with a lot of elevated uphill shots that the team had a hard time with, according to Coach Landrey.

This course also had many out of bounds areas and lots of water for the teams to negotiate around. Unfortunately, a number of penalty shots here this tournament, so it infringed a bit. "We missed a lot of 3 and 4 foot putts that were very easy to us, but they struck fairly well from 30 feet," said Coach Frank Landrey as he explained the team's strengths and weaknesses from this particular tournament.

The team was led by Jason Yoo, with an average of 77.8 for 3 rounds, followed by Yong Joo with 78.1 and Paul Carey with 78.3 on their averages of the 3 rounds. The team's total for this tournament was 285.

Rob McCluskin was chosen as one of six for academic Big South, with his 3.5 GPA.

In the Big South Awards Class, held at Wayne's Edge Country Club, Liberty's team finished eighth out of 11 teams on April 10. Liberty hosted this two-day tournament.

James Yoo finished in 22nd place with his 238.5, only one over par for the 3 rounds. He followed by Yong Joo, who finished 24th with a score of 272 after the two rounds of play. Paul Carey ended in 35th place and Rob McCluskin in 42nd place as individuals.

In the East Carolina Intercollegiate tournament, Liberty's team finished 11th with a final score of 898 after three rounds of play. Yong Joo led the team, finishing in eighth place with his score of 217, only one over par for the three rounds.

Paul Carey finished 67th place with his score of 224, eight over par after the completion of three rounds of play. Jason Yoo, Rob McCluskin and and Allen Hill's scores also made up the team total.

"We did end up for fall and spring combined with 80 wins over teams and we beat the Flames, so we had a better 32nd season with that," said Coach Landrey as he talked about Liberty's season for its final tournament this past weekend.

"It was almost embarrassing to get the attention that I get, because I don't consider myself a home run hitter," Gonzalez stated. "I'm just doing something special right now, and you just try to ride the wave as long as you can."

"I still feel great about breaking this record by one of the greatest ballplayers who ever played this game," Henderson stated. "I wouldn't come back if Michael didn't come back. I would only come back for him," said the 38-year-old Barkley.

Barkley retired last season after rupturing a knee tendon. His comeback has lasted with a possible comeback alert.

Barkley retired last season after rupturing a knee tendon. His comeback has lasted with a possible comeback alert. Michael Jordan, new the president of the Washington Wizards, scored 78.0% this year that he was with baseball.

"I'm just doing something special right now, and you just try to ride the wave as long as you can."

"I still feel great about breaking this record by one of the great ballplayers who ever played this game," Henderson stated. "I wouldn't come back if Michael didn't come back. I would only come back for him," said the 38-year-old Barkley.

Lady Flames hold banquet

By Justin Ridgle, reporter

After winning its fifth straight Big South title and making its fifth straight NCAA Tournament appearance, the Lady Flames basketball team hosted its annual banquet last Tuesday night as a night of reflection -- and a night of awards.

Four seniors -- Michelle Frick and Monique Leonard were among the seven Lady Flames honored. Frick received awards for Most Outstanding Offensive Player. Coach Carey Green said, "This was the most enjoyable reason, I've ever had," said Green, "Having a baby on our chest all year was good because the girls really stepped up." Green said. The Lady Flames started the season door down in injuries and a lack of team chemistry. "We were young, and injured and we lost five of these early games by six points or less," Green said. After the pain of injury and losses, the Lady Flames came together and went 12-7 in the conference. "Some psychologists say that your behavior will not change until the pain of the season when we were 2-6. After that the Lady Flames' desire to win and chemistry came together," said Green.

The Lady Flames put up impressive national statistics this year as well. Sophomore center Meribeth Feenstra finished seventh in the country in blocks. Freshmen averaged 12.8 points per game. The Lady Flames finished the season with the fifth best field goal percentage in the nation at 43.6 percent.

ON THE MOUND: Everyone knows that the Twins are not a fluke.
Though talented, it’s unlikely the project will last long before that Minnesota lineup rears its ugly head. Radke (4-0), Mil­ton (2-0), and Kirk (2-0) are the usual suspects in the starting rotation. The Twins may lack experience, but not talent. Case in point, rising star shortstop Cristlan Guzman, who at just 23-years-old is third on the team behind first base­man Matt Stairs and catcher, John Halamka, with a .296 average. The shutdown closer role in the ninth inning is rivaled by rookie Jo Nelson, who has ERA’s of under three runs. Three have ERA’s of under three runs. It’s still too early and the Twins

Ken Oderby, reporter

The territory of the Minnesota Twins is off to a flying start. As the Twins have swept their way to winning the American League Central Division title, they have done so with a combination of pitching and hitting that has been impressive. The team is currently leading the division by 10 games and is on track to clinch the division title by the end of June. The Twins have won 41 of their first 60 games, with only two losses to the Chicago White Sox, who are in second place. The Twins have a record of 28-1 in their last 30 games, and have outscored their opponents by a total of 245-108. The pitching staff has been dominant, with a team ERA of 3.24. The team has also been strong at the plate, with a team batting average of .273 and 136 home runs. The Twins have a chance to clinch the division title this month, and are expected to be a formidable force in the American League Championship Series. The Twins are not only a strong team on the field, but also a strong team off the field, with a community service program that has helped improve the quality of life in the Twin Cities area.
