Respect in convocation: everyone’s responsibility

Respect in convocation shouldn’t be a difficult concept for college students to grasp. Why then do some Liberty students fail to take everyone’s responsibility seriously? Read My Lips...

...It can still hinder another’s ability to listen. Other times it occurs simply because they have nothing better to do. However, he must understand that even the slightest of distractions are enough to affect those around him. Even though he may notice the talking, he can still hinder another’s ability to listen. Other times it occurs simply because they have nothing better to do. It is unprofessional to speak disrespectfully to others.

Therefore, he bears his actions on more consequences rather than his conscience. He flaunts his own inobstavilistic in front of those whom he believes he can get away with. This does not mean that everyone else is doing the same. Some students are under the impression that because we now have convocation, it’s impossible for them to be everywhere and see everything that happens.

While advocates of the law contend that the only protests this will affect are those of the political nature, there are many more that are not. In addition, while many of America’s Baptist churches refuse to engage in cancer research, education and patient service, they are compelled to do so by the IRS.

The IRS has in the past come into the public eye for guarantees, many of which are now acceptable. The IRS has been involved in a nation-wide campaign to promote safe sex, with the hope that it will reduce the spread of AIDS. The. AIDS virus on the other hand, is caused by the body’s own immune system.

It appears to us that the IRS has become an example of the common belief that “the IRS has too much power.” The IRS is an agency of the federal government, and it is responsible for collecting taxes from individuals and businesses.

The fear of contracting fatal diseases like cancer and heart disease is so intense that we need to understand where we came from. This has never been more true than now, when even the government is supporting the AIDS virus at the expense of the public good.

In order to address the issue of AIDS, we need to understand the causes of the disease. There are many theories about the cause of AIDS, but none of them have been proven conclusively.

So in essence, today’s teenagers arc pumped with hormones terribly interested in health. The AIDS virus is transmissible any day of the week, and it only takes giving in to temptation once, to get burnt by this disease that is unstoppable.

Gangsta rap shouts violence, promiscuity to nation's youth

Government promotes gun control through fear and disinformation

By RAYMOND WHITNEY

Occasionally, a nation faces a Supreme Court decision that will change the course of history. In 1920, the Supreme Court ruled that the manufacture, transportation, and sale of alcohol was illegal. In 1933, the Supreme Court ruled that the manufacture, transportation, and sale of alcohol was legal. In 2023, the Supreme Court ruled that the manufacture, transportation, and sale of guns is illegal.

The decision was made by five judges who have been appointed by the current president, a Republican. The decision was opposed by the previous president, a Democrat, and the majority of the American people.

The decision will have a significant impact on the firearm industry, which is a major contributor to the American economy. It will also have a significant impact on the Second Amendment, which guarantees the right to keep and bear arms.

The decision was made without consultation with the American people, and it will have a significant impact on their lives. It is a decision that will be remembered for generations to come.

Drug-related crime surges American concern: What is solution?

Harder drugs warrant radical solutions; examine drug legalization

By DAVID SCHWARTZ

According to a recent survey, the majority of Americans believe that drug legalization is the best way to combat the drug problem. However, there are many arguments against drug legalization, including the potential for increased crime and the misuse of drugs by teenagers.

The solution to the drug problem lies in the implementation of comprehensive anti-drug policies, including education, counseling, and treatment programs. These programs can help prevent drug use and provide support for those who are struggling with drug addiction.

Drug-control efforts should focus on prevention and early intervention. This can be achieved through school-based drug education programs, community-based prevention initiatives, and targeted interventions for high-risk populations.

In addition to these efforts, it is important to address the root causes of drug use, such as poverty, lack of opportunity, and mental health issues. Addressing these underlying factors can help reduce the demand for drugs and prevent further drug-related problems.

Drug legalization is not a viable solution to the drug problem. It would result in increased drug use and more drug-related problems, including crime and public health issues.

The best way to combat the drug problem is through a comprehensive, evidence-based approach that integrates prevention, education, treatment, and enforcement efforts. This approach has been shown to be effective in reducing drug use and related problems.

Solve drug related crime by instilling values at home, punish crime

By JIM BEATTY

Drug-related crime has increased in recent years, posing a significant challenge for law enforcement agencies. While there are various approaches to addressing the problem, it is important to focus on the root causes of drug use and to create a comprehensive strategy that addresses these issues.

One effective approach is to focus on prevention and early intervention. This can be achieved through school-based drug education programs, community-based prevention initiatives, and targeted interventions for high-risk populations.

Additionally, it is important to address the underlying factors that contribute to drug use, such as poverty, lack of opportunity, and mental health issues. Addressing these underlying factors can help reduce the demand for drugs and prevent further drug-related problems.

Furthermore, it is important to create a strong and responsive criminal justice system that can effectively deter drug use and provide appropriate punishment for those who violate the law.

By focusing on prevention, education, treatment, and enforcement efforts, we can create a comprehensive strategy that addresses the root causes of drug use and reduces the demand for drugs and related problems.

Dominican adjusts to life at LU

By LISA PARYS and DAVID HART

Wednesday, February 1, 1994

As we stood there at the international check-in line to get into the country of Dominica, our flight attendant began to talk to us about the country and its culture.

"Dominica is a beautiful country," she said. "The people are friendly and welcoming. The culture is rich and diverse. You will love your time here!"

We were excited to hear this, as we had always wanted to visit Dominica.

As we walked through the airport and boarded our flight, we couldn't help but feel excited and eager to explore this new place.

As we arrived in Dominica, we were greeted with open arms by the locals. They welcomed us with smiles and kind words.

We settled into our hotel room, exhausted from our long journey, but excited to explore the island the next day.

Next, we went out to explore the city. We walked through the bustling streets, taking in the sights and sounds of this beautiful country.

We visited the local market, where we bought fresh fruits and vegetables. We also visited the Dominica Museum, where we learned about the history and culture of the island.

On our second day, we went on a hike in the beautiful mountainous landscape. We hiked through the jungle, taking in the beauty of the scenery around us.

As we returned to our hotel room that night, we felt tired but content. We had had an amazing day and were looking forward to exploring more the next day.

Dominica has become one of our favorite places to visit. We hope to return soon and continue to explore the beauty of this incredible country.

We highly recommend Dominica to anyone looking for an adventure in a beautiful and welcoming country.

This has been our experience and we hope it inspires others to visit Dominica as well.
Samantha Kim, 21, comments on the best and worst of going to college with her sister, Josephine, 19.

How would you describe Josephine's personality?

"She's a perfectionist. She will stay up all night after school to finish whatever she needs to get done. If she has a responsibility, she tries to do it perfectly no matter what."

What's the best thing about going to school with Josephine?

"She's my sister, so she helps me better than anyone else. Sometimes when you go to college, you end up in different groups of people and you don't lose yourself, but you try to be someone who does."

What will you remember most about going to college with Josephine?

"I remember how excited it was to see her saying "camera 1," "camera 2" and directing a news anchor and all that she does in telecommunications."

What has Josephine taught you the most since coming to Liberty?

"I think it's the fact that everything I do, I have to think, 'What would Sam think if he saw me wear this? Everything I do, I have to stop and think 'What would Sam think?' It's not good in a way, but in other ways it's not."

What's the worst thing about going to school with Sam?

"I think the worst thing is the fact that everything I do, I have to think, 'What would Sam say or do if he saw me doing this instead of my homework, or what would Sam think if he saw me wear this?' I have to stop and think 'What would Sam think? It's not good in a way, but in other ways it's not.'"

How would you describe Josephine's personality?

"Josephine is always looking for something better. She's been like that her whole life, but especially at college where you have to fit into other groups of people and you try to make friends, but you have to be careful in doing that."

What's the best thing about going to school with Josephine?

"I think the best thing about going to school with Josephine is that she's my sister, so she knows me better than anyone else here. She's been here since she arrived at the beginning of the semester. "People thought I looked like one of the Clays when I came. It's really nice to know that I have somebody there."

What's the worst thing about going to school with Josephine?

"I think the worst thing is that everything I do, I have to think, 'What would Josephine think if she saw me wear this?' Everything I do, I have to stop and think 'What would Josephine think?' It's not good in a way, but in other ways it's not."

What's the best thing about going to school with Sam?

"I think the best thing about going to school with Sam is that he's very patient. That's what I wish I had."

What's the worst thing about going to school with Sam?

"I think the worst thing is the fact that everything I do, I have to think, 'What would Lloyd say or do if he saw me doing this instead of my homework, or what would Lloyd think if he saw me wear this?' Everything I do, I have to stop and think 'What would Lloyd think? It's not good in a way, but in other ways it's not.'"

EAT MAT — LU wrestler Steve Black smothers UNC opponent to celebrate! The Big South has arrived. No more can this conference be referred to as a cute little village of Buies Creek is dial they are. The infractions seem to have outgrown the Buies Creek campus. Completely aware of is the fact that the entire issue of an new identity has been discovered for all the players and fans of this program. The league has made frequent visits to a lot of Southern hoops may have been operating under the chaos which had been the Buies Creek issue by the NCAA investigation. A decision is likely to be made on the fees for players and family members, coaches and staff members, and maybe even fine the Buies Creek campus. All of these reports are still being reviewed by the NCAA. The infractions seem to have outgrown the Buies Creek campus.

All-Stars look ready to shine.

Another football season is in the books and the basketball season now turns its attention to the NBA. Milwaukee will play host to 24 of the planet’s greatest athletes on February 13, and the fans decide last week which 10 will make the cut.

The Eastern Conference features a mix of Nets and Bulls as well as a trio of Magic. Shaquille O’Neal will make much deserved start and so is Hamm at forward by Scottie Pippen and the Nets’ Derrick Coleman.

Pippen’s teammate, B.J. Armstrong, will make his first All-Star appearance as will his backcourt mate, Kevin Anderson.

The West is highlighted by the league’s top guards, Charles Barkley, Seattle’s Shawn Kemp also starts at forward and the Rocket’s Hakeem Olajuwon mans the middle.

Portland’s Clyde Drexler and Mitch Richmond of Sacramento complete the backcourt.

Whichever fans choose All-Star teams, the balloting techniques of large market clubs like New Jersey and Chicago, tend to cheapen the experience. Concern the game belongs to the fans, but the players work hard to reach a certain level of stardom that is often identified with an All-Star selection. A formal basis on popularity seems the process.

Among the overlooked potential starting in the East were Dominique Wilkins and one of the conference’s five dynamic stars. In the rebuilding of a favorite team, ‘The Human Light-Mt Light’ deserved an appearance in thenan above a player like Coleman who refused to go back into rely upon game honors to the $70 million dollar contract.

GMs were scoring 33 plus points for the Knicks and one of the game’s top shooters player, he was not even in the top 10 vote getters at

Meanwhile, Anderson placed in the top 20 scorers in the league’s categories.

In other NBA news, it was great to sec Kevin McHale finally get his due among assist leaders.
