The construction of DeMoss Hall this past month has been in preparation for the Miracle of Liberty Memorial Wall, a commemorative display case that will hold memorabilia from the first 25 years of the school. According to LBN Art Director Eric Cuthon, the case will contain old photographs, trophies and other items important to the history of Liberty and the school's history.

Sigmon resigns dean post

Dean Joanne Sigmon has resigned from her post as dean of women, effective next year. She will be replaced by Associate Dean Michelle Matthews.

"Sigmon has been dean of women since 1991," he said. "She served as an associate dean and student director for four years before returning to Wisconsin, where her family is."

"She has always been the most important thing to her," she said.

"She told me that the Lord has opened the door to allow her to return home with her two children, three-year-old Preston Clark and four-month-old Amelia Rose."

"I never wanted to leave Liberty based on my will," he added, "but based only on God's will for my life," Sigmon said.

"She assisted Sigmon in her Tuscaloosa University in 1978, when she enrolled as a student majoring in Elementary Education. She gradually

Dr. M.A. Thomas, founder of Christ for India, has a vision to reach every inch of the world's population with his on-going mission to win 300 million souls. His goal is to make Christ known through the lives of Christians. Now, Liberty has helped fulfill this vision, giving $10,000—one of the largest single donations ever given to the Liberty missions.

Liberty involvement with CFI began with Rev. Thomas's visit to the Liberty campus last November. Through this visit, Thomas was able to come and speak during convocation.

At that time he shared his vision with the students of Liberty and ULYSU, and they responded by giving the $10,000 offering.

Students donate to their fellow man

Students were given a fourth chance to help humanity by giving blood on Wednesday, April 24. The American Red Cross Bloodmobile was on campus, collected donations from anyone willing to save three precious lives from a blood drive. According to Circle K advisor, Lew Wickizer, "The Red Cross has a 120 pints per day quota that must be collected each day. The February blood drive received only 120 pints total during the course of two days. "LU was the only school in the area where two-day blood drives took place," Director of Blood Services Anne Wallace said. "But the volunteers seem to donate every year." Wallace said that unlike the summer situation improved, meaning at least 120 pints collected each day, the Bloodmobile would spend only one day at LU in the future. Wickizer was surprised by how this area where two-day blood drives took place. "Our school included 120 pints a day," he said. "We are usually somewhere around 60 pints, and we're a relatively low turnout in the area. We expected to receive only 120 pints total during the course of two days. I'm glad. You can save three lives by just being at one hour of your time. It's that easy!"

Sophomore TikTok McGrew said that she too donates to help others. "I don't get blood because I'd be too embarrassed to get blood but I'd love to help others. For the雷 mons that are afraid of needles, like sophomore Kay Yamasaki, "I'm afraid of needles but I'm not afraid of being killed." The Bloodmobile will not be visiting the LU campus until next spring. "The length of their stay depends on the students response. Freshman Jamie Pate had some advice for the entire student body: "Just try it once and if you don't like it you don't have to do it again," she said. "You never know until you try!"

Community projects get boost from a group of students with a desire to serve

By CRANSHIND SCHNEIDER

Lynchburg students fanned out across the city for the first Lynchburg Appreciation Day on Saturday, April 20. Approximately 100 students were involved in various projects around the community, assisting area agencies such as Big Brothers/Big Sisters, the Special Olympics, Habitat for Humanity, Catholic Nursing Home, Miller Girls Home, and Lynchburg Parks and Recreation. Students planted trees for the Lynchburg Parks and Recreation Department, planted flowers for Habitat for Humanity, planted flower beds at Catlett Nursing Home, mowed the lawn and assisted in clean-up for the Special Olympics, Sandra Wiegand, director of the Bell Girls Home, commenced the "memorial" of the Bell Girls Home for the day. The organization for the Special Olympics warned volunteers to "be careful" with the support they received from the university.

Lynchburg Appreciation Day was the idea of Josh Winder, director of the Division of Student Services, who was interested in finding creative ways to make the school visible and light up the community.

According to Mr. Bill Hone, Associate Director of Christian and Community Service, area agencies were contacted and options were made available to the students who took them back to their respective halls.

"This was the university's chance to bring campuses out and sometimes the consequences are very difficult," Sigmon said. "Another challenge is knowing that students don't grasp the concept of God's love for them. We had to hard work to make students understand," she said.

In Richmond, Sigmon plans on assisting her father in his appraisal business. She will also work in a small business of teaching people how to preserve their old photographs. Sigmon also plans on devoting herself to some public speaking engagements.

Matthews' career path is similar to Sigmon's. She served in an executive director last year while pursuing her master's degree in counseling. She previously earned her bachelor's degree in journalism from LSU.

"For now I know that this is where the Lord wants me," Matthews said.

The Associate Pastor of Women has been filled by Norsa Wades, who is currently the friend of the International Students and Minority Affairs Officer.

Delta Com hits club scene

By ANDREW LYONS
Chairman, Communications

The vision of a new Communications Studies club is quickly becoming reality. Founded by students involved in the Professional Communications (COMS 360-01) class, the Newsletter of Delta Com is to foster unity in the Communications Studies club.

The club will basically distribute information to club members regarding activities, service opportunities and updates and provide professional experience for students.

COMS 360 professor Scott Baker said, "People who are interested in communications can feel like there is a common space for them to share their interests and develop each other's abilities." According to Baker, the Delta Com 360 class has already received the course from the dean and faculty. "Delta Com is a really good idea," Dr. William Geib, dean of Communications Studies, said. "It will give students a purpose and outreach for their skills and abilities." The communications class must now work closely with the administration and must register as a club with the Student Government Association. Baker said the COMS 360 class will be writing the club's manual and distributing this work to help students recruit new members and use the club's skills while promoting the public understanding of the purpose and outreach for their skills and abilities.

Ford Motor Company recalls vehicles in ignition switch failure

Ford Motor Company is recalling 8.7 million cars and trucks in the United States and Canada to fix a problem with faulty ignition switches. Ford stated that it is doing this in cooperation with the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and Transport Canada.

This is the second-largest recall to date. The largest was last year's recalled will cover anything from various brands with Takada seatbelts.

The vehicles that are being recalled will cover anything from Ford and Lincoln Mercury built between 1988-1993.

The source also stated that repairs should be made quickly because replacement parts are already in stock.

Deputies lose jobs for treatment of prisoner

Two deputies were fired on April 26 for leaving an inmate, Thomas Wright, locked in a holding cell inside the Richmond Juvenile and Domestic Relations District court all weekend.

Sheriff Michelle B. Mitchell said Wright has sought a lawyer in a Domestic Relations District court hearing. Mitchell said the second deputy was ordered when he was convicted of assault and battery.

One of the fired deputies, who had been with the sheriff's office for 13 years, was in charge of the holding cell.

The deputy, Faye Williams, a 22-year-old sheriff's veteran, said she had no idea there was an inmate in the holding cell.

"This was a sheer case of two people who failed to do what they were supposed to do," Mitchell said.

Wright, 38, is on work release as a laborer for an irrigation company.

Subway gas bomber to go to trial

In an attempt to bring to the man involved in the scene, Japan is taking Shoko Asahara to trial for crimes that include the attacks made on Tokyo's subway system.

According to USA Today, twelve people died and 3,200 others were injured in the gas bombing that occurred in March of 1995.

Owners of these vehicles will not be notified by mail. They can have the switches replaced at no cost.

"I'm sure he's saying this has left emotional scars on him, and we're understanding of that," Mitchell said. "This was a sheer case of two people who failed to do our job and that he went two days without food. He has a right to be upset."

Presently, Wright, 38, is on work release as a laborer for an irrigation company.

The sentence that is expected to be requested by prosecutors is execution by hanging, which is the maximum penalty for murder.

Asahara is expected to give his senti.

Summer is finally here; treat loved ones right

The end of the year is here and at long, long last, you know what this means. Most of you will be returning home to be close to your friends and your family. And when you are close to your friends and your family, don't you care about what they are doing and whom they are teaching.

With all of this in mind, the Liberty Champion would like to salute the faculty who have served LU — seniors for many years — and are leaving Liberty at the end of this semester. This list of those departing bears many students who will recognize. According to the Dean of Faculty, among those leaving are the following: Dr. Douglas Bickford, Pam Burket, Rose Taylor, Kim Pulliam, Larry Andrew, Carla Slovan, Jan Schupke, Lisa May Stroud and Dr. Henry Vinkler. However, with their moving on, new staff and faculty will move up and in to take their places. While these newcomers will never completely fill the shoes of their predecessors, they will make their own mark on this school.

We wish the passing faculty the best of luck and Godspeed as they have left Liberty University.

Poor blood drives reflect badly on LU students

The recent trends in on-campus blood drives are disappointing many people.

Throughout the last two years, the campus has seen a significant decrease in the number of people giving blood at the regular Bloodmobile drives. Liberty University needs to have more blood drives — the only school in the area to have this distinction — because the American Red Cross could find more than enough drives — the only school in the area to have this distinction — because the American Red Cross could find more than enough

Another worrying sign should be the fact that nobody can figure out what is happening with LU students. You will find out almost nothing about LU students have sacrificed a little time and health for the sake of the effort. We need to make up for the recent loss in blood.

The Clinton administration and the Democrats are working on an increase in the minimum wage, from $4.25 an hour to $5.15 an hour. According to a recent poll cited in the Richmond Times-Dispatch, 60 percent of the American population approves of the government that should mandate that employers pay even the lowest-level workers at least $5 an hour.

This issue provides the best example of how liberalism has inflamed the thinking of America: like the American

FOOTNOTE — Derek Thomas, driver.
In the third year of his program, the Lady Flames softball team exceeded even its own expectations, winning 36 games and losing only 12. The team came from just eight wins in its first season and 24 last year. Liberty broke 12 school records this season, placed fifth in the conference standings and second overall in the state. Coach Paul Wetmore spoke positively about the Lady Flames string performance in the regular season. "Thirty-six and 18 is a great season, simple as that," Wetmore said. Despite a starting lineup with six freshmen in it at any given time, the team developed chemistry that could not be matched. "We have the utmost respect from everyone in the league now," Wetmore said. With the help of catcher Shannon Radulovich, the Lady Flames produced a good offensive threat at the plate. Sophomore hitter, Stacy Collier was also a key to the Flames, and was named second team All-Conference. The 1995 season looked promising for the Liberty Flames women's volleyball team, after a disastrous 1994 campaign. Despite experiencing a youth movement, with many freshmen and sophomores replacing top players, the Lady Flames won 39-20 and recorded a definite improvement over last year's woes. Reality set in quickly, however, inconsistencies hindered the progress for the Lady Flames. "Inconsistency this past year was our biggest downfall," sophomore hitter, Stacy Collier said. The 1995 season looked promising for the Liberty Flames women's volleyball team, after a disastrous 1994 campaign. Despite experiencing a youth movement, with many freshmen and sophomores replacing top players, the Lady Flames won 39-20 and recorded a definite improvement over last year's woes. Reality set in quickly, however, inconsistencies hindered the progress for the Lady Flames. "Inconsistency this past year was our biggest downfall," sophomore hitter, Stacy Collier said. "As far as who we were it was not a good season for us this year, but we learned a lot. We're looking forward to next season in a huge way.

The Flames will lose the leadership of Jenn Ward next season but are confident that they will have an even better season in 1997. "We have the utmost respect from everyone in the league now," Wetmore said. With one year under his belt, Larry Jackson, who played the two-spot for Liberty, showed poise. "Jackson proved to be a key go-to guy when the Flames needed a clutch shot. He led the team in three-point field goals hitting 42 during the regular season. Also, he was second on the team in scoring." Sophomore hitter, Stacy Collier said, "As far as who we were it was not a good season for us this year, but we learned a lot. We're looking forward to next season in a huge way.

The Flames moved out of gas, lose in Big South finals

By JOSH HOBLE
Champion Reporter

After a roller coaster 9-9 start to the season, the Flames basketball team showed what it could do, winning six of its out of its eight games (the two losses were by a combined total of four points in February). The team included a 20-point blow-out over eventual conference champions UNC Greensboro. "We feel like we played as well in February as any team we've had this year. It wasn't great coaching, it wasn't great playing, it's the fact that God's blessings were on this team," he said.

The Flames will lose the leadership of Jenn Ward next season but are confident that they will have an even better season in 1997. Also, he was second on the team in scoring.

NICE DUNK — Marcus White admires Peter Aluma's dunk, averaging 13 points per game. After sitting out his freshman year, Marcus White showed why he was a high school All-American. Starting off a slow start, White led opposing teams and coaches in awe, with lightning quick moves in the key area. He took posses that would make the top point guards in the country envious. While come into his own against Virginia Tech, scoring 15 points against the No. 1 ranked team in the country. Barry Royster of two seasons on this year's team, also made key contributions this year. Ticker averaged nine points a game and provided help on the boards for a Flames team that lacked size inside.

The play of this year's team was corner piece. Aluma continued to impress his game, averaging 38 points and blocking four shots a game. Meed scored twenty or more points 15 times this season. Eric Snowman and Alan Hopkins provided additional help underneath. "What I look at 50's, having a lot of positive reflections about this group. We had a good chemistry. We had a good team that played very well as a unit," Meyer said.

Editor solves campus parking problems

You are driving back to campus as a weekend ends, after a long, exhausting week of classes. If you are in the senior dorms, the parking lot is packed. It normally is by 5 p.m. Hey, we’re seniors. All we believe in at this time of year is sleeping and studying.

Not that a little walk ever hurt anyone, but just the idea of parking in the “pit” suggests that there should be more parking areas available at the senior dorms. A gravel pit can easily be developed into another parking lot.

There are close to 500 people in the senior dorms and only 120 parking spaces. This suggestion should be taken seriously.

Improvements have been made. We complained about a lack of lighting in the “pit” and we got lighting. We complained about being packed in the “pit” and we got parking spaces.

It was scarily busy in late hours, especially after working until all hours of the morning in a crazy office with psycho people and have to park way down in the dark pit and not up to the dorm to escape the hot guys, any sexual kinks who may be lurking under a car.

Let’s be complaining about more parking spaces we’ll get more too.

Besides the fact that the pit is inconvenient, it’s dirty. When you park there, then go to fetch my car the next day, (if I can even find it) I’m 15 inches of dirt. The car washer was never so relevant.

Well, it’s just that they definitively would not be the part of the Lynchburg community to make a Community Assistance fundraise for a gravel lot on campus.

I hear the complaints coming already. But now I’m on my way up the path, feeling on top of the world, feeling like I was a survivor. It was at this point that Bowman realized that this rollar coaster, this mountain must start as a hill.

With the help of the Lynchburg community to make a Community Assistance fundraise for a gravel lot on campus.

Oh, please! Don’t let it happen again. It was at this point that Bowman realized that this rollar coaster, this mountain must start as a hill.

Another school year draws to a close but the memories students formed during this period will linger on. As we take a short stroll down memory lane, it is easy to see that this year has been literally packed with activities all the way from news events to campus happenings.

Years from now, we’ll look back nostalgically at these pictures and say, “Those were the days.” No matter what trials we suffered through, it is the good times that will stay with us.

EVENTS

WHAT’S HAPPENING?

Jim Walls showed off his moves as a group of students harkened back to the 70s during this year’s Spirit Week celebration (below). He made that face once too often — and it froze that way. Well, at least it stayed that way for a week, during the Scaremare, YouthQuest’s fall outreach, which focuses on the theme of death.

NEWS
