Christians in Ethiopia Face Arrest, Torture

By Y. S. Amos

A "cultural revolution" in Ethiopia, which is bringing about a "terror and torture to Christians of Ethiopia," was warned recently by eye-witnesses to the anti-Christian activities of the Organization (PLO) which they felt of the American Jewish committee remarks, based on comments made about a number of our bishops.

The Vast Opportunity

Elsewhere on this page in a letter we received from a young man who escaped the slaughtering Communists in Vietnam.

The letter of Thahn Than Vo is a heart-rendering missive. The Vast Opportunity

We as a Christian ministry are run short of food, water and fuel. Sometimes, boats are drowned because they don't know how to drive their boats safely.

Mr. Falwell:

"I'm in death row Florida State Prison where the Holy Spirit is working with me to set me free to preach the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ and the coming Kingdom. I'm very interested in obtaining the best Bible Christian Bible training.

We seventy other boatmen and I are one of an article which appeared 25 years ago. Our church is in fellowship with the three churches, and all churches as the three free and independent churches.

Dear Editor:

You are a specialist in seeing how God is using this ministry effectively.
Dr. Falwell, South Koreans Discuss Perils

On Jan 31, Dr. Jerry Falwell entertained an official delegation from South Korea at a Lynchburg, Virginia, restaurant. Congressman Rep. Phillip M. Crane (R-Ill.), who represents the 12th district of Illinois, which contains one of the largest Korean communities in the United States, was among the foreign delegates who discussed the peril of North Korea's invasion of South Korea.

Dr. Falwell, president of Conservative Baptist Association and the Liberty Baptist College, had been invited to speak to the South Koreans at a Lynchburg Gospel Crusade, to which he was a frequent participant from South Korea.

Dr. Falwell has publically expressed that he would support the invasion of North Korea and the capture of Seoul and Seorae. He has done this five times, the last time receiving over 80 percent of the vote.

Crane defined a conservative as someone who believes the American dream of liberty and governances by the people through a constitutional process. He then went on to judge this law by his voting record and the principles upon which he believes.

Crane explained that the leaders of America were religious men who formed the Constitution. They believed in the natural rights of man. Hence, they made laws that recognized God Almighty, but also made laws to protect the freedom of man, as they did when they invaded in Vietnam, Cambodia, and Laos.

According to Crane, the Christian and the American are one in America that can help the Christians and South Koreans. As he pointed. Thus for the American, it means a deal for the South Koreans, as the capital, Seoul, is only one hour from North Korea's border. They could make a lightning strike, capture Seoul and use for peace.

Dr. Falwell has publicly defended the position of the Christians in South Korea. He invited Dr. Billy Kim, president of the Korean Baptist Crusade, which was attended by prominent Baptist laymen in Korea.

When Congressman Crane began campaigning for the Presidency of the United States, he sought the attention of national newspapers, which had begun calling for his family, "The Kennedy of America.

Crane has been in Congress 10 years and is president of the American Conservative Union and its 60,000 members.

Dan Crane, a delegate from Davison, Ill., was just elected to Congress from the Davison, Illinois, district. The third brother, David Crane, a lawyer and psychiatrist, lost his bid in an Indianapolis election for the U.S. Congress.

The brothers are all handsome, sports-minded and share similar political views. A family trait of the Kennedys, although the latter were liberal.

The father, Dr. George Crane, a physician-turned-newspaper columnist, has a syndicated column "The Wacky Chic," that appears in over 300 newspapers.

The boys are brilliant in their own right. When asked the source for their desire to achieve, one answered, "When we were young, Dad would jump up and diagram it as if he were performing medical surgery. The boys would go to the encyclopedia to stump him." He went on to say, "Life was a school room."

Another noted, "I'd have to cut weeds to earn a nickle for ice cream."

"We used to weep when he went to the store," another remarked, "We had to wait for everything we wanted."
A Brand New Look... At the Grand Old Book

NEW PLAN

This will consist of a systematic and soul-stirring study of the Word of God through the usage of recent and recent materials. The First Section is entitled "Basic Stages in the Book of Ages." SMITE Introduces Mexico To Students

With the time passing rapidly, the trip came to an end with the related programs due to the influx of people into the city. The event was a great success and everyone at the conference to all the events was the place to be seen and heard. The conclusion of the tour was five hours by bus into the mountains.

There are now new churches and college buildings being dedicated. The American students from Virginia were welcomed by the natives and the native students had an opportunity to practice the Spanish language with the children with laughter and delight. The tour did not end for everyone.

In the end service, the students sang and presented their testimonies in Spanish which were received with a pleased and strong answer by their new Mexican "angels." Pretenders using a solo accompanied by a record player which performed too slow and soon joined with the bring up of a horses wind just outside of the small church. The entire congregation appreciated this performance with obvious delight. After the service, the Americans returned to their hotel tired and happy as those who have enjoyed Christmas fellowship. We know. Then, as the church in Mexico City, the LCA students became to the Lord has victory over superstition and fear.

After returning to Mexico City and in a typically delicious Mexican dinner, the Christian students gathered for a time of reflection and sharing. Each student gave the testimony of being profoundly affected during the one-week stay. Max. Joe Row of the LCA was lauded for his efforts in making the week of "foreign exposure" while others on the team — Mrs. Breslow and Pretenders — were also praised for making the week pleasant and enjoyable.

The Lynchburg Christian Academy students discovered that the village people appeared more responsive to the Gospel than all of the cosmopolitan city people. However, God bless St. John, and the students found that their job was to carry the message and the Lord would do the rest.

Those participating in the trip were Rev. Allen Wade, Rev. Carl Burke, Rev. Barrow, Mrs. Nancy Breslow, Karen Breslow, Gay Burke, Charles L. Cadle, Victoria Davis, Stella Decker, Anussa DeVincent, Douglas Dunn, Diane Dugan, Ken Dunn, Sherry E. Jack, Todd Lamphere, Kris McRoberts, Jack Hosty, Elizabeth Redick, Larry Rhine, Sharon Shor, Tammy Turner, Diane Willocks, Debbie Wood, Debbie Yerger, Diane Pantana, Sharon Wood, and write or call Gary Swafford, Pantana — Were also praised for their efforts in making the week pleasant and enjoyable.

LAWMAKERS VETO EQUAL RIGHTS LEGISLATION

By WANDA WATSON

With the motion "No Way, ERA," approximately 200 Virginia legislators, including 10 Virginia delegates, turned down the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) gathered in five conferences at the Old Capitol in Richmond, Thursday, Jan. 25.

Waving red, white and blue banners that read "Yes" for each Virginia delegate who had voted for the ratification of the ERA amendment, the 76-piece Liberty Baptist College Band entertained by playing several patriotic selections such as "God Save the Queen.

The primary purpose for which the group gathered was to honor, thank and to show appreciation to the "Great Right" movement for women's rights, the ERA and the equal privileges and Electoral Committee who defended the measure. 128.

The 1979 Virginia General Assembly was adjourned by the Senate and the House of Delegates. Privileges and Elections Committee defeated the measure, 128.

The "Great Right" in the Senate P&H are William Hopkins, Richmond; Columbus Jones, Fairfax; Stephen S. Howard, Harrisonburg; The Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) gathered in five conferences at the Old Capitol in Richmond, Thursday, Jan. 25.

The "Tamifex Twelve" in the House of Delegates are George Cross, Virginia Beach; Van Truban, Shenandoah; and Elmo Townsend, Chesapeake; William Hopkins, Sussex; Russell Dickinson, Louisa; Robert Ball, Chester. ERA leaders say this right has been curtailed in several areas. ERA now has more than 9 million members.

Thus far, 37 states have ratified the ERA and if 38 states should become reality if 38 states should oppose the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA). The ERA provides that "The Congress shall have the Power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article."

Spin tops were everywhere. The children came through the line to receive their Christmas dinner. Whereas the Hmong in Nang Khai had brought soup bowls, in Loei they were given soup in a plastic bag. From there it was distributed in a separate plastic bag. The girls were given dolls, the same as in other camps, but the boys were given tops. Spinning large wooden tops is natural to Hmong boys, but those were colorful plastic tops with a spring spinner. The boys were pleased. I went through the crowd giving lessons in "winding spring tops." The elderly men were fascinated as the boys. An ob­

San-Bao: "Camps Are a Waste of Life"

San-Bao, along with other people, left Vietnam three years ago by boat because he wanted to live in freedom. As soon as the Americans pulled out of Saigon, he knew that life under communism would be unsatisfying so he made plans to escape.

The boat people are now in the news, but San-Bao escaped when they were trying to leave. He was among the first boat people to leave Vietnam.

San-Bao was an electronics engineer, a graduate of Phu Tho University. But more important, he was an ethnic Christian. Today, he is one of the boat people or ethnic Chinese who came to Loei.

With the 70 people, San-Bao was able to purchase an old wooden fishing vessel for 70 ounces of gold. They were then traded another 20 ounces for gasoline and food. (One ounce of gold is worth approx­

1,000 people, were Hungarians. They were former refugees who had been resettled by the world's largest refuges for Operation Promotional presentation of the gospel in the world. The fact that the students were more than 50 hundred was significant to the Hungarians. In Thailand there was more remittance, more than words of Christian carols in Hmong and two in the Thai language. The students were members of SFME (Sikew Missionary Intern Training For Evangelization). A newspaper reporter was forced to hear them sing. “They are devoted to perfection in music and pronunciation.” Another refugee camp leader commented, “If you went to that much trouble just for the Hmong people, your mission is important.” The young people were both moved and awed by the system was the finest - the same system they would have used back home. They did not consider it a great sacrifice to give up Christmas with their families. “It was a privilege to do the best we could for Jesus Christ,” one of them said.

The Loei camp group did more than "mouthing" a few songs in a foreign language. They actually looked themselves in a room for two hours while memorizing a foreign language song. It’s amazing how fast you can pronounce words like Horse a-kick. Many of the words had been only recently mastered. Other words like mek or kaei could not be written phonetically, then pronounced.

Pam Evison sighed, “We couldn’t reach them in the camp. But after Christmas, when they remembered the words they had to memorize, they became more active with music. Next, they learned to use percussion instruments and to create music arrangements, in a cassette tape of Christmas songs, of which the Hmong music was purchased. They learned some of the words and improved their vocal parts.

They sang over and over, taking a five-minute break every ten minutes. Whenever they developed problems, each person went off for 15 minutes to memorize a verse of a song. Then they came back to put it together. Now they had the words and music, but the congregation remained, “A wave of astonishment swept across an audience when they hear the gospel in their own dialect.” In Haiti, the people shouted Amen, in Vietnam they applauded and in the refugee camps of Thailand they smiled in understanding.

Through the miracle of electronics, media and the dedication of college young people, a group of refugees who had been neglected by the world learned a professional musical presentation of the gospel in their own districts. The amazing part is that many had never heard a professional group. They grinned and smiled and nodded approval. It was the first time many of the refugees had called in a long time. “For one song it was worth the pressure,” said Debbie Howell. But thousands were impressed. The inner preparation by the SMITE Singers was a ministry of mercy that brought the desired response from a needy people.

Hmong Receive Care, Love From ‘Christian’ Missions

SAN-BAO: ‘CAMPS ARE A WASTE OF LIFE’

The Loei refugee camp has 1,000 people, mostly from the Hmong tribesmen from the Mekong River. The Hmong live in a camp because their homes are huts. At Loei, the Hmong have traditional dress. Also, the children do not know how to count in dozens of families.

One Christian Out of 1,500 Lived

The girls were given dolls the same as in other camps, but the boys were watching. I must have given 200 demonstrations. Everyone began spinning a top, a light circle of fingers and then wound with inches. A spinning top was something their rare toys, everyone laughed.

San-Bao was transferred to Sikew camp where he saw a small group of Christians praying and singing. He remembered attending a Bible class in high school. Although he had not become a believer at the time, he did follow his mother to a Baptist church where he heard the gospel. In the refugee camp, San-Bao, the well educated university graduate, was now willing to listen to the gospel. Back in Vietnam he had felt self-sufficient. He had never needed anything. He had been interested in Christianity only for curiosity. Now he was reduced to a refugee处境. He had felt self-sufficient and wanted to live. But he wanted more than existence. He wanted a full life. There was an inner hunger for the answers to life. He had not found these answers in money or position. The refugee camp gave him an opportunity to consider his life. He wanted peace and joy and saw it in the small handful of Christians at Sikew. He fellowshipped with them and the “Holy songs” this term. San-Bao became a Christian.

The Lines Were Long As Refugee Children Waited To Receive Food.

The refuge children were excited and with tears in their eyes they were happy. They were happy to receive a gift. It was as if they had received something they had never had before. They were happy. They were happy to see the Hmong people understand them.

The group left the boat and most of them made their way to Bangkok. San-Bao felt the water took the boat back to Vietnam and sailed again on the same route. San-Bao lived in Hong Kong and planned to move to a new life in Thailand. Knowing he had landed in the mission field, he required a passport police. He was arrested and never would have thought he was an American. Christmas morning, fellows were spinning tops, they were watching. I must have given 200 demonstrations. Everyone began spinning a top, a light circle of fingers and then wound with inches. A spinning top was something their rare toys, everyone laughed.

Many weserners cannot understand what is happening in the Middle East. An understanding of the history of this sector of the world would reveal a logical explanation of the events. Much of the propaganda released to the world, from both Israel and Arab, often supports the weserner's preconceived ideas, personal and national biases.

The weserner has a lack of perspective in what is the cause of the Middle East crisis. We are often unaware of the undercurrents which dictate the upturning of history. It is also important for Americans to understand how the Middle East views our nation. It is here that I am also concerned with the American image. As a Christian, I have always been and will continue to be, concerned with the Holy Land, not simply because our Saviour Christ was born there, but also because we must be committed to peace in the Middle East and to support the nation of Israel.

Influence Strong From Both Sides

Unusually, I must report there is a definite lack of confidence emerging on the part of Israel, Israel that probably more concerns than the United States than is Egypt, especially, since President Anwar Sadat of Egypt was a member of our last panel.

The fact that the influence of Russia is very strong. The position of the United States will play a major role in the national and political interest of the Middle East countries. Just look at the present hippedness in Iran, for Israel is strong and the possibility of her nation being peace and the internal situation in the Arab states is in a way that require positions. The U.S. will continue to refuse to accept anything but autonomy for the Arab countries will be unified, will be a major threat to the most peaceful piece of the Middle East. A peace treaty will eventually be an option, but it will be an uneasy peace not so much because of Egypt and Israel but because of the Arab nations which surrounded Egypt and Israel.

It is my judgement that Egypt and Israel have an electron peace. President Sadat has stepped out of the main stream and is an effort to negotiate peace. By the same token, Egypt is a very real part of the Arab world and must live in the Arab world.

With the common influence of the Islamic religion and the Islamic community, there is a further concern of difficulties. There are three conceptions between the Islam and Community which lacks direct religious authority and the world as good and well as superficial.

It appears that a view of the west is dead.

These three countries are delaying the signing of an Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty.

First, the security of Sinai and the Suez area can be achieved after an agreed period of time by both parties. Second, civil defense preparations in both countries are such that their enemy would be binding together strong arm forces. Third, the Arab nations should not have in their countries in any way.

There is also a polarization of the cultures such as the Lebanese, other hand, there is Saudi Arabia, the Islams and the Christians.

There is a polarization and this is a result of the Arab nations which are national, such as Israei, Egyptians, and Christians.

There is a polarization of the Islam in the light of modern day facts. The Islamic faith has been weakened and the only way to strengthen it is through the education of the minorities, and the struggle against the cancer of Communism which emerges on the part of Israel. As a Christian, I have always been and will continue to be, concerned with the Holy Land, not simply because our Saviour Christ was born there, but also because we must be committed to peace in the Middle East and to support the nation of Israel.

Superficially, they accept Western-style capitalism. But, neither one is acceptable to the majority of these countries. As a result, now, I would suggest that the people in the Arab world as good and well as superficial.

CHURCHMAN'S ALL-AMERICA:

Included in the prestigious All-America University Division were co-ordinates of the year, Barry Bowden of Florida State and Dick Bowden of Furman University.

Liberty Baptist College's outstanding guard, Rupert Wright was chosen to the first team offensive unit of the All-America. Other LBC football players chosen to the second team were offensive tackles Ed Landis and coming back Kim Ransier.

Dawling also received the ICSHF "Job of the Year" for his performance under the handicap of continued injuries.

The third team defensive unit, IBC placed three gridders.

They were the linebacker triple team of Steve Kinner and libero guard Rupert Wright.

Dawling's LBC record during 1978 was an impressive 4-5-1 against powerful competition, much of it upon the strength of the South Atlantic Conference.

During his first season as head coach, the Flames were 7-7.

The 10th annual All-America team included 15 players on its first and second units and represents 20 colleges and universities in 14 states.

Requirements for performance are similar to the above All-America team but the performances must be equalized or surpassed by the leadership and activity in churches, regardless of denomination.

Dawling and the other inductees will be honored at a banquet Feb. 19 in Tullahoma, Tenn.

"I am flattered to be selected as one of All-America," Dawling said. "This is indeed an honor. However, this award belongs to a truly Baptist College which has dedicated itself to a growing athletic program. We have been given the privilege of building a major collegiate football program which will glorify the Lord Jesus Christ..."
