Drug tests will net about 50 per week

BY STEVE STITZ
Copy Editor
Mandatory drug testing has begun.

Gregg Albers, head of Liberty University's Health Services, and the testing actually began two weeks ago. Currently, about 30 students a week are being tested, although the number will vary from week to week.

"About 50 students per week are being tested," Gregg Albers Director, LU Health Services.

When the student reports to Health Services, or he will be asked questions concerning what type of drug, prescriptions or otherwise, to he has used in the last record month.

Next comes the urine sample, which will be sealed and signed the student as part of a chain of custody to avoid any wrong. After Health Services locks the urine, it will be sent off to be analyzed by an independent laboratory.

"We hired the best (drug analyzing) company we could, and we're paying $2 per specimen extra to get the chain of custody," Albers said.

If illegal drug use is confirmed, Health Services will make recommendations in a university review board based on the level of substance found and as explained by the student on his questionnaire.

"The student will then be considered a case under the chain of custody.

The program had been delayed because of the intricate paperwork earlier this semester.

Record broken at 'Mare'

BY LORI SKUDLER

More than 750 people came through Scaremare's "house of death" Thursday night making for the largest opening night in Scaremare's history.

More than 70 people made decisions in the counseling tents following up with those who made decisions at Scaremare. Volunteers have organized a map and geography codes so that students can see and understand decisions made with those who left their names and addresses.

"Scaremare seems to be very popular with students again this year," Volunteer Allison Troy said that she thinks people like Scaremare more this year because of some new features, which include Freddy Krueger and a 3-foot 5 feet.

Dave Adams and Dave Morrow oversee the event again this year, while Liberty monitors provide all the volunteer help. "There has been much more help this year for the fun," Troy said.

In spite of the success of the first two nights, the event was not without its problems. Thursday night, two young boys were apparently lost in the composition of the house. Friday a small fire started from a cigarette. The fire was put out before the house opened. Parts of the house also needed additional water and air from Friday's crowd.

Traffic getting hazardous

Traffic on Candler's Mountain Rd. has seen many accidents.

"It's early," Allison Troy, a junior majoring in Psychology, said. "When coming off the ramp from 460 onto Candler's, you can't see around that guardrail. I can never see if I can get out at all. It's like a 50% chance whether you're going to run into somebody coming up over the hill. It's easier at night though, because you can see the headlights."

Tim Yates, Investigator of LU Security, said that he didn't think the SGA is out to service. We are breaking even and we're paying $2 per specimen extra to get the chain of custody.

Charles McClary will be out to put LU "over the top" on Saturday.

"I'm not sure if they're coming. We have our definitive entrance this coming weekend. LEBREYES needs to arrive! He's our definition of Homecoming. I have a plan to do it with the student on his questionnaire. M — stands for "Our Liberty Flames!" who will escort the student on his questionnaire. M — stands for "Our Liberty Flames!" who will escort the student on his questionnaire.

"My goal this year is to keep the students and the SGA Treasurer accountable to me students and to serve, not to make a buck."

Clunis also wants to recruit more businesses in town to sponsor certain activities next year. We're paying $2 per specimen extra to get the chain of custody.

Clunis works 'behind the scenes' for students as SGA Treasurer.

Candler's Mountain Rd. has seen many accidents.

"It's a busy area when that all of the traffic on the mountain are there. We've had accidents. It's just too congested," Clunis said.

Bryant not a Dem; we’re trying hard

Every now and then, we all make some mistakes. Not to say that any of them are acceptable, but they happen just the same.

In the first six issues of The Liberty Champion, several mistakes were made. Hopefully, this article will clear up any mistake at least.

First of all, The Champion would like to clarify for the record that The Rev. Tom Bryant is in no way associated with the school or any of its activities.

Anyone holding against Bryant should note this fact. Bryant also says that he was misrepresented in several questions in an article. Bryant was quoted as saying that he is "more anti-Republican than pro-Democrat." What Bryant actually said was that he was "NOT anti-Republican or give-up Democrat.

We regret any inconveniences caused by Bryant and ask that his peers take notice of this correction.

Next, there is the issue of the unsigned chapel speaker.

This was a low-point for The Liberty Champion. Admittedly, someone should have taken the time to get Josef Tuna’s name.

Again, we regret any inconveniences that may have caused anyone.

Next on the list was the lack of coverage or "World breaking story" that would so essentially be covered. Assignments were handed out for this one week before World Impact arrived, but the reporters and editors involved did not perform their duties. This was another low-point.

Once again, we regret any inconveniences that this caused anyone.

Another cause for anxiety for some people has been the opinions expressed by members of our staff in certain columns. We simply ask please everyone. We are all entitled to our opinions.

In our own defense, we are severely understaffed to give full coverage and service. We’re not complaining, just asking for understanding.

We are striving to cover LU news and sports as best as we can.

With the cooperation of the student body, we can progress and achieve our goals or responding and reflecting on campus events.

None are really free until they know Jesus Christ

Reynard Valdez

A few years ago I decided to share the good news of Christ. People asked why and I answered, "Why not?"

When I first came to Liberty, America was a land of mixed races. Then came the Indian. Would he cause anyone. The land of freedom and graduating from a can or pro-Democrat. "I can tell you," I said. "I can tell you something."

...the biggest waste of money and effort on campus."

This was a low-point for The Liberty Champion. Admittingly, everyone should have taken the time to get Josef Tuna’s name.

Again, we regret any inconveniences that this caused anyone.

Point: Who needs a campus television station that is seen on only four or five screens?

Brad Taylor

The broadcasting majors at Liberty University are probably reaching many students about Jesus Christ and showing them the love of Christ. They’re reaching in an effective manner, however, is a question that is often asked.

And the Lord Jesus Christ entered my heart and a new life did I really know and experience for the first time.

The Bible says “Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty.” II Cor. 3:17.

In the speech went on to state the importance of true liberty, using the passages quoted above. I really could tell the Spirit of God was working in the hearts of people because of the peace and silence that filled the area. Giving all glorious, peace, God to the crowd, stood or their feet clapping.

No matter what we are or where we come from, a true liberty on this life is to be recognized in God the Father through His Son Jesus Christ. It is an also an important life of also faith which we make a commitment to God that we would follow.

Remember, just because you live in America and attend Liberty University, does not mean you are of tribal freedom. Friend, if you have not seen the kind of freedom that we have been able to experience. It comes from accepting Christ into your life and living it. This living it is living a genuine freedom, and eternal life is gained. You will have the power to live life as you should have the freedom to be a liberty of believing.

God's power goes above the courts

The Supreme Court. To many it is the highest court of appeals. The view is that we as a country are involved with vast power in order to decide the Constitution of our land. The court decides what is constitutional and what is not. It has power to see if an election is fair, or if a law is constitutional. The Court decides if Roe vs. Wade legalized abortion in our country. In "United States vs. Nixon," the Court decided what appeals in our nation? Is our be­law of the land" as it so claims. Docs

Judge, the one who is able to say and congressional action to its constitu­... the judge. He created the universe. He created the earth. He created the plants and the author of justice. The Supreme Court said that abortion is allowable. In "Brown vs. Board of Education," they decided in "Brown vs. Board of Education" that the law was based upon His conception of wisdom. Teachers look to humanism theory of Justice" than upon what God says justice is. Courts system­based on the Judeo-Christian ethic. They should be replaced with good laws in this country. Laws may be in spiritual revival or spiritual upheaval.

As Christians, we must always ask our leaders to "Put Christ in Act It Cut's darling. Many times, though, we think about it poorly. As Christians, we must always be conscious of the spiritual wellness of our country. Many times, though, we think about it poorly. The spiritual revival of America is an event that occurs every 20 years or so. Many times, though, we think about it poorly. As Christians, we must always be conscious of the spiritual wellness of our country.

We need to pray for our country, not just sit around and hope for the best.

Teaching the deaf is difficult

By GABRIELLE LOVE
Special to the Champion

Teaching deaf students is sometimes a challenge. It is a failure in the light of the deaf students who have the chance to make adjustments and accommodations for his/her hearing loss. They can be able to develop learning and educational skills without the prerequisites related to the deaf student's hearing impairments. Teachers have traditionally been used in the classroom to serve as a role model to the students. For the guys, it's only the number, license plate number and picture on one particular girl. It's love or nothing. (This is all very important, you see.) Once he feels completely confident, only then will he pop the question.

For the guys, it's only the beginnings of a relationship. But for the girl, she will respond in one of her theories. "Why not?" She will respond in one of her theories and see how the guy will handle it. She will respond in one of her theories and see how the guy will handle it.

The girl reluctantly agrees. Then to the girl, she finds out that the deaf student doesn't need accommodation, or they have the chance to make adjustments for his/her hearing loss. They can be able to develop learning and educational skills without the prerequisites related to the deaf student's hearing impairments. Teachers have traditionally been used in the classroom to serve as a role model to the students.

Some deaf students do not need accommodation because they do not need hearing. Proactively, academic incompetence inherent in the students precludes their being "normal" students. Without the ability to read, these students cannot acquire the knowledge and information necessary to succeed in the traditional classroom.

If the deaf students do not need accommodation, or they have the chance to make adjustments for his/her hearing loss. They can be able to develop learning and educational skills without the prerequisites related to the deaf student's hearing impairments. Teachers have traditionally been used in the classroom to serve as a role model to the students.

The structure of the Soviet system is undergoing some major changes. Under the design of the new leader, Prevler Mikhail Gorbachev and his policy of openness, Russia is gradually opening up to new ways of life. The West—raining its swarm of capital and more important, Christianity. The new Soviet is being filled and changed. "Venetian Blinds" a little further.

Peace raps boldly about abortion, suicide, alcohol

I remember the first rap tape I ever bought. Crime in the streets, it was the only rap tape I ever bought. It was a long time ago. I was listening to Christian Countdown USA on my radio and the pick-up that week was a song called "Gospel Rap" by a then new group called "The Rap-sures." I thought it was kind of fun, so I went down to my local Christian bookstore and bought the tape.

But I never really furthered any interest in rap until just a couple of weeks ago, when a friend of mine played D.C. Talk over his car radio. The name of the album is "Rappin' Bold." And that's exactly what the album does. It was a long time ago. It was a long time ago.

The first thing I noticed about Michael Peace's raps was that he is very sincere in what he does. (Actually, this is true with all rappers that I've listened to.) Peace has a sort of one on one talk with the listener as he goes down the plan of salvation and summarizes his album.

Peace's raps travel down two different roads: the plan of salvation and his very bold stand against certain issues of today like abortion, pre-marital sex and pornography. These two approaches are interwoven throughout each song and appear in every song. Peace recites them, you can tell that he's trying to reach out with his songs. In fact, three years ago there were only 4 operations said. Peace very bluntly states that abortion is a crime. Then he quickly adds that Jesus loves you and He will forgive you if you turn to Him. Never once does he take a stand on something without pointing to Christ as the ultimate answer. Another positive aspect about Peace is his use of business. Again this element can be found in all good Christian Rap. Peace is his use of bluntness. "Rappin' Bold" offers the listener much more than just blunt lyrics. Extra additions are thrown in that make the album fun.

For example, in his rap "It's Wrong!" Peace very bluntly states abortion is a crime. Then he quickly adds that Jesus loves you and He will forgive you if you turn to Him. Never once does he take a stand on something without pointing to Christ as the ultimate answer. Another positive aspect about Peace is his use of business. Again this element can be found in all good Christian Rap. Peace is his use of bluntness. "Rappin' Bold" offers the listener much more than just blunt lyrics. Extra additions are thrown in that make the album fun.

For the most part, Peace is his use of bluntness. "Rappin' Bold" works a whole lot better than a subtle approach. This is one area where Christian rap could really grow.

"Rappin' Bold" offers the listener much more than just blunt lyrics. Extra additions are thrown in that make the album fun. In the rap, "Solid Rock Crew," Peace brings in Abraham to summarize the plan of salvation. "Solid Rock Crew" is a song in which you hear a guy rap several lines in Latin. And you Morgan Cryer fans might enjoy the rap version of "Break the Chain," giving that song a whole new dimension. Peace has got a wide variety in his raps. And, yes, I did like it. For some, rap might be a little hard to get used to. But you have to admit, it does provide quite a change of pace from the everyday contemporary Christian music.

Michael Peace and "Rappin' Bold" deserve a recommendation for their sincerity and lyrical content. It's not that he's not afraid to make a stand for what he knows is right, and he's not afraid to make a stand for what he knows is right, and that is prepared throughout the album. Rappin' Bold says it all.
Big rock hinderers move to new senior dorms

By ROBERT PITTS

Fifty or 60-foot solid rock is standing between DeMoss Hall and the return to the campus of about 120 senior dormitories.

That rock is hindering the efforts of subcontractors in link the sewage systems of the new dorms to the Lynchburg system, says Bob Leach, part owner of Robinson Construction Company in Blacksburg, which is building the new dorms.

The problem is that the sewer lines have to be run under the railroad tracks. The builder said paving the access road and parking lot of the new dorms to the railroad tracks would be a problem.

Once workers are clear of the rock, drilling through the dirt to complete the plumbing will be "a day's work," Leach said.

Working from DeMoss Hall for the opening of the beginning of October, Leach said, and dorm will be ready to show students by Christmas.

The building will house the art department, the former hallspace, will be used to house the LU drycleaning services, the students' lounge, and a bookstore.

The sign is a hoax, according to John Baker of LU Auxiliary Services.

Entrepreneurs, according to Jim Horton, a junior speech major who is currently looking for members to form the club.

Each initiate kneeled before the king as he dubbed them with his sword, "these are qualities we want our members to possess—dedication, idealistic and unselfishness," the club likes to vary its initiation ceremonies, Steinhoff said. For instance, last September, it was held by moonlight in the wilderness near Lynchburg.

The club is an international organization with 100 chapters worldwide in 42 countries. It is open to students interested in starting the club are asked to contact Jim Horton at extension 1411.

Horton wants to 'die knowing that I ran that morning'

BY CURT OLSON
Champion Reporter

Thomas Horton said, "Health is more valuable than learning, money without the fitness, the second can not exist." Horton sums it up this way, "I would die to run 100 miles in a race in 10 hours and a Christian I decided to practice what I preach."

On September 10, Dr. Horton competed in a 50-mile race in Pittsburgh, Pa. and finished the race in 11 hours and 10 minutes.

Dr. Horton is known as an ultra marathoner. An ultra marathoner is one who competes in races that are 50 miles or more in length (as opposed to the usual marathon which is 26.2 miles in length). He began his hobby while attending graduate school at Arkansas University. Dr. Horton says, "I was overweight and out of shape and I decided to run to get into shape. As an educator and as a Christian I decided to practice what I preach."

Despite the accomplishments, there is something that disturbs Dr. Horton regarding attitudes of people. "People look at the fact that I like to run 50 mile races and think it is strange. It is not strange to want to lose 25 lbs or to run the miles in under four hours. People set goals for themselves and if people achieve those goals, they should be looked upon by others as people who achieve 'normal' goals."

Dr. Horton also wants to be able to write "100 years old" on a race application and still beat half the runners competing.

"When I die," he says, "I want to die knowing that I ran that morning."
