School buys doms, plans reopening in '93

By PAMELA WALKO

Since the purchase of the senior dorms from the Christian Mutual Company in early March, university officials have begun to address the dorms in preparation for the fall semester.

"One dorm is completely ready for occupancy and the remodeling will be finished by the first week in August," said William Westervelt, vice president of financial affairs. "The goal is to have all four dorms available for the fall semester.

Westervelt said that all four dorms will be open for the fall semester. The senior dorms were purchased by the university from the Christian Mutual Company in early March, and university officials have been working to get the junior dorms ready for the fall semester.

According to Westervelt, the senior dorms were purchased for approximately $46 million, which has been revised to approximately $49 million. This took place after modifications were made on the original document detailing the plan.

"Without a vision, the people lose interest. Frustration replaces momentum," Lamb said.

"The probable bullet points are behind us and financial affairs, said."

The administration of the university has worked to address the issue of financial stability, which has been a concern for the university in recent years. The university is expected to increase slightly over last fall, according to spokesman Larry Lamb.

"In the last two years we have experienced a dip in in-coming students; however during that time there was a lot of talk about the financial stability of the university from the Virginia Council of Higher Education and by the Council, not by Liberty officials, stated that Liberty would not give up "its sense of purpose."

"But it's so much more than that. It's where people have lost the vision, apathy becomes epidemic," Lamb said.

"The church has been a forefront in the use of multiple services and is known for using innovative approaches to evangelism and campus programming."

"The probable bullet points are behind us and financial affairs, said."

"We are experiencing a flagship beginning. And the plan is to put it in place," Westervelt said.

"The probable bullet points are behind us and financial affairs, said."

"Our goal is to reach, teach and train men, women, boys and girls for Jesus Christ," Sweet said.

"Sweet has been the pastor of Atlantic Shores Baptist Church since 1987. In 1987, Sweet was placed on the staff of the church as a Sunday school teacher."

"Sweet then went into evangelism full-time, family-centered, yet aggressive ministry, according to Sweet. In 1981, Atlantic Shores received the award for being the "First Growing Church in Virginia."

"The church has a membership of approximately 120 with more than 67 percent of the adults actively involved in the church's ministry. And I am confident that this is just the beginning."

"The Council plans to render a final decision in early June.

"During a decision, the church will be a part of vibrant, growing ministries tailored to their needs at Atlantic Shores Baptist Church."

English department plans for computer lab

BY PAMELA WALCK
New Editor

The English department at Liberty University recently received a donation of 30 IBM-XT computers from a local business in an effort to help students write creatively with a computer writing center for the LU students.

According to King, co-founder of Computer Terminal Services, Inc. in Lynchburg, the purchased computers are for the new English Departmental Writing Center Users will have privacy during their writing and the computers will be computer literate. "The community is very interested in the students, most of them are visiting the students. They are interested in the work that students are doing. They are very willing to do the work," added King.

The English department has four scheduled English 101 classes out of class, that will be completely computer-based. "In the computer courses, the students will have only access to the computer room," King said, and there will be no paper-based instruction.

According to Vinny Woodard, a faculty member of the English department, the administration about this idea, and it is in favor of it.

The student court would consist of five or six judges—one chief justice and four associate justices. According to the chief justice, the decision would be made by a majority vote. The resolution suggested that the chief justice be appointed by the SGA executive committee nominating one person from the student body for the SGA committee. The associate justices would be selected by the chief justice and the student court.

In addition, the court would also have the "making of" a student court. The justices would have the power to remove a student judge if the student judge does not follow the rules or if the student judge is dishonest. The justices would have the power to remove a student judge if the student judge does not follow the rules or if the student judge is dishonest.

Radio program unites father's, son's, talents

By WENDY WILLSON

“Father’s, son’s talents” are the key words to the creation of radio program “Rejoice.”

Dr. Carl Windsor prepares to hit the airwaves during the weekly recording of “Rejoice,” a new alternative Sunday morning worship hour on the campus radio station, C-91. Windsor and his son, Trent, produce the show.

The Community Market, located in downtown Lynchburg, will be conducting musical entertainment from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., as the festival continues each day during the month.

The Virginia Military Institute and also the Virginia Military Institute of St. John's, each with the assistance of the Court of the Virginia Military Institute, each will be represented at the festival.

“Rejoice” is not just a D J show. It’s a blend of inspirational music and talk.

The special summer entertainment program of the Queen and Court Department will be held at 2 p.m. on Friday, April 30.

The additional cities and areas now covered by the internships guide includes New York City, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Denver, Dallas, San Francisco, Chicago, and the Raleigh/Durham Research Triangle.

The guides, which are published regularly, provide students with current points of contact, titles, addresses, phone and fax numbers.

The show has sold more than 10,000 copies.

The film, which will be projected on a large screen, is expected to be an inspirational music program which will have a start time of 9 a.m. and run until 10:30 a.m.

The U.S. government made another revolutionary change in the policy that has kept women out of combat. After Secretary Defence Les Aspin announced a policy change on Wednesday, April 28, that will allow women to be considered for combat assignments, the reaction from women flying combat missions and service officers was immediate. “This is the time for women,” said Air Force Capt. Richard A. Schrader, who was sent overseas during the Vietnam War. “I have never been allowed to use my experience to help my country. I have always been told that I can’t.”

The policy change means that dozens of women will now be open to women.

Although organizers of Sunday’s, April 25 gay rights march in Washington D.C. estimated the crowd at 1.4 million, area Park Police disputed this figure, saying the crowd was only 500,000 stronger. The purpose of the march was to show that gay people believe in the nation’s benefit in a combat situation.”

The U.S. news media were not able to report the full story of the World News and Advance. The article was denied access to the head of Coca-Cola’s technical division, where chemists develop the many flavors of Coke. The company made another revolutionary change on Wednesday, April 28, by adding a new soft drink to its line of previous, unsuccessful attempts at a total of 107 new companies. Buried in the News and Advance was the announcement that “Mark” X, who has been observed in the nation, is a feminist officer at the military institution where women are trained to be combat officers.

CLUE teaches students about magazine publication

By JOANNA TEDDER and CHERYL CHIPMAN

CLUE magazine, a new student publication developed by the journalism department's specialized publications class, began distribution in the DeMoss Dining on Monday.

The class, under the direction of Pat Ann Watson, consists of 10 students who began making plans for the magazine in January by meeting out of the course and magazine's office.

Institution, producing campus-wide, the class wanted the magazine to provide entertainment by focusing on the wide range of university personalities and activities.

"According to the LUCN, the magazine should have a positive image of the campus," declared Dr. Linda Miller, chairman of the journalism department.

The magazine is to give spiritual perspectives on what happens on campus.

"I wanted to create something that would show our student body that we are capable of competing with other large schools and that our creativity is just as great as theirs," Tucker said.

"I just hope that people will realize that they make up the school and that the power to make a good experience or a bad experience, depending on how much they're willing to put into it," he continued.

According to Watson, the articles range from fascinating history to campus happenings and campus events.

"I was extremely helpful," Tucker said. "I was also quite challenging to try my hand at creating classes together with other students once more." he continued.

CLUE staff members display their accumulation of business work and planning through the purpose to show students how a publication goes together from the inception to the idea to the distribution process.

The search for understanding spans a lifetime. It is the inquisition rather than a deliberative party. The point — proceed with caution, and be willing to risk for that which you hope. I have wanted several months to tackle this one. And here is my attempt. But first let me summarize:

Latch-key kids are not wholly responsible for family demise

Editor:

I am very impressed with the majority of LaFrombois' column this week. I know that your paper has returned to this situation for the past several weeks but I wanted to go on record as thinking that I agree with the writer. I do not agree with all of her points, but I do feel that she has brought an issue to the public eye that we all need to be aware of. From what I have seen of this problem in my community, it is overwhelming. Some of these kids are literally neglected by their parents. Others simply need a little more guidance and structure.

Author refuses responsibility for entire civilization's misdeeds

Editor:

I would like to respond to the letter to the editor concerning the responsibility of all for the family. The letter was written by an attorney who is quite knowledgeable in the field of law and who has written many articles on the subject.

I agree with the author's statement that the family is the basic unit of society and that the family is responsible for the upbringing of its children. However, I disagree with the author's statement that the family is the only responsible party.

I believe that society as a whole is responsible for the upbringing of its children. Society, through its institutions such as the educational system, the legal system, and the media, has a role to play in the upbringing of children. Society must provide a supportive environment for the family so that the family can fulfill its responsibilities.

In conclusion, I believe that society as a whole is responsible for the upbringing of its children, not just the family. We all need to take responsibility for the future of our children.

Congratulations Seniors

It's a special time in a student's life. A time of change. A time of endings and beginnings. The high school years are about to wrap up, and the future is looking bright. It's time to celebrate these students who have worked hard, improved, and achieved so much. You deserve our congratulations! We hope this has been a wonderful experience for you. We are so proud of you! The best is yet to come! Enjoy the moment! Enjoy the memories! Congratulations! We are so proud of you! We love you very much. We know the next four years will bring new challenges and new adventures. We wish you the very best of luck and success in the future. May God bless you. You don't hear it often enough, but you have more than you can imagine. We are so very proud of you. Congratulations! We're proud of you. We're proud of you. We're proud of you. You are our joy and our gift from God! Thank you for being such a wonderful daughter. You honor the Lord and us by maximizing your God-given talents and abilities. Congratulations on a job well done! Much love, Dad and Mom (Philippians 4:13)
Now that I'm graduating, how do I get that job?

By BRANDY BARNES

Every graduating senior wants to find a good job and earn a decent salary, but getting hired for that dream job, however, is more difficult than we think. In order to make the most of an interview, and hence make the impression necessary for school and the professional workplace, one must be well-prepared for the interview.

1) PREPARE AHEAD OF TIME

The person should try to find out something about the interviewer. In order to appear semi-intelligent, a person should have a few questions prepared to ask the interviewer.

The interview is very important to research the background of the company itself. Learn as much as possible concerning the desired position.

2) MAKE A GOOD IMPRESSION

It may be to wristwrite down the name of the company or the interviewer so that the interviewer will not think that the interview is not important. The interviewee should look at the interviewer when facing him or her.

3) DRESS PROFESSIONAL

By speaking in a clear voice and being friendly, a person keeps the interviewer interested. At the same time, a person in an interview is up a good positive feeling with the employer.

Spring has Sprung

Spring has always been a season of celebration. It symbolizes the rejuvenation of nature. Poets of all centuries have long sought to capture the essence of spring in verse.

For, lo, the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land.

-OLD TESTAMENT, Song of Solomon

In those vernal seasons of the year, when the air is calm and pleasant, it were an injury and sullenness against Nature not to go out and see her riches, and partake in her rejoicing with heaven and earth.

-MILTON, Tractate of Education

Came the Spring with all its splendor, All its birds and all its blossoms, All its flowers, and leaves, and grasses.

-LONGFELLOW, Hiawatha

In the spring a livelier iris changes on the burnish'd dove; In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love.

-TENNYSON, Locksley Hall

Spring manifests itself on campus in so many ways. With its surrounding landscape, the Liberty Bell enhances the beauty spring brings to Liberty University.

Sandle Ayers and Wade Burrows mix business with pleasure in the warm spring sun. When spring strikes Liberty, the courtyard is always full of couples studying, reading or just plain enjoying a beautiful day.

Robin Robertson works to beautify the landscape in front of the Vines Center. Spring motivates people of all ages to get out and plant flowers, trees and bushes and take advantage of a warm spring day.

1992-93 Liberty Year in Sports

Teams provided an interesting year for Flames fans, critics

By SHANNON D. HARRINGTON

The 1992-93 year in sports for the Flames was interesting in many ways.

Who would have guessed that after being picked by many to win the Big South Conference, the men's basketball team would end up being knocked-off in the first round of the Big South Conference Tournament? And who would have guessed that the football team, picked by Big South coaches to finish sixth in the conference, could have pulled off the best season since 1985, despite numerous key injuries?

But the team struggled in the regular season with a 4-7-1 record and a 5-6 Big South record. But the team was knocked out of the Big South Tournament in the first round by UNC-Greensboro, 6-3. Oddly, LU had defeated the Spartans the week before in the last game of the regular season.

In soccer action, LU had an impressive showing in the regular season, finishing with a 7-3-4 overall record and a .586 Big South record. But LU was knocked out of the Big South Tournament by the University of James Madison. With a 7-4 record at the end of the season, the team reached a second straight NCAA Division I playoff action, but missed the bid by one vote.

In tennis action, LU had an impressive showing in the regular season, finishing with a 13-4-1 overall record and a 5-0-1 Big South record. The women's tennis team, however, was defeated by Towson State.

The LU women's basketball team to a Big South title, but the Flames made a strong running for the NCAA Division 1-AA level. Tommy Barrington was named to the All-Conference Team, and Laura Miller was named to the All-Tournament Team and Co-MVP of the Big South Tournament. When "Old Man Winter" came to town, everyone was ready to heat up "The Furnace." And just as everyone was expecting great things out of their power-post duo, Julius Nwosu and Parrish Hickman, the team struggled in the regular season with a 9-6 conference record, which was their first ever NCAA Division 1-AA record. Parrish Hickman made his first and last year as a Flame a memorable one by leading the team in scoring with 17.4 points per contest. Hickman was also second on the team in rebounds with 7.1 per game behind LU center Julius Newson.

The football team struggled by losing a few close games but then turned around to win in their last three games, including an upset against intra-state rival James Madison. With 7-4 record at the end of the season, the team reached a second straight NCAA Division I playoff action, but missed the bid by one vote.

But things have recently been looking better for the Flames. The team has won six of its last eight Big South games, including a four-game winning streak.

If the baseball and track teams can continue their recent successes, the wrestling team also finished second in the Colonial Athletic Association.

Not as surprising but just as memorable, the wrestling team also finished second in the Colonial Athletic Association. When "Old Man Winter" came to town, everyone was ready to heat up "The Furnace." And just as everyone was expecting great things out of their power-post duo, Julius Nwosu and Parrish Hickman, the team struggled in the regular season with a 9-6 conference record, which was their first ever NCAA Division 1-AA record. Hickman was also second on the team in rebounds with 7.1 per game behind LU center Julius Newson.

Robbie Justino (left) ended his career with the LU football team as arguably the greatest quarterback in Flames history. Justino threw for a school record 9,557 yards over his career at Liberty. He also holds the career mark for total offense with 8,806 yards 54 touchdowns. Nationally, Justino moved into the top 10 at 10 at the NCAA Division 1-AA level with his career 9,557 total career yards. Justino finished the 1992-93 season 211 of 329 for 2,424 yards and 16 touchdowns.

Jake Hines (below) has been a powerful boost to the offense of the LU baseball team. Hines went a perfect six for six in batting for the Flames in the team's victory over William & Mary on Thursday, April 22. Hines is second on the team in batting with a .345 batting average. Center-fielder Charlie Kim leads the team in batting with a .376 batting average.
