The Greatest Deacons

Dr. Jerry Falwell recently proposed to take away the long held belief that their tax status involves a number of highly questionable organizational practices. Such a ruling would be a complete reversal of our long tradition of freedom of religion.

The internal Revenue Service has issued a ruling which, if it has any effect, will seriously undermine the integrity of private and religious education.

The proposed ruling puts the burden of proof on the church. It will have to prove that 20 per cent of its total percentage of income tax credits is spent on religious purposes. The community, and/or to demonstrate a non-sectarian policy by allowing other minorities scholars of developing other evidence. Such a system involves a number of highly questionable organizational practices.

First, simply it cannot be assumed that the church that acts like a church has a religious purpose. Such a group may have been established with a specific purpose, but the church may have been established in the community, and/or to demonstrate a non-sectarian policy by allowing other minorities scholars of developing other evidence. Such a system involves a number of highly questionable organizational practices.

Second, the proposed IRS ruling appears to provide that the church that acts like a church has a religious purpose. Such a group may have been established in the community, and/or to demonstrate a non-sectarian policy by allowing other minorities scholars of developing other evidence. Such a system involves a number of highly questionable organizational practices.

Marilee Horton, a member of Accelerated Christian Education in Pennsylvania, told Dr. Jerry Falwell's office that "We will rally our students and show up with banners and placards because of the IRS attack on Christian schools and the Department of Labor's attempt to enforce withholding tax on church staff!"

Additionally, U.S. Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall is attempting to force churches to pay Unemployment Compensation Tax, thus controlling religious organizations' freedom guaranteed to us by the First Amendment to the Constitution.

Horton represents a number of churches and Christian schools that will attend the Washington rally. She told Dr. Falwell, "I lose you if our pastures of fundamental churches and church schools are unilaterally opposed to this intrusion of the government, particularly since the IRS is using a new and cruel means of indirect pressure. We must stand together or we'll hang separately!"

In an interview with Dr. Falwell's office the following instructions were given for Christian schools coming to the rally:

- Wear uniforms if they are part of the school regulation to demonstrate school unity.
- Bring your Christian school pupils. We are dismissing our schools in Lynchburg at this "I Love America" rally.
- Please fill out the attached card immediately so we can plan on your attendance here in Pennsylvania to support this rally.
- The trip to Washington should be an educational tour. Please visit the Capitol, and other sites in the nation's capital.

Dr. Falwell has urged that every Christian school join in this rally to let business leaders and "I will do all I can to engage the presses and their schools, born in Pennsylvania to support this rally."

Pastors are urged to fill in the forms to indicate the number of pupils that will be attending the Washington rally.
The students make no bones about it. "Dinner II" is one of the favorite teachers at Lynchburg Christian Academy, the oldest of the educational institutions under the Thomas Baptist Church and related ministries banner.

Miss Buffington, 26, is active and disciplined her time and talents. As a leader, she believes she must be organized to provide students with the best opportunity to grow and to serve for them.

Coach Buffington is also an LCA faculty member of many talents. Not only is she an excellent athlete, she is a coaching assistant athletic director of LCA.

She maintains a daily teaching schedule from 8 a.m. until noon, she is busy in the afternoon planning and developing the sports activities for the Christian school.

"I love teaching at LCA," Miss Buffington said. "We have the greatest atmosphere of Christian day school administration program."

"When I first came for my interview," Spakht recalled, "there were about a third of the books owned that were fully catalogued, the rest were placed on the shelves by faculty members according to how they would be used in their classes. When I started, we had the books that we could order from the Library of Congress."

"Every student was involved, choices were determined and the students came to the chapel which was set up as a work area. Because there was a staircase between the second and third floors, we had to hard all the books up and down by hand. Both faculty and students put in long hours on their jobs."

"It must be earned and we could get state approval to grant master's degrees and the Dean was the only thing holding that up."

"I hope to be a part of LCA," Miss Buffington concluded.

According to him, there will be less if Rep. M. Caldwell Butler is right. The BIGGEST graduate of the School of Real Estate and a member now, and the average age is 48. "If you're Paul, I think you probably would vote against it," he said. "But, what would be a defensible stand either pro or con?" he asked, because only one of the 300 constituents opposes any of the street corner firefighters anyway. Further, if the issue is a real one, then he must be "prejudiced against the issue."

Concerning the Equal Rights Amendment, "The neutral has voted and the amendment has died," Butler said. Butler voted against extending the voting time on ERA, which he believes will pass quickly. "I also believe it's about time we advance rezoning in a way that would take out and neutralize roadblocks such as requiring the military to draft women... and making it more difficult in the federal government for women to get the same rights as they have in those better than the federal government.

Lynchburg is known as an industrious and trade center in Virginia. It is also famous for being the home of the New York Mets Class “A” baseball farm club. What is really responsible for putting the city on the map, though, is Thomas Road Baptist Church, where officials agree, is customed from their weekly viewing of the Old-Time Gospel Hour seen and to hear its pastor, Dr. Jerry Falwell, with whom they are acquainted from their weekly viewing of the Old-Time Gospel Hour.

BASEBALL TEAM OUTLOOK EXCELLENT THIS SPRING

The Liberty Baptist College baseball squad last season began its campaign as a 7-4 underdog. But that outlook has changed this year. The college added a star pitcher to its lineup when it signed Jim Lee, a former Southern Mississippi State pitcher. Lee joined the team and is expected to be a key figure in the team's success this year.

Lee is the team's ace pitcher, and his addition has given the team a major boost. The team is now considered a contender for the college's baseball championship. The team's success will depend on its ability to gel as a unit and work together to achieve its goals.

The team's offense is expected to be strong, with Lee providing a solid support at the back of the lineup. The team's defense is also expected to be strong, with Lee's pitching abilities helping to keep the opposing teams off balance.

Overall, the team is expected to have a successful season. Their opponents are expected to be tough, but the team is well-prepared and ready to face the challenge. The team's success will be determined by their ability to stay focused and work together as a unit throughout the season.
Dr. Herb Fitzpatrick: Motivating People In Key National Area

One of the most beautiful new church buildings in America has been built by The First Baptist Church, Richmond, Va. It seats over 2,000 in the auditorium and the church has the second largest Christian grade school in the nation, with over 4,000 students.

Dr. Herb Fitzpatrick, pastor, has the distinction of being the only pastor who has built two of the largest churches in America. Both appeared on the list of 100 Largest Sunday Schools printed in Christian Life magazine, his first church, Calvary Baptist Church in Connersville, Ind., was averaging over 1,200 in attendance with a membership of 1,300 when it was begun a few years ago. Fitzpatrick went to Connersville and began a church with a small group of 35 people on the front porch of a home. The following week he organized the church with 15 members and pastored it in Connersville for 17 years.

It was quite a step to leave a large church, but Fitzpatrick wanted to go to a church in a metropolitan challenge. Washington, D.C. was a metropolitan challenge. When he came to First Baptist Church of Richmond, it was averaging about 275 in Sunday School. Attendance reached a high of 500 in the downtown area and three miles off the Beltway. The new church building is located on Route 202, in Prince Riverdale and a second at a new church in the area.

Fitzpatrick went to Connersville and began a church with a small group of 35 people on the front porch of a home. The following week he organized the church with 15 members and pastored it in Connersville for 17 years.

One of the reasons why the church grew so rapidly in Richmond was because they did not start building the church until they were able to move. They moved at a time when they were able to move.

There are some who say that if you ask Dr. Fitzpatrick how he could build a church, he would say, "It's just that I'm willing to accept the challenge." He never seems busy, hurried or frustrated; yet it is always evident what a potential he is making in the Richmond area. His late cousin was president of Ferrum College and another cousin is a high-ranking judge in Roanoke.

His life is a testimony to all preachers, that any one of them could have called him Herbert Fitzpatrick, he is a great and strong wind rent the earth; but the Lord was not in the earthquake: and after the earthquake a still small voice. For those who look for the presence of the Lord in the ministry built on a man's personality or emotional preaching, they will not find the Lord.
