The Virginia Human Resource Games were hosted by the Center for Multicultural Enrichment and Fearless Community. The one and only most noteworthy award was the Gilder Lehrman Fellowship Award, which is awarded to an outstanding undergraduate student who excels in their studies. The most notable award of the evening was the Virginia Human Resource Games. The moment of recognition is a time for students to engage in the Virginia Human Resource Games. The center for multicultural enrichment and fearless community, the recipient of the award, received $5,000 and was presented by Dean Billy McLaughlin. The Liberty Blue team, and they went on to compete in the Virginia Human Resource Games. The other two teams that competed in the Virginia Human Resource Games were the Liberty Blue team and the Liberty Blue team. The final award of the evening was the Virginia Human Resource Games. The recipient of the award, received $5,000 and was presented by Dr. Mark Hine, founder of the Center for Multicultural Enrichment and Fearless Community. The evening was organized by Alexander Hatfield, who is watching us. Hatfield hopes to attend graduate school to receive his master's degree in early American history with a focus on teaching history. She also has a passion for research and writing, as well as an interest in vernacular public history communities or archives.

Liberty University decided to treat students to a day of no convocation and no classes. However, the break came with a catch. Students were required to participate in a campus-wide assessment test, which Liberty uses to evaluate the academic and co-curricular programs. Over 6,800 resident students showed up, as well as some LU Online students, to participate in the assessments, according to Sharon Wheeler, the associate director of University Assessment.

The purpose of the evaluation was to determine what areas need to be adjusted for the students to receive a challenging but balanced education, according to Executive Director of the University Testing Program Dr. Betsy Handy.

"It may turn out that students who took a particular teacher for MATH 115 all mastered the material — and if that's the case, we'll be asking that teacher what she is doing so that we can all try to do the same," Handy said.

"The university leadership and faculty take the results of assessment seriously, using the information gathered to improve academic programs on the overall Liberty University experience," Provost Dr. Boyd C. Rist said.

Many departments required students to participate in an additional assessment that helped them evaluate specific majors. The nursing program tested all different class levels, freshmen through seniors.

Simulated Lead Coordinator Kathryn M. Miller, RN, BSN, said that the assessment tests very beneficial for the departments.

"Not every subject is where we as faculty and staff are currently assessing and developing our students," she said about her students' skills. "Therefore, we anticipate great improvement on critical thinking test post scores as these same students test as seniors this year."

The English department also had its own assessment.

"I actually enjoyed taking the English assessment because I liked seeing how much I have learned," senior Jill Johnson said.

The School of Business assessed approximately 200 students with a test that was designed to help them evaluate the students on particular levels in which they were in their sophomore, junior and senior levels, according to the Dean of Business Dr. Bruce Bell.

"Once we run all the results, I'll be able to see where we are struggling and where that should help us in covering those subjects in greater detail," Bell said.

Many students, like junior James Jarman, still doubt that the university will learn much from the assessments. Jarman participated in the oral communication portion of the assessment and left it that was not that advantageous to him or the university.

"I think it would have benefitted more if the test were launched. It doesn't really display what underachievement really learned because they haven't had the chance to learn much yet," Jarman said.

However, many students, like junior Lee Cook, felt that the assessment was very valuable.

"I hope the assessment day proves to be the faculty's rallying cry — demanding intellectual solidarity from Christian community via worthy goal," Cook said.

Liberty offered incentives for students to come out and take the test. Decorating bags, water bottle holders emblazoned with the Liberty logo were given out to all students who took the tests, and each student was entered into a drawing for other prizes. The school gave away two GPS devices, four digital cameras, eight iPods, four Bluetooth headsets, eight flash drives and 55 Barnes & Noble gift cards. They also gave away four grand prizes: Dell Land Pentium Laptops to Rachel Maffi and Stella Wistar, and Nintendo Wia to Louise J Taxon and Mary Strole.

A Word to the Wise

"I would like to advise freshmen to study hard and know that college is serious. I would tell them to get involved in their major quickly and to build friendships with their professors," he would tell them not to have premarital sex and to play too much Halo. I would tell them to do CampusLife and to know themselves before they start dating. I would tell them to talk to God a lot and to take pride in their country, to love their friends fiercely, to challenge their own perspectives, and to fight against injustice. I would tell them to develop themselves into something respectable."

Some day, in the distant future, there will be a man looking at a map of the United States, and he will see a city named Boston. He will wonder why that city is so important and why people are so passionate about it. He will learn that the Boston Tea Party erupted across the states. But these events can also be viewed through childhood experiences and the emotions of individuals who lived through them.

Steeping discontent boils over again

Boston Tea Party Historical Society

Regrettably, the events of the Boston Tea Party cannot be ignored, as their legacy is felt to this day. The tea party movement of the early 20th century was a direct descendant of the Boston Tea Party, which took place in 1773. The Boston Tea Party was a protest against British taxes, which were imposed on the American colonies without their consent. In response, colonists dumped 342 chests of tea into the harbor of Boston to demonstrate their opposition.

Today, the Boston Tea Party is remembered as a significant event in American history. It marked the beginning of the American Revolution and inspired future generations to stand up for their rights. The Boston Tea Party Historical Society is dedicated to preserving the memory of this event and educating future generations about its importance.

The Boston Tea Party is a symbol of the power of collective action and the importance of standing up for what is right. It is a reminder of the strength of the human spirit and the ability of people to come together to achieve a common goal.

The opening of the new store was preceded by an hour of exciting festivities and entertainment. Free kettle corn, cotton candy, drinks and T-shirts were available to the assembled group, who also had the chance to get up close and personal with Sparky, the Liberty mascot, and Dr. Seuss' Cat in the Hat. Flames cheerleaders and LU Praise were also part of the festivities.

"At 10 am, Chancellor Jerry Falwell Jr. spoke to the waiting crowd, describing the bookstore as just the first of many projects being developed around the campus. After a few brief speeches by the group within Liberty and Barnes & Noble who helped make the store a reality, Thomas Road Pastor Jonathan Talwell prayed for the building. "We dedicate this building and the books in it to encourage and inspire,' he said.

Within moments, a large pair of scissors was raised, Jerry Jr. snipped away, and the crowd gasped, not before gathering into the store where signs and banners welcomed students, alumni and faculty.

"I am impressed," Director of the Office of Student Leadership Douglas Cowan said Tuesday night about the store's opening.

On the first floor, students and other customers could get a cup of coffee, work & Nola, while enjoying significant student involvement in the bookstore. Books, sports, arts and photography—spheres that were not traditionally permitted in the old store—can be found on the lower floor of Noxall Hall. Students taking classes and working on projects including Basketball and Beyond, CMAC, and the Army ROTC are involved.

An added major attraction of the day was the book signing by Michael Fishel, author of "Jerry Falwell" (Little Brown & Company) who signed copies of the book along with his morning radio show on 99.9 FM Life. The bookstore line was much longer than for the other students who bought books at the bookstore.

"I was impressed by the amount of older people. I thought that it would be a bunch of college kids because to me it was kind of a Facebook movement," senior Jared Peterson said.

Liberty students are given a unique opportunity to be involved in the selection of responsible officials, as college students are able to register to vote in the state that houses the institution they attend. Both Coble and McIntyre approve of Liberty's encouragement to students to take action.

"I feel the people of America are now finally deciding to come together, to voice their opinions, instead of letting the media decide what their opinion should be, as we have let them do for several years now," Talwell said.

Winthrop in mid-season three-game sweep

AXEL CERVEN, SPORTS REPORTER

The Flames baseball team is moving down the stretch of its last few games against some below-average competition. The Flames own a .681 winning percentage and have a 28-11 overall record.

"I think we're coming into our prime," coach Holmberg said. "We're starting to click and put together some solid performances." The Flames have won five straight games, including a three-game sweep of Big South rival-Winthrop Eagles.

"We're playing with all our energy and enthusiasm," centre-right catcher Cody Brown said. "We're having fun out there and our spirits are high."

For the third consecutive possession, Gardner-Webb's Landis scrambled his way to the outside, but the Flames found the end zone with a 10-yard touchdown pass to horns. Running back Terion Lawrence was highlighted by quarterback Spencer Bonami winning the fourth match 6-3, 6-1, 6-0.

"We're having a great week of practice and it's paying off on the court," said junior Chad Simpson. "We're hitting our shots and playing great defense."

The Flames' offense only tacked on 11 points in the first half, while the defense scored four for 14 points. The offense is a work in progress, but the start of the season is positive. The Flames held a No. 5 seed, came up with the big win over Gardner-Webb, defeated the Monarchs 10-4 on the road and as the sun beats down a little stronger, the Flames look to sweep the series against Winthrop 32-0. They have won three of which included a series sweep of Big South rival-Winthrop Eagles.

"We are not satisfied as a team to lose in the semifinals," said senior captain Jordan Losasso. "We need to keep improving and working hard to get to the championship game."

FRAZEE SELECTED AS SILVER STAR

Plants fans have been using their rallying cry of "We Love Megan" to help them put up with the pain of losing the franchise trio—Megan Miller, Melissa McFerrin and Megan Frazee—through this challenging season. Frazee's accomplishments were recognized on the growing sport's biggest stage.

"It's kind of unbelievable to me to think about," Coach Green said in affirmation of his team's latest addition. "It's not about me, but about her work ethic and desire. It's about the things that she's done, the things that she's sacrificed to get where she's at."

"I'll always be a Megan Frazee fan," Coach Green said in affirmation of his team's latest addition. "I think it's more than an achievement for the Lady Flames. For her, it's a God thing," he said.

"San Antonio didn't have a pick," Green reminisced. "They grew to love Megan, and they'd be very happy to have her."

"I'm sure it's even going to be bigger going from the college to the professional game, and I'm sure it's going to be bigger for Megan. She has a lot of potential." Megan's potential has been acknowledged by many since the start of her career. She played with dolls, toying with the idea of becoming a professional athlete. Her parents, however, are her biggest fans. She has always been a Megan Frazee fan, but she is also close to her family and friends by playing basketball with her sisters in their home gym.

The Flames defense was highlighted by a strong showing from Jamal Giddens, who registered seven tackles.

The white team posted 139 yards on the ground in Saturday's 42-25 victory.

The Flames tallied 407 yards of total offense and used three first half touchdowns to secure the victory.

Sophomore QB Mihe Brown looks to complete a pass in Saturday's spring game.

Senior receiver Aaron Hewlett tallied 42 all-purpose yards as the offense found an early rhythm in the first half.

Human Resource Management Courses and Specialization

"The Music Man" Marches onto Liberty's stage

Emily DeFosse

A spring musical "The Music Man" is the focus as Director Nell Cooper planned for the Drama Department's production of "The Music Man." The play stars Harold Hill, played by a new actor. DeVries, IL, a community who believes in music and encourages its students to learn it every time they're free. However, he does not know a sharp note from a flat note, and leaves the production more accurate.

That is desired production. "He is the biggest salesman yet the person he sells the most is himself," Cooper says. "He buys his own merchandise and then realizes that there is goodness in people, and that goodness helps him find the goodness in himself." DeVries found Hill challenging yet rewarding character to portray. In the majority of the first act, he is given the freedom to let his portrayal of Hill's character and go a little farther.

Cooper said one of the reasons he decided to perform the play was to give the students experience working with children. "It has been a long time since our shows," Cooper said. "We did 'West Side Story' a few years ago. So we thought it would be good for learning experience for our college students. It's about a lot of Hill. The audience may see how they do in the professional field. They will have to use the skills they learned in school."

One thing that has really impressed me with the kids is how they keep up with everything," Frazier said. "They never once let me down, and I think that's due to the choreography they are doing, as well as the singing and dancing.

According to Cooper, another reason the kids love the show is the cast. "Trina Turk is the Tony Award winner that musical," Cooper said. "We have the first kids I've seen that come over to me and say, 'I want to be like you.'"

Cooper says "The Music Man" is a very strong story to 1930s, starting in simple town and ending in success.

DeVries views "The Music Man" as a light-hearted story about tradition. "It is a story about people that are not very imaginative. They are traditional and set in the past," he said. "There is this man who comes and shows them so much about life and living and joy that they never realized. They all have the potential to make music."

The play features many well-known show tunes such as "Trombones," "Goodnight My Someone" and "Till There Was You."

The play was directed by Nell Cooper, head of the Drama Department. The performance was well-received, with the audience giving it a standing ovation. The play is scheduled for two more performances on May 19 and 20 at 7:30 p.m. at the Liberty High School auditorium.
